SEMINARIAN HANDBOOK

revised: Summer 2018
TABLE OF CONTENTS

VISION AND MISSION STATEMENT .................................................................................. 8

I. VISION STATEMENT ................................................................................................. 8

II. MISSION STATEMENT ............................................................................................. 8

FORMATION ADVISING PROGRAM ........................................................................... 9

I. INTRODUCTION ........................................................................................................ 9
   A. The Seminary Community .................................................................................. 9
   B. Areas of Formation and their Convergence in Conversion ............................... 10
   C. Agents in Formation ......................................................................................... 10

II. THE FORMATION PROCESS .................................................................................. 11
   A. On the Way toward Priesthood ......................................................................... 11
   B. The Role of the Faculty in the Formation of Seminarians ............................... 13

III. THE EVALUATION PROCESS ................................................................................. 17
   A. Documentation for the Evaluation ................................................................... 17
   B. Raising Concerns about Students .................................................................... 18
   C. Components of the Student’s Evaluation ....................................................... 18
   D. Faculty Input / Formation Team Voting for Ministries, Candidacy, and Advisors’ Reports ........................................................................................................... 24
   E. Dismissal of Candidates from the Seminary .................................................... 25

FORMATION ADVISING - APPENDIX A: STUDENT RECORDS ........................................ 27

I. PRINCIPLES OF FERPA ......................................................................................... 27

II. NATURE AND CONTENT OF FILES ...................................................................... 27
   A. Directory Information ...................................................................................... 27
   B. The Personal File .............................................................................................. 27
   C. Academic Transcripts and other Academic Files .......................................... 28

FORMATION ADVISING - APPENDIX B: CANONICAL REQUIREMENTS FOR ORDERS ......................................................... 29

I. POSTING NAMES AND OBLIGATION TO REPORT .............................................. 29

II. IRREGULARITIES AND OTHER IMPEDIMENTS ................................................... 29

III. CODE OF CANON LAW, CANONS 1040-1049 ..................................................... 29

FORMATION ADVISING - ISSUES FOR PRE-THEOLOGY ........................................... 31

I. INTRODUCTION ...................................................................................................... 31

II. EXPECTATIONS ..................................................................................................... 31
   A. Human Formation ............................................................................................ 31
   B. Spiritual and Liturgical Formation .................................................................. 32
   C. Intellectual Formation .................................................................................... 34
   D. Pastoral Formation .......................................................................................... 34

FORMATION ADVISING - ISSUES FOR FIRST THEOLOGY ....................................... 35

I. INTRODUCTION ...................................................................................................... 35

II. EXPECTATIONS ..................................................................................................... 35
   A. Human Formation ............................................................................................ 35
   B. Spiritual Formation .......................................................................................... 36
   C. Intellectual Formation .................................................................................... 37
   D. Pastoral Formation .......................................................................................... 38

FORMATION ADVISING - ISSUES FOR SECOND THEOLOGY .................................... 39

I. INTRODUCTION ...................................................................................................... 39

II. EXPECTATIONS ..................................................................................................... 39
   A. Human Formation ............................................................................................ 39
   B. Spiritual Formation .......................................................................................... 40
   C. Intellectual Formation .................................................................................... 41
   D. Pastoral Formation .......................................................................................... 42

FORMATION ADVISING - ISSUES FOR THIRD THEOLOGY ....................................... 43

I. INTRODUCTION ...................................................................................................... 43

II. EXPECTATIONS ..................................................................................................... 43
   A. Human Formation ............................................................................................ 43
A. Spiritual Formation .............................................................................................................. 44
B. Intellectual Formation ......................................................................................................... 45
C. Pastoral Formation ............................................................................................................... 45

FORMATION ADVISING - ISSUES FOR FOURTH THEOLOGY ...................................................... 47

I. INTRODUCTION ..................................................................................................................... 47
II. EXPECTATIONS .................................................................................................................... 47
  A. Human Formation ................................................................................................................. 47
  B. Spiritual Formation ............................................................................................................ 48
  C. Intellectual Formation ....................................................................................................... 48
  D. Pastoral Formation ............................................................................................................ 49

ACADEMIC NORMS .................................................................................................................. 51

I. INTRODUCTION ..................................................................................................................... 51
II. INTELLECTUAL FORMATION OF FUTURE PRIESTS .......................................................... 51
III. REGISTRATION ................................................................................................................... 52
     A. Enrollment ........................................................................................................................ 52
     B. Drop/Add Course Policy ................................................................................................. 52
     C. Independent Study/Tutorial Courses .............................................................................. 52

IV. COURSE WORK .................................................................................................................. 53
     A. Syllabi: .............................................................................................................................. 53
     B. Required Reading ............................................................................................................ 54
     C. Examinations ................................................................................................................... 54
     D. Papers/Written Reports .................................................................................................. 54
     E. Academic Assistance ....................................................................................................... 54
     F. Student Course Evaluations .......................................................................................... 55

V. MASTER OF ARTS (THEOLOGY) DEGREE PROGRAM ............................................................ 55
     A. Admission ........................................................................................................................ 55
     B. Degree Requirements ..................................................................................................... 56
     C. Portfolio of Written Research Projects ........................................................................... 56
     D. Thesis Option .................................................................................................................. 57
     E. Comprehensive Examination ......................................................................................... 58
     F. Written Comprehensive Examination (* FOR EXCEPTIONAL CASES ONLY) ..................... 60
     G. M.A. (theology) degree completion ................................................................................. 60
     H. Honors at Graduation ..................................................................................................... 61
     I. Withdrawal from the M.A. (theology) degree program .................................................. 61
     J. Withdrawal from a Research Course ............................................................................... 61
     K. Failure of a Research Course .......................................................................................... 61
     L. Failure to Earn a Grade of at least “B” in a Research Project ........................................ 62

VI. MASTER OF DIVINITY (M.DIV.) DEGREE/ORDINATION FORMATION PROGRAM ............ 62
     A. Academic Requirements .................................................................................................. 62
     B. Pastoral Field Education .................................................................................................. 62
     C. Priesthood Integration Assessment .................................................................................. 62
     D. Honors at Graduation ..................................................................................................... 62
     E. Withdrawal from the M.Div. degree/Ordination Formation Program .............................. 63

VII. BACHELOR OF SACRED THEOLOGY (S.T.B.) DEGREE PROGRAM .................................... 63
     A. Purpose ............................................................................................................................. 63
     B. Admission Requirements ............................................................................................... 63
     C. Degree Requirements ..................................................................................................... 63
     D. Withdrawal from the S.T.B. degree program .................................................................. 65
     E. Model S.T.B. program ..................................................................................................... 66

VIII. DEGREE DISTINCTION ....................................................................................................... 67
     A. Master of Divinity (M.Div.) ............................................................................................... 67
     B. Master of Arts (theology) ................................................................................................. 67
     C. Bachelor of Sacred Theology (STB) ................................................................................ 67
D. Dual Degree Candidacy

IX. PRE-THEOLOGY FORMATION PROGRAM

X. DISCIPLINARY QUESTIONS
A. Attendance
B. Tardiness
C. Classroom Conduct
D. Academic Integrity
E. Grade Options for Courses Not Completed
F. Academic Probation
G. Academic Deficiency Reports

XI. STUDENT ACADEMIC RECORDS
A. Grade Reports
B. Academic Files
C. Confidentiality of Student Records
D. Notification of Student Rights under FERPA

XII. ACADEMIC FREEDOM

XIII. ONGOING REVISION OF THESE NORMS
A. Review Procedures
B. Groups Responsible for Review

ACADEMIC NORMS – M.A.P.S. PROCEDURES AND NORMS

I. ADMISSION
A. Requirements
B. Application

II. DEGREE REQUIREMENTS
A. Logic Proficiency
B. Coursework
C. Grade Point Average
D. Preliminary Paper
E. Qualifying Paper

III. DEGREE COMPLETION

IV. PROBATION (WITHIN MAPS)

V. APPENDIX: MODEL CURRICULUM FOR SEMINARIANS

PASTORAL FORMATION

I. INTRODUCTION: WHAT IT IS - OBJECTIVES OF PASTORAL FORMATION
A. Professional
B. Ministerial
C. Relational
D. Personal
E. Theological

II. DESIRED OUTCOMES OF PASTORAL FIELD EDUCATION

III. PASTORAL FORMATION AND PFE EXPERIENCES: WHAT IT IS NOT

IV. TWO ELEMENTS OF SUPERVISED MINISTRY
A. Supervised Ministry in Approved Ministry Placements
B. Theological Reflection

V. GENERAL FIELD EDUCATION REQUIREMENTS
A. Full compliance with the PFE syllabus:
B. Faithful attendance at the pastoral placement:
C. Attendance at scheduled pastoral field education workshops:
D. Completion of all written requirements:
E. Submission of all materials and proper copies distributed by the established date:
F. Other requirements on a case-by-case basis:

VI. PASTORAL FORMATION GOALS (DISTINCT FROM PFE LEARNING CONTRACT GOALS)

VII. PASTORAL AND THEOLOGICAL REFLECTION (DESCRIPTION)
VIII. DETAILS OF ALL PFE WRITTEN REQUIREMENTS

A. Completed and Signed Syllabus: ................................................................. 90
B. PFE Theological Reflection #1: Fourth Year Theologian Presentation ................. 90
C. Fourth Year Theological Reflection: ............................................................. 90
D. PFE Review: All Seminarians except Fourth Year ........................................ 91
E. PFE Theological Reflection: On a Pastoral Experience ................................ 91
G. Final PFE Evaluations and PFE Visits ......................................................... 91
H. Preference Forms and Evaluation of the PFE Assignment ................................ 92
I. Voluntary Evaluation of the PFE Site by Seminarian ..................................... 92

IX. FIELD EDUCATION POLICIES

A. PFE Schedule – General Principles ............................................................. 92
B. Hours of Service: ....................................................................................... 92
C. Absences ................................................................................................... 94
D. Inclement Weather or Other Emergencies .................................................. 94
E. Deadlines for all Written Materials ............................................................ 94
F. House Cars ............................................................................................... 94
G. PFE Masses ............................................................................................... 94
H. Mediation .................................................................................................. 95
I. Mileage Reimbursements for all PFE Seminarians ....................................... 95
J. Deacon’s Pastoral Service Compensation ................................................... 95
K. Other Policies as Needed ............................................................................ 96

X. PRE-THEOLOGY OPTIONS FOR PFE ASSIGNMENTS (BRIEF DESCRIPTION)

XI. FOURTH THEOLOGIAN INTERNSHIPS (FURTHER CLARIFICATIONS OF POLICIES)

A. Parish Assignments: .................................................................................. 96
B. Syllabus Requirements: ............................................................................. 97
C. Weekday Duties: ....................................................................................... 97
D. International 4th year theologians: .............................................................. 97
E. Exemptions: ............................................................................................... 97

XII. POLICY REGARDING SPORTS CHAPLAINS AND ROTC CHAPLAINS

XIII. SUMMER EVALUATIONS AND PASTORAL YEAR EVALUATIONS

A. Summer Evaluations: ................................................................................ 99
B. Pastoral Year: ............................................................................................ 99

PASTORAL FORMATION – APPENDIX: SUGGESTED READINGS FOR THEOLOGICAL REFLECTION WITH SMALL GROUPS

I. FIRST YEAR - TEACHING MINISTRY ............................................................ 101
II. SECOND YEAR - HEALTH CARE / SOCIAL MINISTRY ............................... 101
III. THIRD YEAR - EVANGELIZATION MINISTRY .......................................... 101

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITIES ..................................................................... 103

I. STUDENT GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES ....................................................... 103
A. Definition .................................................................................................. 103
B. Process ..................................................................................................... 103
C. Appeal ...................................................................................................... 104

II. INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS (NON-US CITIZENS) .................................... 104

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION .................................................... 105

THE CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS OF MOUNT ST. MARY’S SEMINARY STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION .... 105

PREAMBLE .................................................................................................... 105

ARTICLE I: DUTIES AND POWERS OF THE SEMINARY STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION ........................................... 105

ARTICLE II: EXECUTIVE BODIES AND MEETINGS ..................................... 106

I. EXECUTIVE BODIES OF THE SGA ............................................................... 106
A. The Executive Committee ........................................................................ 106
B. The Executive Board ................................................................................ 107
C. The General Assembly ............................................................................. 107
II. Subsidiary Bodies of the SGA ........................................................................................................ 108
   A. Class Assemblies: .................................................................................................................. 108
   B. Class Officers and Representatives: .................................................................................. 108
   C. House Committees .............................................................................................................. 109
   D. Working Committees .......................................................................................................... 111
   E. Associated Committees ...................................................................................................... 111

Article III: Elections and Terms of Office .................................................................................. 111

I. SGA Elections .......................................................................................................................... 111
   A. The Executive Committee .................................................................................................. 111
   B. The Class Representatives ............................................................................................... 112
   C. Resignation ....................................................................................................................... 112
   D. Procedures for Removal .................................................................................................... 112
   E. Succession .......................................................................................................................... 112

Article IV: Amendments and Regular Revision of the Constitution and By-Laws .................. 113

I. Regular Revision of the Constitution and By-Laws ............................................................... 113
II. Amendments and Revisions ............................................................................................... 113
III. Ratification .......................................................................................................................... 113

Article V: Financial Procedures and Audits .......................................................................... 113

I. Disbursement(s) of funds (cash or check) by a Class President: ........................................ 114
II. Disbursement(s) from the Student Government Association (SGA): .............................. 114
III. Seeking reimbursement from the Student Government Association (SGA) ....................... 114
IV. The procedures for a class to borrow monies (a loan) from the Student Government Association are: ...................................................................................................................... 115
V. Internal auditing of the financial books and records will be done in the following manner: ................................................................................................................................. 116
VI. Mount St. Mary University Auditors ............................................................................... 117

The Story of the Mount ............................................................................................................ 118

Significant Dates in the History of the Mount .......................................................................... 123

Schedules and Hours of Operation .......................................................................................... 125
   Daily Liturgical Schedule ..................................................................................................... 125
   Conferences Schedule ......................................................................................................... 125
   Weekday Solemnity Schedule ............................................................................................. 125
   Campus-Wide Hours of Operation ........................................................................................ 126
   Knott ARCC (Athletic, Recreation, and Convocation Center) .............................................. 127
VISION and MISSION STATEMENT

I. VISION STATEMENT

To invite men to “go up to the mountain” (Haggai 1:8), so that we might send down holy, self-sacrificial shepherds for the people of God, to light a fire on the earth for the salvation of souls.

II. MISSION STATEMENT

Mount St. Mary’s Seminary prepares men for the Catholic ministerial priesthood in the Third Millennium; men who love with the heart of the Church, think with the mind of the Church, and are formed to have an integrated core of human, intellectual, spiritual, and pastoral virtues modeled by Jesus Christ, our High Priest.
FORMATION ADVISING PROGRAM

I. INTRODUCTION

The principles and norms of Mount St. Mary’s Seminary Formation Program are based on Pope John Paul II’s Apostolic Exhortation, Pastores Dabo Vobis (PDV), and the Program for Priestly Formation, fifth edition (PPF) of the American bishops.

“Christians are made, not born.” With these words, Tertullian (Apol. xviii) points out something about becoming a Christian that also applies to becoming a priest. People do not arrive in the world as ready-made Christians, nor do men arrive in the seminary as ready-made priests. Baptism and Holy Orders both presuppose conversion and formation. The celebration of these sacraments marks the end of a time of preparation but opens out onto a lifetime of ongoing formation. Our configuration to Christ in Baptism must be followed by an ever greater conformity of ourselves to the Lord in the Spirit (Rom 8:29) until we grow to full stature (Eph 4:13). In the same way, the configuration to Christ the Head and Shepherd of the Church in Holy Orders requires the priest to enter into ever deeper friendship and communion with the Lord over the course of a lifetime (PDV 42). Neither the Christian life nor the priesthood is a vocation that we possess once and for all, but are rather gifts which must be actively and gratefully received each day anew.

A. The Seminary Community

The seminary can be responsible only for the initial process of formation leading up to the celebration of Holy Orders, the proximate preparation of candidates for the priesthood, but it views this in the broader horizon of life-long ongoing formation (PDV 42). The goal of the seminary is to instill in candidates for priesthood what a good professor tries to instill in his students: a desire to go on learning and growing in knowledge and wisdom long after formal schooling is ended.

The seminary can help a candidate for the priesthood only if he recognizes when he arrives that he is not ready-made, but needs formation, and that he continues to need it long after he leaves the seminary. A seminarian’s very first step in formation is recognition of his need for formation – a step that is reflected in an attitude of openness to the direction of those charged with his formation by his bishop.

The model for formation is the personal relationship which developed between Christ and his apostles. He called them apart to spend time with him, “to develop a relationship of deep communion and friendship with himself” (PDV 42), before sending them out on mission. Jesus calls his disciples “friends” (Jn 15:14-15), who enjoy a deep personal communion with himself and with one another (Jn 17:20-21). Since salvation depends on knowing “the only true God” and Jesus Christ who was sent by him (Jn 17:3), the disciples felt impelled to invite others to join their fellowship, so that all might be one (Jn 17:21; 1Jn1:3). Formation is therefore primarily about communion and mission: communion in the Lord in order to help carry on his saving mission. Evangelization and missionary zeal flow from the joy of friendship with Christ.

This Christological model of communion means that formation must be much more than a fulfillment of external requirements, which in turn implies that the seminary should be a “spiritual place, a way of life, an atmosphere that fosters and ensures a process of formation, so that the person who is called to the priesthood by God may become, with the sacrament of orders, a living image of Jesus Christ, Head and Shepherd of the Church” (PDV 42). Ideally the seminary should offer the “possibility of re-living the experience of formation which our Lord provided for the Twelve” (PDV 60). The seminary should be a true ecclesial community that is built up as each puts his own gift at the service of others and as all gather to pray and worship together.
B. Areas of Formation and their Convergence in Conversion

While the seminary should be something like a continuation of the apostolic community gathered around Jesus (PDV 60), it is also unique in that it is “committed to formation, the human, spiritual, intellectual and pastoral formation of future priests” (PDV 61). The development of friendship and communion with Christ requires much more than a vague relationship with him. To be a living image of Jesus the Head and Shepherd of the Church demands certain specific qualities as a human being, a spiritual leader, a teacher, and a pastor. Wanting to follow in Jesus’ footsteps as a priest is not enough, though this desire is an important first step. The Church must also ensure that those whom she sends out to care for the Christian community and to preach the gospel are humanly, spiritually, intellectually, and pastorally prepared for this mission.

It is necessary to integrate human formation with the other three pillars of formation -- the spiritual, the intellectual and the pastoral. In the spiritual realm, grace builds on and perfects nature. Intellectually, a man must grow in the human functions of perception, analysis and judgment. Pastorally, a priest connects with and cares for others with his human personality (PPF 82). It is important to see the four pillars as different aspects of a more fundamental conversion of mind and heart, moments in a lifelong personal transformation. Hence, formation is not simply about acquiring skills or taking courses or fulfilling a rule of life but about utilizing these as means to an end -- the ever deeper configuration of a man to Christ the Head and Shepherd of the Church, so that he takes on the mind and heart of Jesus Christ and can say, “It is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me” (Gal 2:20).

C. Agents in Formation

The bishop and the local Church are ultimately responsible for the formation of priests, but the bishop entrusts the day-to-day formation of candidates for the priesthood to “the Rector, the spiritual father or spiritual director, the superiors and professors” of the seminary (PDV 66). The Rector alone has the ultimate responsibility for recommending candidates for advancement and sending seminarians’ evaluations to their ordinaries. He is assisted by the formation team, the academic faculty, pastoral placement supervisors, and many others in preparing candidates and reaching a decision regarding advancement and ordination.

The whole seminary community, as well as communities outside the seminary with which seminarians interact, all serve as agents of formation. Yet formation would always remain extrinsic if the candidate for ordination were not himself an active agent in his own formation. The formation process for priesthood is not merely the acquisition of skills but also entails a real change in one’s inner being. Though this interior transformation occurs primarily through the agency of the Holy Spirit, it also depends on the cooperation of the candidate, who is instrumental not only as the one being formed but also as an agent of his own formation. In the Holy Father’s words:

“Lastly, we must not forget that the candidate himself is a necessary and irreplaceable agent in his own formation: All formation, priestly formation included, is ultimately a self-formation. No one can replace us in the responsible freedom we have as individual persons.” (PDV 69).

Placing the weight of formation on the individual person is only proper in light of the vision of the priest as a living image of Jesus the Head and Shepherd of the Church.
II. THE FORMATION PROCESS

A. On the Way toward Priesthood

1. Introduction
   If the individual candidate is ultimately responsible for his own formation, he must be able to formulate the specific goals he wants and needs to attain in the four areas of priestly formation: human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral. However, he does not perform this task in isolation or without help. The formation faculty, especially the advisor who is assigned to him as a mentor, assists and guides him in this task. In this section, the meaning of goal setting will be set forth, including the issues in each of the four areas of formation which should be considered in formulating goals. In the subsequent section, the role of the formation faculty and specifically the faculty advisor will be clarified.

2. Seminary Policies
   Seminarians must become familiar with the activities and policies of the Seminary and are required to read the entirety of the Rule of Life and the Seminarian Handbook (also available in PDF format on the Seminary website). Seminarians will be advised by email of any significant changes to the policies in these documents.

3. Setting Goals
   a. The Purpose and Meaning of Goals
      The candidates for the priesthood arrive in the seminary with some pre-understanding of the priesthood, which comes from catechesis, the study of theology, the reading of Church documents like Pastores Dabo Vobis or the Decree on Priestly Life and Ministry from Vatican II, and the observation of priests with whom they have been associated. What is asked of all candidates is that there be a fundamental openness to deepening their understanding of the priesthood by learning from the Church’s rich tradition and from the wisdom and experience of those who have been entrusted with priestly formation.

      Since no one arrives in the seminary a ready-made priest, the candidate must recognize his need for human, spiritual, intellectual and pastoral formation. This recognition first entails acknowledging areas of personal growth that entail not only a variety of skills necessary for priestly ministry but also, more importantly, specific ways that he will become more completely conformed to Jesus the Head and Shepherd of the Church. Though others will assist the seminarian in formulating appropriate goals that will address all four areas of formation, he must ultimately formulate and take responsibility for the goals himself for proper formation to occur. As the candidate matures, his understanding of priesthood and his own vocation will develop, and so his goals should also evolve.

   b. Formulating Goals
      The starting point for goals should always be a seminarian’s last seminary evaluation. He should address any areas of growth identified there. Seminarians who are new to seminary and lack such an evaluation should start with any areas of growth identified in the application process. The next points of reference for all seminarians should be the Year-by-Year Issues: Pre-Theology, First Year, Second Year, Third Year, Fourth Year (see these appendices below). Drawing on these sources, the seminarian should formulate his goals after careful reflection, prayer, and consultation with his spiritual director and faculty advisor.

      Goals should bring about real growth in a person, so they should not be just isolated actions that can be carried out in a perfunctory or mechanical way and that do not really challenge one to conversion and self-transformation. In formulating a goal, one should ask, “Will this cost me something? Will it move me beyond where I am and challenge me?” Real growth requires a “pruning back” (John 15:2) and a discipline which can be painful but “in the end it yields for those who have been trained by it the peaceful harvest of an honest life” (Heb 12:11). To be able to see where we need to be formed presupposes a basic honesty and transparency to ourselves regarding what we lack and how we need to change for the better.

Seminarians are to write a brief statement of one to three goals that they wish to attain for each of the four areas of formation – human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral. Seminarians are to present their statement in draft form to their advisors in the fall of each year after discussing their goals with him, and they should give their goal-setting statement to their advisors by the date indicated in the formation calendar. The goal setting statement will be an important component in the seminarian’s subsequent meetings with his advisor as well as with the faculty advisor’s yearly evaluation. Only matters in the external forum are treated in goal setting.

Effective goals have the following six characteristics:

- Specific: Clarity in goal-setting fosters clarity of action that in turn fosters ultimate success; an inability to be specific about one’s goals almost guarantees that one will fail to attain them. A crucial element of this specificity is describing not merely what one will try to do but where, when and how one will try to do it. For example, “praying more” is a laudable goal that is much too vague to effect a real life change. A more effective approach would be to set a goal such as “to pray the rosary daily” or “to spend 20 minutes before Mass daily in the presence of the Blessed Sacrament meditating on the Mass readings for the day.”

- Measurable: One form of specificity that deserves explicit treatment here is measurability. Goals that can be measured by some objective criteria are reachable; goals that cannot be measured objectively may be reachable in theory but virtually impossible for anyone to evaluate in practice, including the one striving for them. One way of promoting measurability is to formulate goals in terms of observable behavior. For example, “establishing good relationships with the seminarians in the house” is likely to remain a mystery even when a seminarian has a strong subjective sense that he has attained the goal. On the other hand, “establishing good relationships with the seminarians in the house by attending all house socials, sitting with different groups at meals, and spending at least an hour in the recreation room on Friday or Saturday evening” provides observable, objective criteria by which to evaluate the goal.

- Time: Another form of specificity that deserves explicit mention here is time. What will be the frequency and duration of the observable behavior described in the goal? For example, a goal of “lifting weights and using aerobic machines at the university gym to lose 20 lbs.” is somewhat specific and highly measurable. However, as anyone who has developed a habit of physical exercise would attest, if one does not set aside specific blocks of time for exercise, it will not happen. Similarly, those who have successfully lost weight recognize the value of establishing short-term goals directed to their ultimate target. Thus a better way to formulate the example would be “lifting weights and using aerobic machines at the university gym for at least 30 minutes a day, three times a week to lose 4 lbs. a month for the next 5 months.”

- Personal: These goals are for the seminarian who is setting the goal, not for others. Goals involve actions that are within one’s control for one’s own growth; they do not ultimately depend on the response of others. For example, “raising my GPA” depends to a degree on the nature of one’s courses and the subjective judgment of one’s professors. A much better approach to this area of growth would be “to spend 3 hours a day studying for my courses except for Sundays.” Another common goal-for-others mistake is to set a goal something like, “to inspire my Hispanic religious education students to a greater love of Jesus.” Better to set the goal for oneself as follows: “I will try to be a better example of Christ’s love for my religious education students by learning all of their names within the first month of classes and spending three hours a week learning Spanish phrases and studying Hispanic cultures from the resources listed below.”
• Ministerial: Though one’s personal interests and preparation for ministry will often broadly coincide, they do not always do so. Ultimately, to be conformed to Jesus the Good Shepherd, one must subordinate one’s own desires to the needs of the Church, even those desires that are thoroughly virtuous. Goals are directed towards priestly ministry, not towards one’s own ideas of self-improvement, and so goals in all four areas of formation – human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral – always have some ministerial purpose. For example, is one’s goal of studying a particular language driven by a personal interest in some area of theology or by the ministerial needs of one’s diocese? For many goals the ministerial purpose is self-evident, e.g., goals pertaining to preaching, teaching or ministering to the sick. For others this purpose is not as readily evident, e.g., goals involving quitting smoking or improving one’s time management. Seminarians should formulate all goals with a ministerial purpose in mind, even when this purpose is not self-evident or explicitly stated.

• Realistic: Finally, goals should be challenging but also attainable. Priestly formation is much more like a marathon than a sprint, and it often takes years of sustained effort and slow growth to cultivate priestly virtues.

c. Issues by Year in the Formation Program

To help guide goal-setting and ongoing assessment of a seminarian’s progress, issues in the four areas of formation for each year of the formation program are found as appendices below: Pre-Theology; First Theology; Second Theology; Third Theology; Fourth Theology.

B. The Role of the Faculty in the Formation of Seminarians

1. The Director of Human Formation

Delegated by the Rector, the Director of Human Formation oversees the formation and evaluation process. He is responsible for implementing the program approved by the Rector and faculty and for reviewing the various elements of the program each year with a view to possible revisions. He is to help the faculty teams and advisors by providing them whatever information and materials they need. He and/or the Rector assign advisors to formation teams and to specific advisees. He meets with the formation teams throughout the year to discuss the students’ progress, and keeps the Rector abreast of these discussions. At the end of each academic year, he makes a report to the Rector on the formation advising program. Part of this includes an assessment of the effectiveness of each formation advisor, and the formation advisors receive a copy of this assessment.

2. Formation Teams and Faculty Advisors

At Mount St. Mary’s there is no clear-cut distinction between the teaching faculty and the formation faculty. All priest faculty members and some lay members are engaged in some aspect of formation and have a vote in the annual evaluation and advancement of students. From within the faculty, some are assigned to formation teams that are responsible for following the progress of students in the four areas of formation. There are two such formation teams: one is responsible for Pre-theology and First Theology; the other is responsible for Second, Third, and Fourth Theology. Normally, a faculty member belongs to only one of these teams so that he can specialize in one stage of formation. Once a seminarian has entered Second Theology, he will always have a priest formation advisor. Therefore, Formation Team 2 will consist entirely of priests whereas Formation Team 1 will have both priests and lay people. The Director of Human Formation and the Director of Pastoral Formation serve on both teams.

Faculty members in turn function as advisors to a limited number of students from within their group. The advisor is responsible for following his advisee’s growth toward priesthood only in the external forum. Through regular meetings with the student, familiarity with reports made about the student, and discussion of the student in the meetings of the formation team, the advisor should get to know the student well enough to make an evaluation of his readiness for advancement in the spring semester.

In the spring of each year, students will be invited to indicate their choice of advisors for the next school year. They should ideally keep the same advisor if they are remaining in the same formation team, unless the advisor and/or advisee do not believe they can work well together. If at all possible, the student’s choice of advisor will be honored, but the Director of Human Formation or Rector may judge it opportune to assign a student to another advisor.

3. The Advisor’s Role

Importance of sincerity and trust: The advisor operates exclusively in the external forum, which means that though advisees have a significant degree of confidentiality with their advisors, ultimately the advisor must report anything pertaining to suitability for Holy Orders to the Rector and his delegates. While the advisor’s relationship with advisees does not have the same degree of confidentiality that exists in the internal forum of spiritual direction, advisor and advisees should know each other well and should feel that they can be open to, and trusting of, one another. The advisor contributes to the student’s discernment of his vocation to the extent that he evaluates how well the student is fulfilling the expectations of the program for priestly formation. Using the objective criteria of the formation program for each year of formation as delineated in the Issues by Year formation advising appendices below, the advisor reports to the faculty about whether a student is where he ought to be at his particular stage of formation. He has to keep in mind the qualities and skills a student should possess for priestly life and ministry. The advisor and whole formation team evaluate how well the student has fulfilled the expectations of his particular stage of formation.

In meeting with their advisees, advisors assist them to understand and direct their development in the four areas of formation – human, spiritual, intellectual and pastoral. Advisors help their advisees formulate goals for each year and monitor their progress over the course of the year. Advisors also help the students identify strengths and weaknesses, and offer suggestions for ways of confronting and overcoming difficulties along the path toward ordination. Advisors help their advisees appropriately balance their efforts in each of the four areas and also help their advisees integrate these areas in order to appreciate formation as a unified development of the whole person. For example, integration helps an advisee understand that an ostensibly human goal of improving time management also has spiritual dimensions, in the self-discipline and generosity of self, required to spend time with tasks one might not readily desire to undertake. Such a goal also has intellectual implications by helping provide sufficient time for study and pastoral implications by developing organizational skills necessary for parish administration.

Though the advisor is responsible for evaluating advisees, his chief role is not evaluation but formation. The advisor is best understood as a mentor who provides guidance to students on the road to the priesthood. After working with a student throughout the year, the advisor’s goal is to provide as fair and objective an assessment of the student as possible. While this may take the form of critical observations, the advisee should know that these comments are made for his own growth. Advisor and advisee must both take the initiative to get to know one another. The student should feel at ease in speaking with his advisor about significant issues in his life, and the advisor should reflect back to the student in a timely, fair and honest way how he sees him. The advisee should have confidence that the advisor can speak knowledgably and fairly about him.

An extremely important task for the advisor is to verify that every advisee has reviewed archdiocesan policies governing the conduct of Church personnel and is committed to abiding by them. As a Catholic institution in the Archdiocese of Baltimore, Mount St. Mary’s Seminary operates according to the policies enumerated in A Statement of Policy for the Protection of Children and Youth and the Code of Conduct for Church Personnel of the Archdiocese of Baltimore (both documents are contained in the cover pockets of the blue folder distributed to each seminarian). Each student must sign the supplied documentation signifying that he has read and is committed to abiding by both documents. These signed documents must be submitted to his advisor at the beginning of the fall semester to be included in the student’s formation advisor folder.

Formation advisors are also responsible for verifying the following items:

- That their advisees are meeting regularly with their spiritual directors. In doing so, advisors may not ask their advisees about the specific content of those meetings.
- That their advisees have read Appendix B of this section of the handbook, “Canonical Requirements for Orders,” and have informed the Rector of any impediments that affect them personally. In doing so, the advisee has no obligation to discuss the nature of the impediment with his advisor.

4. The Advisor as Liaison between Faculty and Seminarian, and Vice Versa:

The advisor has the responsibility of communicating to the formation teams how well the seminarian is engaging in the formation program and its various expectations, including the seminarian’s growth plan, feedback from various supervisors and pastors, and the seminarian’s approach to the special challenges he faces. The advisor also communicates to the seminarian the insights and recommendations of the formation team for his continued growth.

The advisor is responsible for providing a forum for ongoing reflection and assessment that aims at the growth of the seminarian in the four areas of formation. The individual meetings between advisor and advisee provide this forum.

5. Interactions of Advisors and Advisees

a. Individual Meetings

New students have their initial meeting with their advisor during orientation week. Then, during the first week of school in the fall, advisors meet with their advisees as a group to review any changes to the formation program and to establish a schedule for individual meetings.

The advisor is to meet individually with his advisees at least three times each semester (more or less monthly) for approximately 50 minutes per session. More frequent meetings are encouraged in order to help advisors and advisees get to know one another well. These meetings focus on the student’s performance in the four areas of formation according to the specific issues previously delineated for each year of formation (see the individual “Issues by Year” appendices below: Pre-theology, First Theology, Second Theology, Third Theology, Fourth Theology). For those aspects of formation that occur within the internal forum of spiritual direction, the advisor and the advisee share the responsibility of ascertaining in a manner appropriate for the external forum that sufficient growth is taking place. Advisors should keep a record of their meetings with advisees as well as notes on what was discussed.

- First Semester
  Meeting #1- The first meeting takes place before the goals are due, so that the advisor can help the student draw up his statement. The advisor will approve the goals. There should be a discussion of the summer experience, particularly if any difficulties are involved, as well as discussion of each of the areas of formation, especially the field placement arrangement. This is also an opportunity to discuss the pastoral field placement contract.

  Meeting #2- The second meeting should review the student’s progress in fulfilling his goals in the four areas of formation, and discussion of any difficulties, e.g., deficiencies in courses. This meeting should also address issues related to ordination, including celibacy, obedience, simplicity of life and any difficulties surfaced by the formation teams.
• Second Semester

Meeting #1 - For all ordination candidates, this meeting should focus on observations of the formation team on the candidates and review of the seminarian’s goals and Christmas break.

Meeting #2 - For candidates for ministries and advancement, a review of possible goals for the next year; results of discussion of the faculty team; results of the peer evaluations for men in Pre-theology 2 and Second Theology, review of the year’s progress in meeting goals; summer plans.

Meeting #2 - For ordination candidates, a review of the year and an assessment of their seminary formation; ordination and First Mass plans, discussion of summer / long range plans; discussion of academic and pastoral evaluations.

b. Informal Settings

Opportunities for advisors and advisees to get to know each other better also occur in a variety of informal settings such as in the seminarian dining room during meals, at house socials, or in the university gym, to name a few. Advisors and advisees all benefit by cultivating such opportunities.

6. Formation Team Meetings

As designated in the formation calendar, each of the formation teams will meet on a regular basis to discuss the progress of the students in their respective groups. They are to bring to light both strengths and weaknesses of the candidates to help the seminarians know where progress has been made and where growth is needed. They are to discuss all candidates, not just those who are having difficulties. The advisor will report any observations or concerns to his advisees, and will be responsible for knowing his advisees well in order to represent them fairly at these meetings.

The Director of Human Formation will serve as moderator of both teams. His task is to convolve meetings, moderate the discussion, keep accurate minutes and see that these minutes are posted on the shared network, to which all formation faculty have access.

The Director of Human Formation will keep the Rector informed of the deliberations of the teams, and he will notify the Rector in a timely fashion well in advance of the faculty vote if problems are anticipated with a student’s advancement.

Under certain circumstances, the Director of Human Formation will invite a student to attend a formation team meeting in order to discuss an issue directly with the team. Such circumstances include:

- The team has reached a consensus that such a discussion would be helpful.
- The team is considering dismissal or a delay in advancement.
- The student has requested the opportunity to discuss with the team a serious issue or grievance.
  - Such requests must be made in writing and must clearly stipulate the reason for the meeting. The student should submit this written request to his formation advisor, who will present it to the team.
  - The team will automatically grant such requests unless the seminarian has already been dismissed from the seminary by his sponsoring diocese or by the Rector. In these cases of dismissal, the team in consultation with the Rector will determine whether such a discussion is appropriate.

7. Formation Workshops

Each semester, formation workshops are held to provide the seminarians in-depth education in some fundamental area of pastoral ministry or personal development. The dates for these workshops are in the Seminary Calendar available on the Seminary website.

The fall workshops are designed to address important pastoral issues that arise at various stages of formation. Though some of the topics are covered in different theology courses, these topics are of special importance. Some of the workshops are in preparation for seminary studies, some are in preparation for the field education assignments of that year, and others are more general preparation for ordained pastoral ministry. Workshop themes for each year of formation are as follows:

- Fourth Theology: Parish financial administration; transition issues from seminary to priesthood
- Third Theology: Hispanic ministry; multi-cultural ministry
- Second Theology: Health care ministry; personal physical health
- First Theology: Catechetics
- 2nd Pre-theology: Vocational discernment; Pre-Theology II Seminar (Fides et Ratio, etc.)
- 1st Pre-theology: Study skills; time management

8. Spiritual Direction

Spiritual direction is also an important part of the faculty’s formation work. While any faculty member may be assigned to function as an advisor in a formation team, only priests may serve as spiritual directors.

A priest who serves as a seminarian’s spiritual director holds that relationship entirely within the realm of professional confidentiality as defined by the policies of the Archdiocese of Baltimore and the laws of the State of Maryland. Such confidentiality is generally referred to as the “internal forum,” which is distinct from the “seal of confession.” Exceptions to confidentiality in the internal forum are as follows (quoted from the Code of Conduct for Church Personnel of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, p. 13):

- If there is clear and imminent danger to the client or to others, those providing pastoral counseling, spiritual direction or guidance shall disclose the information necessary to protect the parties affected and to prevent harm.
- Suspected child abuse or neglect must be reported to civil authorities in accordance with Maryland law.

Spiritual directors should discuss these limits of confidentiality with their directees in their first session together. Such exceptions to confidentiality in no way apply to the seal of confession, which conforms to the universal law of the Church. A spiritual director will keep information obtained solely through the Sacrament of Penance absolutely confidential under all circumstances. Spiritual directors may not speak about their directees or disclose any information they have received from their directees at faculty or formation team meetings, or in any other setting, except as delineated in the exceptions noted above. Priests may not vote on a candidate who is or has been their spiritual directee (PPF 134, 135).

Within the seminary context, seminarians are free to approach their own spiritual director, the house spiritual directors, or any of the adjunct spiritual directors or confessors for the Sacrament of Penance. Seminarians may not confess to other faculty priests whose responsibilities are in the external forum, and priest formation advisors may not hear the confessions of their own advisees. The seminary’s Director of Spiritual Formation serves both in the capacity of seminarians’ spiritual director and as resource person for the other priests involved in spiritual direction.

||| THE EVALUATION PROCESS

A. Documentation for the Evaluation

Faculty advisors, working with the members of the formation team, are immediately responsible for following their advisees’ personal and ministerial development and assessing.

The advisor is responsible for maintaining a file for each advisee with all the documentation needed for the yearly evaluation. Formation Advisee E-Binder should contain the following documents:
- Autobiography; Essay on Priesthood
- Goals; Signed Statements for a Statement of Policy for the Protection of Children and Youth and the Code of Conduct for Church Personnel of the Archdiocese of Baltimore
- Field Education documents – Deacon Evaluations, Summer Evaluations, Theological Portfolios
- Memos – Faculty Observations, Peer Evaluation Composite, Admissions Committee Observations
- Grades and Deficiency Reports
- Reports concerning Academic Performance (Learning Center, Deficiencies)
- Self-Presentation of Deacons
- Faculty Advisor Reports
- Information for Faculty Advisor Report
- Record of Individual Meetings with Advisor and Personal Notes

The advisors will have access to an e-binder for each advisee at the first formation meeting of the year. The Rector’s Administrative Assistant is responsible for obtaining, scanning, and posting evaluations and other documentation on the student.

B. Raising Concerns about Students

To ensure that every student will have as fair an evaluation as possible, the faculty will observe the following guidelines:

- When a faculty member has a specific difficulty with a student (e.g., something that has happened in class), the faculty member should speak with the student about it. The faculty member should report it to the advisor, either verbally or in writing, if he believes it to be serious enough.
- The formation advisor should keep the student current on any concerns the faculty have about him. Faculty should be mindful of informing advisors of problems in a timely fashion so that there are no surprises at evaluation time. Students should also tell their advisor about problems as they arise.
- The advisor is to bring to the formation team any concerns about the student that warrant the attention of the faculty as a whole because they bear on the student’s advancement toward the priesthood. The student should be aware of these issues and of the fact that the formation team is discussing him. Students may be invited to the formation team meeting to answer faculty concerns and present their viewpoint.

C. Components of the Student’s Evaluation

1. The Formation Advisor’s Evaluation

This report is divided into four sections, corresponding to the four areas of formation delineated in PDV. The Formation Advisor Evaluation concludes with a recommendation for the next step, e.g., advancement, ordination, a pastoral year or leave of absence, etc. The advisor’s report is to reflect the consensus of the whole formation team, so the advisor must consult with the team, especially with respect to any areas of growth for the candidate. Thus, while this report should include the advisor’s personal evaluation of the candidate, it is to represent a convergence of opinion. The report ends with a summary and commendations and recommendations.
The Director of Human Formation will review each evaluation. If there is need for revision, he will return the report(s) to the advisor. When the reports (Advisor’s and Self-Evaluation) are in their final form and reviewed by the candidate (PPF 281), the student and advisor sign both reports.

If the student objects to anything in the Formation Advisor’s report, he should discuss the problem with the advisor who, in turn, will inform the Director of Human Formation of the student’s concern. Since the evaluation is a product of the whole formation team, the Vice Rector may consult with the team to see if there is warrant for modifying the original evaluation.

The Administrative Assistant to the Rector maintains the tally of the votes for advancement and this information is included in the Advisor’s evaluation.

Criteria for Evaluation: “The annual evaluation should include a well-founded judgment concerning the suitability of the seminarian for advancement to the next year of formation. The evaluation report should be detailed. The qualities listed in canon law as requirements for promotion to Orders should be considered at each stage of advancement: integral faith, right intention, requisite knowledge, good reputation, integral morals and proven virtues, and the requisite physical and psychological health. The evaluation should provide a judgment of the seminarian’s aptitude for priestly life and ministry as well as an estimation of his capacity to lead a chaste, celibate life. The stage or year in which the seminarian is currently in formation should be considered in assessing his readiness for advancement” (PPF 280). The following issues in each area of formation are to be considered and are to be applied, according to the principle of gradualism, at each level of formation:

a. Human Formation:
   - The human qualities of truthfulness, respect for others, justice, humility, integrity, affability, generosity, kindness, courtesy, integrity, and prudence
   - The capacity to relate to others in a positive manner and the ability to get along with others and work with them in the community
   - Good self-knowledge, self-discipline, and self-mastery, including emotional self-control
   - Good physical and mental health
   - A balanced lifestyle and balance in making judgments
   - Affective maturity and healthy psychosexual development; clarity of male sexual identity; an ability to establish and maintain wholesome friendships; the capacity to maintain appropriate boundaries in relationships
   - Skills for leadership and collaboration with women and men
   - Capacity to receive and integrate constructive criticism
   - Simplicity of life, stewardship of resources, and responsibility for financial obligations
   - Mature respect for and cooperation with church authority
   - Engagement in the community life of the seminary

b. Spiritual Formation:
   - There should be accountability in the external forum for seminarians’ participation in spiritual exercises of the seminary and their growth as men of faith.
   - Within the parameters of the external forum, habits of prayer and personal piety are also areas of accountability.
   - Commitment to a life of prayer and the ability to assist others in their spiritual growth
   - Abiding love for the sacramental life of the Church, especially the Holy Eucharist and Penance
   - A loving knowledge of the Word of God and prayerful familiarity with that Word
   - Appreciation of and commitment to the Liturgy of the Hours, the habit of praying all the Hours in place by the end of 2nd Theology
   - Fidelity to the liturgical and spiritual program of the seminary, including the daily celebration of the Eucharist
• Fidelity to regular spiritual direction and regular celebration of the Sacrament of Penance and a habit of spiritual reading
• A positive embrace of a lifelong commitment to chaste celibacy, obedience, and simplicity of life
• A love for Jesus Christ and the Church, for the Blessed Virgin Mary and the saints
• A spirit of self-giving charity toward others

c. Intellectual Formation:
• Love for truth as discovered by faith and reason
• Fidelity to the Word of God and to the Magisterium
• Knowledge of Catholic doctrine and adherence to it
• Interest and diligence in seminary studies
• Successful completion of seminary academic requirements
• Ability to exercise the ministry of the Word: to proclaim, explain, and defend the faith
• Knowledge of languages that will be necessary or suitable for the exercise of their pastoral ministry

d. Pastoral Formation:
• A missionary spirit, zeal for evangelization, and ecumenical commitment
• A spirit of pastoral charity, a quest for justice, and an openness to serve all people
• A special love for and commitment to the sick and suffering, the poor and outcasts, prisoners, immigrants, and refugees
• Demonstration of appropriate pastoral and administrative skills and competencies for ministry
• Ability to exercise pastoral leadership [effectively]
• Ability to carry out pastoral work collaboratively with others and an appreciation for the different charisms and vocations within the Church
• The ability to work in a multicultural setting with people of different ethnic, racial, and religious backgrounds
• A commitment to the proclamation, celebration, and service of the Gospel of life
• Energy and zeal for pastoral ministry

2. The Seminarian Self-Evaluation
(Deacon and Priesthood Candidates, see evaluation procedures at point III.C.3, below)
The seminarian is required to submit a two - three page written self-evaluation which will be reviewed with his Formation Advisor, co-signed, and sent to the seminarian’s Bishop. The report will be divided into six categories: 1) Introduction, 2) Human Formation, 3) Spiritual Formation, 4) Academic Formation, 5) Pastoral Formation, and 6) Conclusion and Signatures. Because the Formation Advisor’s report (which will accompany the Seminarian Self-Evaluation) will be more evaluative, the seminarian’s self-evaluation will accurately report “activities,” be more “results” oriented and more focused on accomplishments. This evaluation will be written impeccably with correct grammar and will include activities and evaluative statements. If the Rector or Director of Human Formation deem the evaluation unfit for episcopal review, the report will be returned to the seminarian and re-written. This document will represent the seminarian, his progress, and the seminary community. The evaluation will be exceptionally well done.

According to the Program for Priestly Formation, “A seminarian’s self-evaluation can be a valuable instrument. Seminarians should prepare such evaluations with an honest and candid examination of themselves in the areas of human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral formation. They should recognize their strengths and weaknesses, and positive qualities as well as areas of needed growth. It is the responsibility of the seminarian to show positive qualities that recommend his advancement in formation. This self-evaluation is best done in consultation with a formation advisor/mentor” (PPF 276).

In addition to the self-evaluation, the seminarian’s Formation Advisor will submit his own evaluation of the seminarian and his progress. This report will be evaluative and less a reflection of activities, individual efforts and progress. The formation advisor will use information gained in the seminarian’s formation meetings, formation faculty meetings, unsolicited comments, peer evaluations, etc. to form his report.

The following guidelines will help form the seminarians self-report:

a. HUMAN FORMATION
   - Annual review of goals
   - Detailed personal assessment of success/failure/struggle with goals
   - The seminarian might include:
     - Greatest area of growth as a result of the current year of formation
     - Greatest area for growth in human formation
     - Professional, spiritual, or social organizations to which the seminarian belongs and his personal involvement (e.g. Knights of Columbus, Legion of Mary, Seminarians for Life, Jesus Caritas, etc.)
     - Description of his contribution to the life of the seminary community (include House Jobs, Committees, special tasks) and his punctuality
     - Description of his ability to make and keep healthy friendships within the seminary community
     - Assess his current state of health; the seminarian’s commitment to healthy diet and consistent exercise (address weight, addictions, sleep patterns, diet, medical issues if necessary)
     - Significant financial or legal issues which may be problematic
     - Report the amount of time spent engaged on the internet and the type of activity engaged in while on internet
     - Hobbies/recreation/activities and how these activities contribute to the seminarian’s maturity and development

b. SPIRITUAL FORMATION
   - Annual review of goals
   - Detailed personal assessment of success/failure/struggle with goals
   - The seminarian might include:
     - Spiritual Discipline: Consistency with the Divine Office, attendance and participation in seminary liturgies, consistency with attendance at spiritual conferences
     - The effectiveness of the year working with his spiritual director
     - Description of his spiritual life (time spent in personal prayer, devotions, practices)
     - Devotion to the Eucharist (Holy Hour) and the Blessed Mother
     - Relate efforts at integrating Sacred Scripture into his prayer (i.e. lectio divina)
     - Include the spiritual reading and lessons learned from these texts
     - Assess how well he has adapted to the spirituality specifically appropriate to diocesan priesthood/religious order
   - Mandatory Inclusion: three detailed and well-considered paragraphs describing how seminarian has grown and continues to grow in the a) virtue of chaste celibacy, b) the discipline of obedience, c) simplicity of life appropriate to the priesthood.

c. INTELLECTUAL FORMATION
   - Annual review of goals
   - Detailed personal assessment of success/failure/struggle with goals
   - The seminarian might include:
     - Detailed explanation of academic performance for the year
     - If applicable, explanation for missed academic deadlines or academic incompletes
     - Update on progress with regard to degrees pursued
     - Success or challenges associated with reading class material, including difficulties completing assigned readings
     - Extracurricular reading/writing ability
     - Progress report on Spanish language success or English as a second language work, including general level of proficiency
     - Work completed toward the Hispanic Ministry Certificate
o Benefits received from participation in the seminary-sponsored summer immersion program in Guatemala o Description of some of the ways in which the seminarian is able to integrate academic work with the other areas of his formation

d. PASTORAL FORMATION

- Annual review of goals
- Detailed personal assessment of success/failure/struggle with goals
- The seminarian might include:
  o Description of previous summer experiences, the nature of his work, the contributions these activities have made to his priestly formation
  o Detailed description of current pastoral placement (or volunteer pastoral activity) for both semesters, and name of supervisor, the nature of duties, including particular successes, challenges, disappointments o Description of his ability to work with various people: women, the divorced, minorities, the marginalized o Experiences with public speaking o Participation in evangelization
  o Expound on areas of pastoral skills which have been strengthened by this placement and an explanation of what he intends to do to further develop necessary skills
  o Description of interaction/relationship with supervisor in detail
  o Include results of the evaluation the supervisor provided in the final review

3. The Seminarian Self-Evaluation for Deacon and Priesthood Candidates

The self-evaluation process for deacons and priest candidates should accurately reflect the “scrutiny” of the individual candidate as required by Canon Law. A seminarian who has received the ministries of lector and acolyte and has been received as a candidate for Holy Orders generally petitions for diaconate several months prior to ordination according to the wish of his bishop or by the date indicated on the Seminary Calendar. Ordinations to the priesthood and diaconate take place in the seminarian’s home diocese as a rule, though the seminary can host these ordinations at the Ordinary’s request or with his permission.

When a seminarian petitions for ordination to the diaconate, he is to present his Seminarian Final Evaluation (SFE) to the formation faculty emphasizing his readiness for the reception of orders. The format of this report will follow the format provided above for the Seminarian Final Evaluation which will include goals he has set forth for his personal formation, his human development, spiritual life, academic and intellectual formation, and pastoral ministry skills. It is the responsibility of the candidate to provide adequate evidence to the formation faculty in these SFE reports of his readiness in each of these areas. It is particularly important to include the issues of chaste celibacy, prayer, obedience, maturity, apostolic zeal, and his readiness to assume priestly obligations upon ordination. His SFE should be a testament to his personal growth in each area from acceptance into seminary formation to present, and should also identify areas of continued growth for the period of his transitional diaconate and into his priesthood. The SFE should be at least three pages, single-spaced. It is due by the date indicated in the calendar (or as requested by the formation staff for irregular candidates) and should be e-mailed to his Formation Advisor. The SFE will be included in the packet of information sent to the bishop; therefore, it should be exceptionally well-done.

Following the format outlined above for the Seminarian Final Evaluation (above at point III.C.2), the deacon/priest candidate is urged to address the following:

- Growth in each of the four pillars since arriving at seminary describing goals in each area and fulfillment of those goals.
- Any significant formation issue should be addressed.
• Under the section on Spirituality, describe readiness to embrace the promises of chaste celibacy, obedience, and prayer for the People of God in the Liturgy of the Hours.
• Address readiness to conduct oneself with professional conduct: awareness of personal boundaries, ability to cope effectively with loneliness, ability to recognize and address stress, capacity to live and work with challenging circumstances or people, eagerness to engage the Church’s apostolate and the New Evangelization.
• Identify continued areas of growth during the time of transitional diaconate and beyond.

Seminarians must make certain the report is approximately five pages, single-spaced, and grammatically correct – checking it carefully. The seminarian is presenting himself to his bishop for the Sacrament of Holy Orders.

4. Peer Evaluations

Peer evaluations are recommended as helpful in the evaluation process... Seminarians completing peer evaluations should be exhorted to do so with honesty and in a spirit of charity. Positive or negative opinions concerning the suitability of a peer for advancement should be expressed clearly (PPF 277).

a. Process of Peer Evaluation

Peer evaluation provides the seminarian with insights from his fellow seminarians on his ability to live the Christian mystery within the daily demands of pastoral charity and on the ministerial skills which he has acquired or still needs to develop in order that he can effectively lead others to Christ.

The purpose of peer evaluation, like all other aspects of seminarian evaluation, is to enable the seminarian and the formation faculty to discern God’s will for the person who presents himself for Holy Orders.

Electronic peer evaluations are completed for seminarians in the last semester of Pre-theology and in the second semester of Second Theology. The Director of Human Formation will meet with each group to explain the procedure for peer evaluation.

All students of the class are expected to participate in the written process, to evaluate their peers after prayerful reflection, and to maintain a spirit of fraternal charity. Even if a seminarian does not know a classmate well, he should indicate his initial impressions, since it is often on this basis that parishioners assess their priests.

- Completed e-forms are compiled electronically and forwarded to Susan Nield, who will file them in the archives. The completed composites are then saved on the Shared Drive for the formation faculty to review.
- The formation advisor presents an oral summary of the peer evaluation composite to each advisee and works with him on any issues that need to be addressed. The formation advisor’s annual report on the seminarian will include a summary of the peer evaluation results.

5. Field Placement Reports

Each student receives an evaluation from his pastoral field placement annually. The advisor draws on this evaluation to assess the student’s strengths and weaknesses for pastoral ministry.

6. Summer Placement Evaluations

The seminary encourages students to gain pastoral experience during the summer and expects an evaluation of the seminarian’s summer activities from the appropriate supervisor (PPF278). Some dioceses do not provide placements for their candidates, and so evaluations may not always be possible. However, advisors should explore with their advisees in this situation how they might profit most from the summer for their priestly formation.
7. Grades
Academic performance is an important indicator of a candidate’s ability to preach and teach the faith and to provide intelligent leadership in the Church.

8. Faculty Observations
When a faculty member wishes to report significant student’s strengths or weaknesses to the advisor, he should do so in writing and should send a copy to the Director of Human Formation. The advisor is to consider what individual faculty members have observed and to discuss the observations with the student.

9. Celibacy Policy
Students are expected to adhere to the seminary’s guidelines on celibacy (see the Rule of Life) and faculty are to use these norms for assessing a student’s ability to lead a chaste celibate life.

10. Covenant Eyes Protocol
In order to assist seminarians in developing good habits regarding the use of the Internet and to support their formation regarding chaste celibacy, seminarians can ask to download the Covenant Eyes program on their personal computers and other electronic devices if they believe the program can help them. They should speak to their Spiritual Director and Formation Advisor before having Covenant Eyes installed. The software monitors how the Internet is used and sends a monthly report to the Formation Advisors and Spiritual Directors selected as Accountability Partners. Establishing this protocol is another way for men to remain accountable to those in charge of his formation. This transparency helps seminarians to be more prudent and think twice about how they use the Web.

D. Faculty Input / Formation Team Voting for Ministries, Candidacy, and Advisors’ Reports

1. Faculty Input:
Prior to the formation team voting on a candidate for any ministry, order or advancement, all faculty members will be notified electronically for positive or negative input on these candidates. These comments are e-mailed directly to the Director of Human Formation who shares them with the formation team prior to the vote. If a faculty member does not send input to the Director of Human Formation that is interpreted as a positive vote for that candidate.

If a faculty member or formation team member brings up an issue that has not yet been discussed with the student, that issue will be discussed with him prior to the formation team vote. The exception would be an incident that happened so recently that there was no time to discuss it with the student. Apart from such exceptions, a vote of “no” should always be preceded by a formation team discussion of the reasons for such a vote. The Administrative Assistant to the Rector maintains the tally of the votes and this information is included in the Rector’s recommendation to the bishop.

All faculty have access to the student’s formation advisor report on the shared network prior to their giving input on candidates for priesthood and diaconate. At the end of each year, all formation advisor reports are accessible on the shared network to all faculty, for advancement other than priesthood and diaconate.

Students typically petition for ministries and candidacy and receive them as follows:
- The ministry of lector in the spring of First Theology; conferred in the seminary each April.
- The ministry of acolyte in the spring of Second Theology; conferred in the seminary each April.
- Candidacy in the fall of third theology; conferred in the seminary each November.
Students receive instructions on petitioning from the Administrative Assistant to the Rector several weeks before the petition deadline listed on the Seminary Calendar (posted on the Seminary website).

N.B.: Receiving the ministry of lector or acolyte is contingent upon being in good standing (i.e., the formation team is recommending the student for advancement to the next year) at the time of the institution. If a student is not being recommended for advancement, they will not be permitted to receive lector or acolyte.

2. Voting Options
Formation team members have the following three options in casting ballots for ministries, candidacy, and advisors’ reports:

- Yes = In favor of conferral/advancement/ordination
- Yes, with reservation = In favor of conferral/advancement but there are particular concerns which, if not satisfactorily rectified, could lead to a future “no” vote. This cannot be used for a canonical vote for ordination
- No = Opposed to conferral/advancement/ordination. A written explanation is required
- Abstain = A completely neutral vote is to be used exclusively because you are or have been the candidate’s spiritual director. This is not an option because of insufficient knowledge. Unless the faculty member is confident of a vote based on the review of the candidate in formation faculty meetings, he should inform himself of the candidate’s suitability prior to the vote taken for advancement.

On such ballots, faculty members should not raise issues that have not been previously brought to the student’s attention. The exception would be an incident that happened so recently that there was no time to discuss it with the student. Apart from such exceptions, a vote of “no” should always be preceded by a formation team discussion of the reasons for such a vote. The Rector’s Administrative Assistant takes the tally of votes and reports the results to the Rector.

3. Advancement Voting for Holy Orders
The formation team will not vote on candidates for Holy Orders who have not been at least one full year in the seminary formation program. Dioceses may request that the seminary make observations, and faculty who feel they know the candidate well enough may submit observations in view of the rector providing the bishop with a “nihil obstat” for ordination.

When there is doubt about a student’s readiness for ordination, a time of probation away from the seminary should be considered (PPF 288). A common form of this is the pastoral year in the sponsoring diocese. The precise duration and issues that need to be addressed should be specified. If there are still doubts at the end of this period, the seminary should not welcome the student back. Some dioceses routinely require a pastoral year. In these cases, the pastoral year does not reflect any concern about the student’s suitability for ordination.

4. The Rector’s Letter of Recommendation
Using the advisor’s report and other materials in the student’s file, the Rector writes a letter of recommendation that he sends to the diocesan bishop. In this letter the Rector reports the formation team vote as well as his own observations to the diocesan bishop. The advisor’s report is attached to this letter.

E. Dismissal of Candidates from the Seminary

1. Dismissal through the Evaluation Process
After extensive consultation, a student who does not seem to have the qualities to be a priest should be advised to leave (PPF 287). According to the Roman congregations, this means that a “prudent doubt” exists concerning his suitability.
A majority of negative votes typically means that the student should be advised to leave the seminary.

“Seminarians not recommended for advancement should be notified as early as possible and in a constructive manner. In these cases, an opportunity should be provided for the seminarian to present his self-assessment; others who can speak on the seminarian’s behalf should also be heard” (PPF 287).

Formation team meetings provide a forum for seminarians to air their viewpoint.

2. Grounds for Immediate Dismissal

The following are grounds for immediate dismissal of any seminarian from the Ordination Formation Program at Mount St. Mary’s Seminary:

- criminal activity;
- illegal use of and/or distribution of controlled substances;
- serious abuse of alcohol;
- sexual misconduct including any form of sexual abuse;
- flagrant immorality;
- plagiarism;
- any behavior which in the judgment of the Rector is seriously disruptive of seminary life

Anyone accused of any of the activities listed above will be given a fair hearing.

3. Procedure for Immediate Dismissal

Any dismissible offense must be reported immediately to the Rector, the Director of Human Formation, or the seminary Dean of Students. The Rector or Director of Human Formation, in turn, must inform the appropriate civil and ecclesiastical authorities. Removal of the alleged offender from the grounds of Mount St. Mary’s Seminary must be in accord with the rule of law. Only the Rector may make the decision to dismiss a seminarian. His decision is final.
FORMATION ADVISING - APPENDIX A: STUDENT RECORDS

I. PRINCIPLES OF FERPA

Mount St. Mary’s University complies with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 as amended (FERPA) regarding student education records. In general, students have the following rights:

- to inspect and review their own education records;
- to seek amendment of records the student believes are inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the student’s privacy rights;
- to consent to disclosures of personally-identifiable information from the student’s records to third parties (subject to certain exceptions); for example, the student’s written consent is not required for disclosures:
  - to faculty and administrators of Mount St. Mary’s who have legitimate educational interests;
  - to certain government agencies and officials or as required by law; and
  - to other schools in which the student intends to enroll, upon written request by the student.

At the beginning of each academic year, after entering Mount St. Mary’s, the seminarian is required to give written consent for his bishop or the bishop’s delegate to review the seminarian’s records.

II. NATURE AND CONTENT OF FILES

A. Directory Information

Mount St. Mary’s maintains the following student “directory information”: name, room number, telephone, home address, date and place of birth, ethnic and racial background, sex, diocesan affiliation, clerical status (where applicable), dates of attendance at Mount St. Mary’s, degree program, degrees granted, previous educational institutions attended, e-mail address, photograph, and awards received. This information may be released by Mount St. Mary’s without specific prior authorization by the student. The student, however, has the right to require that all or certain portions of this information not be designated as directory information by so notifying the Administrative Assistant to the Rector.

B. The Personal File

1. The personal file of each student is kept in the office of the Administrative Assistant to the Rector. After a student’s departure, it is kept in secure file cabinets in seminary storage.

2. The personal file contains all the admissions materials received upon a student’s application to the seminary. In addition, it includes the student’s annual evaluations while a seminarian at Mount St. Mary’s as well as his composite peer evaluations, field education evaluations, summer evaluations, self-presentation, correspondence between the seminarian’s diocese and the seminary in his regard, and canonical documents associated with the reception of ministries, admission to candidacy, and the reception of orders.

3. The Rector, Director of Human Formation, and the Administrative Assistant to the Rector have access to the information in the seminarian’s personal file. It may also be shared with the seminarian’s bishop and vocation director.

4. Admissions materials received upon a student’s application to Mount St. Mary’s Seminary that become part of his personal file are reviewed by members of the Admissions Committee. The seminarian’s formation advisor receives copies of his autobiography and essay. He also receives a written summary from the Admissions Committee of information from the admissions materials relevant to the seminarian’s formation.

5. The formation advisor receives copies of the seminarian’s summer evaluations, field education evaluations, composite peer evaluations, and diaconate self-presentation.

6. The medical and psychological records maintained by Mount St. Mary’s and kept in the seminarian’s personal file are governed both by FERPA and by applicable state laws pertaining to medical records. Copies of medical records are also sent to the Wellness Center of Mount St. Mary’s University. Seminarians may have access to their psychological evaluation and test results only through the medium of a qualified interpreter of such instruments.
C. Academic Transcripts and other Academic Files

The academic files of Mount St. Mary’s contain a transcript of the student’s academic records at Mount St. Mary’s as well as transcripts from previous educational institutions. These documents are kept in the office of the Registrar. Semester grades are routinely sent to the seminarian’s bishop, vocation director, and formation advisor.
FORMATION ADVISING - APPENDIX B: CANONICAL REQUIREMENTS FOR ORDERS

I. POSTING NAMES AND OBLIGATION TO REPORT

At least two weeks before evaluation, the Rector will post the names of seminarians petitioning for candidacy, lector, acolyte or ordination to the diaconate or priesthood. Any student who knows of any serious reason why another student should not be advanced or receive candidacy, the ministries, or orders, has a moral obligation to make this known to the Rector (Canon 1043).

II. IRREGULARITIES AND OTHER IMPEDIMENTS

All seminarians are required to read and to be familiar with the canons from the Code of Canon Law that refer to the suitability of an individual to receive the Sacrament of Holy Orders. Please note especially the canons relating to:

- apostasy (a formal denial of the Christian faith or adherence to another religion)
- heresy (a formal rejection of a revealed dogma)
- schism (a formal act of membership in another church)
- voluntary homicide
- cooperation in the procurement of an abortion
- attempted suicide

Irregularities and impediments for Holy Orders should be discovered in the seminarian application process and should be addressed from the beginning of a seminarian’s formation. Any seminarian affected by any irregularities and impediments is absolutely required to make them known immediately to the Rector, even if the seminarian discovers them well into his seminary career, so that any necessary dispensations may be obtained and that the situation can be resolved, if possible.

Failure to disclose such impediments before receiving Holy Orders could result in being impeded from the exercise of those orders.

III. CODE OF CANON LAW, CANONS 1040-1049

- Canon 1040
  Persons who are affected by a perpetual impediment, which is called an irregularity, or by a simple impediment, are prevented from receiving orders; the only impediments which can be contracted are contained in the following canons.

- Canon 1041
  The following are irregular as regards the reception of orders:
  - a person who labors under some form of insanity or other psychic defect due to which, after consultation with experts, he is judged incapable of rightly carrying out the ministry;
  - a person who has committed the delict of apostasy, heresy or schism;
  - a person who has attempted marriage, even a civil one only, either while he was impedied from entering marriage due to an existing matrimonial bond, sacred orders or a public perpetual vow of chastity, or with a woman bound by a valid marriage or by the same type of vow;
  - a person who has committed voluntary homicide or who has procured an effective abortion and all persons who positively cooperated in either;
  - a person who has seriously and maliciously mutilated himself or another person or a person who has attempted suicide;
  - a person who has performed an act of orders which has been reserved to those who are in the order of episcopacy or presbyterate while the person either lacked that order or had been forbidden its exercise by some declared or inflicted canonical penalty.
• Canon 1042
The following are simply impeded from receiving orders:
  - a man who has a wife, unless he is legitimately destined for the permanent diaconate;
  - a person who holds an office or position of administration which is forbidden to clerics by canons 285 and 286, and for which he must render an account until he becomes free by relinquishing the office and position of administration and has rendered an account of it;
  - a neophyte, unless he has been sufficiently proven in the judgment of the Ordinary.

• Canon 1043
The Christian faithful are obliged to reveal impediments to sacred orders, if they know of any, to the Ordinary or to the pastor before ordination.

• Canon 1044
The following are irregular as regards the exercise of orders already received:
  - a person who has legitimately received orders while he had an irregularity precluding his receiving orders;
  - a person who has committed a delict mentioned in canon 1041, n. 2, if the delict is public;
  - a person who has committed a delict mentioned in canon 1041, nn. 3, 4, 5, and 6.2.
The following are impeded from exercising orders:
  - a person who has legitimately received orders while he was bound by an impediment precluding his receiving orders;
  - a person who is afflicted with insanity or some other psychic defect mentioned in canon 1041, n. 1, until the time when the Ordinary, after consultation with an expert, permits him the exercise of that order.

• Canon 1045
Ignorance of the irregularities and impediments does not exempt from them.

• Canon 1046
Irregularities and impediments are multiplied when they arise from different causes. They are not multiplied by the repetition of the same cause except in the case of the irregularity arising from voluntary homicide or the effective procuring of an abortion.

• Canon 1047
  - A dispensation from all irregularities is reserved to the Apostolic See if the fact upon which they are based has been brought to the judicial forum.
  - A dispensation from the following irregularities and impediments to receiving orders is also reserved to the Holy See:
    - from the irregularity arising from the public delict mentioned in canon 1041, nn. 2 and 3;
    - from the irregularity arising from the public or occult delict mentioned in canon 1041, n. 4;
    - from the impediment mentioned in canon 1042, n. 1.
  - Also reserved to the Apostolic See is a dispensation from the irregularities precluding the exercise of an order already received which are mentioned in canon 1041, n. 3, but only in public cases, and in canon 1041, n. 4, even in occult cases.
  - The Ordinary can dispense from irregularities and impediments not reserved to the Holy See.

• Canon 1048
  - If, in more urgent occult cases, access to the Ordinary cannot be had, or when it is a question of the irregularities mentioned in canon 1041, nn. 3 and 4, access to the Sacred Penitentiary cannot be had, and if there is a danger of serious harm or infamy, the person who is impeded by an irregularity from exercising an order can exercise it, with due regard, however, for the responsibility of making recourse as soon as possible to the Ordinary or Sacred Penitentiary through a confessor and without mentioning the name of the person who has the irregularity.

• Canon 1049
  - In the petition to obtain a dispensation from irregularities and impediments, all the irregularities and impediments are to be indicated; nevertheless, general dispensation is valid even for those which have been omitted in good faith with the exception of the irregularities mentioned in canon 1041, n. 4, or others which have been brought to the judicial forum; however, a general dispensation is not valid for those which have been omitted in bad faith.
  - If it is a question of the irregularity arising from voluntary homicide or from procuring an abortion, the number of the delicts is also to be mentioned for the dispensation to be valid.
  - A general dispensation from the irregularities and impediments to receive orders is valid for all the orders
FORMATION ADVISING - ISSUES FOR PRE-THEOLOGY

I. INTRODUCTION

The priest is called to be “a living image of Jesus Christ, head and shepherd of the Church” (PDV 43). He makes present the Lord’s saving acts, and strives to make them as fruitful as possible in the lives of God’s people. Fulfilling this mission requires total commitment. The pre-theologian already has some appreciation of these truths, for he embarks on a program of formation designed to help him and the Church discern whether he is called to the priesthood. A priestly vocation can be rightly discerned only in a man who commits himself fully to all aspects of this program and receives the proper training.

Because he is preparing to serve as a living image of the Lord, the pre-theologian should begin “to reflect in himself, as far as possible, the human perfection which shines forth in the incarnate Son of God” (PDV 43). This means that he must begin to cultivate the human qualities that not only contribute to his personal growth but will also be necessary for him to offer effective priestly service. These qualities include integrity, self-sacrificing love, and affective maturity. Since priests live a celibate life, a major focus for the pre-theologian’s reflection and discernment is whether the Lord is calling him to live the celibate vocation.

Only a man who cultivates an intimate relationship with Jesus Christ can properly respond to God’s call and be appropriately sent by the Church into the world. The daily celebration of the Eucharist is central to community life and must also be at the center of his life. The Liturgy of the Hours complements the Eucharistic celebration; personal prayer and meditation also flow from and point to the Eucharist.

The study of philosophy and its themes “constitutes a valid aid in order to deal correctly with the principal arguments of systematic and moral theology, of Sacred Scriptures, of Liturgy, and of Canon Law, etc.” (DLMP 77). For this reason, philosophy is the focus of intellectual formation for the pre-theologian, along with study of the Catechism and biblical and other languages.

The formation program also strives to help future priests develop pastoral charity, or a real receptiveness to all. Accordingly, Pastoral Field Education placements in pre-theology are in areas of social outreach, through which seminarians will be able to receive a priestly formation based upon the patience of God and love for the poor.

Formation means personal development according to what God has in view for a person. Pre-theologians can count on the assistance of the Holy Spirit and on guidance from the formation staff. Ultimately, however, pre-theologians must take responsibility from the outset for their own human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral formation. These aspects converge on a common goal: enabling candidates to reach an appropriate level of readiness to participate fruitfully and successfully in priestly formation at the theologate level.

II. EXPECTATIONS

A. Human Formation

1. Personal Development

Seminarians should strive to develop the qualities essential to a life of integral human growth. These qualities include integrity, balance in judgment and behavior, self-reflection, a proper sense of priorities, and a willingness to sacrifice. The capacity for self-sacrifice is a sign of an ability to live a life of service. Emotional maturity is vital for an effective priestly ministry, and thus it is important at this stage to address any weaknesses that stand in the way of full emotional maturity. Pre-theology is a time for seminarians to get to “know themselves” thoroughly in order to build on their strengths and talents and overcome limitations that would be an impediment to effective priestly ministry. This self-knowledge is acquired partly through self-reflection, but also in dialogue with one’s formation advisor, spiritual director, vocation director, and others who have been given responsibility for one’s formation.

- Do I accept that my time is not my own, and do I decide how I will use it on the basis of discipline rather than emotion? Do I avoid wasting time?
- Do I plan and live out a schedule that includes the proper mix of study, prayer, and exercise/recreation? Do I put my talents to good use?
• Do I give priority to the fulfillment of my own desires/plans/needs, or am I motivated by a spirit of self-sacrifice to be of service to others?
• What areas or issues in my life do I need to address in order to achieve greater personal and emotional maturity?
• What are my personal strengths and weaknesses? What can I do to address the weaknesses and to develop my strengths?

2. Social Development
Seminarians should attend to their own affective growth. To do so, they must nurture qualities of affability, generosity, kindness, hospitality, courtesy, civility, and magnanimity. They must strive to relate appropriately and naturally with everyone, i.e. peers in the seminary, faculty and staff, collegians and people outside the seminary. The capacity to develop mature friendships with peers and to relate in an emotionally mature way with everyone is an important indication of one’s ability to embrace the celibate life in a healthy, happy way.

• Do I maintain proper boundaries and avoid inappropriate behavior with peers in the seminary, faculty and staff, collegians and people outside the seminary? Are my relationships with others compatible with my present state in life?
• Do I have good, mature friendships with peers? With both men and women?
• Do I interact well with other people? Do I need to work on the development of social skills that will facilitate interaction with others? Do I tend to be a loner?
• Do I integrate familial relationships appropriately into the overarching commitment that I have undertaken as a seminarian? Are there any family relationships that are problematic and that I should address?
• Do I strike a balance in my life between solitude and socializing? Are there signs in me of a “neediness” of others?

3. Community Life
Seminarians should contribute to the community life of the seminary. This means not only being well disposed and friendly toward everyone, but reaching out to others as appropriate, and being willing to use their gifts for the benefit of all. Above all, seminarians should not live as if they are just isolated individuals thrown together, but as members of a community who are responsible to and dependent on each other.

• Have I made an effort to get to know everyone in the house, especially those in my own class and my diocesan brothers?
• Am I respectful of different personalities and friendly toward everyone?
• Do I readily interact with community members from other cultures?
• Do I participate willingly in group activities?
• Do I take the initiative to serve the community? Do I have a house job? Do I recognize that I have responsibility to others in promoting the common good in the community?

4. Health
Seminarians should care for their own physical well-being. They should do so not only because of the obvious value of health itself, but because a healthy lifestyle will enable them to serve people better and will have positive spiritual repercussions.

• Do I maintain a proper diet?
• Do I follow an appropriate regimen of physical exercise by exercising on a regular basis without spending excessive time doing so?
• If I smoke, have I committed myself to a plan to stop?
• Does moderation always govern my use of alcohol?
• Am I aware of any personal issues that should be addressed so that I might become a healthier person?
• Do I get appropriate recreation and relaxation?

B. Spiritual and Liturgical Formation

1. Liturgy and Communal Spirituality
Seminarians should devote themselves to the liturgical life of the seminary and to other forms of communal prayer. They should come to see the Eucharistic Liturgy as the source and summit of Christian life and let it be the wellspring of their formation.

• Am I forming a habit of daily liturgical prayer centered on the celebration of the Mass?
• Do I contribute to the Liturgy by enthusiastically participating as a member of the assembly and willingly accepting specialized roles when appropriate?
• Am I becoming comfortable with communal prayer in the Liturgy of the Hours?
• Do I participate in all required conferences, days of recollection, and retreats with an attitude of openness and a desire to grow spiritually?
• Do I try to contribute to the liturgy, for example, by singing in the choir or playing an instrument or acting as a cantor?

2. Personal Spirituality
Seminarians should strive to grow continuously and progressively in their personal relationship with Christ and in their commitment to the Church and to their vocation. With the guidance of their spiritual director, they should come to a deeper understanding of prayer and the different types of prayer, and then they should begin to develop a daily program of prayer and a personal spirituality suited to their own temperament.
• Am I developing the practice of personal prayer, including lectio divina, intimate conversation with the Lord, Eucharistic and Marian devotions, and spiritual reading?
• Do I go to spiritual direction at least once every three weeks, and learn to profit from it through open conversations with my director?
• Do I appreciate “the beauty and joy of the sacrament of penance” (PDV 48)? Do I avail myself of this sacrament frequently?
• Do I maintain personal prayer and liturgical practices during vacation times when there is no supportive community structure?

3. Celibacy
Pre-theology is a crucial time for seminarians to explore with their spiritual director whether God has given them the charism of celibacy. They must honestly discern their calling in light of their behavior, their capacity for mature relationships with others, and their personal strengths and weaknesses. Above all, if they conclude that God is giving them the capacity to live the celibate life, they must develop a strong spiritual life to support their commitment, and they must be completely honest with their spiritual director concerning their struggles to live the celibate life faithfully.
• Am I growing in appreciation of what the Church means by celibacy and why it is appropriately linked to the priesthood?
• Am I honestly examining my personal strengths and weaknesses and my behavior in order to discern whether God is calling me to a celibate life? Am I meeting regularly with my spiritual director, and am I honest with him about my struggles?
• Do I demonstrate affective maturity in my relationships with others, and do I know how to act appropriately with different groups of people, e.g. peers, collegians, faculty and staff, people in field education placements, teenagers, children, etc.?
• Do I avoid inappropriate behaviors and patterns of relaxation and recreation (see Student Handbook, p. 506, “Relations of the Seminarian with his Neighbor”)?
• Recognizing its inappropriateness, do I avoid sexual language and vulgarity?
• Do I discern and avoid inappropriate films, videos, and Internet programs?

4. Obedience
Seminarians should strive to form themselves by actively cooperating with the formation that the Church and superiors offer and that communal life requires. A sign of obedience at this stage of development is docility toward those responsible for one’s formation and, above all, a recognition that one needs formation. Observance of community directives and faithfulness to the daily schedule are also signs of an obedient spirit.
• Am I becoming familiar with the seminary schedule and house directives, and am I faithful to them?
• Am I docile to those in authority? Do I have a collaborative spirit?
• Do I recognize my need for formation, and am I open to listening to those who are responsible for my formation?

5. Simplicity of Life
While all Christians should cultivate simplicity of life, those preparing to commit themselves to positions of pastoral leadership have special reasons to live simply. They should not allow themselves to be distracted from their pastoral responsibilities by the burdens that excessive possessions inevitably impose. They also should give credible witness to the kingdom of God by manifesting a detachment from earthly goods.
• Am I learning to distinguish wants from genuine needs, and striving to satisfy the latter rather than the former?
• Have I begun to discern and carry out appropriate practices of penance and almsgiving?
• Am I adjusting my life style in the seminary so that it is appropriate for one who will be a priest?
• Is my appearance neat and well-groomed and at the same time modest and simple?

C. Intellectual Formation

The foundation for the graduate study of theology is laid by the serious and sustained study of philosophy, a comprehensive and adequate catechesis in the doctrine of the Catholic Church, and the study of classical languages. Seminarians at this level should possess or acquire foundational skills in college and graduate level reading, writing, note taking, and time management. Computer proficiency in word processing should be acquired. Seminarians should understand their own strengths and weaknesses as an adult learner and cultivate the disciplines and attitudes necessary to sustain them in rigorous study. They should not judge themselves in comparison with their peers, but should strive to set and achieve personal goals. They should accustom themselves to be accountable to their dioceses and formation advisors. First Pre-theologians should consider entering the Master of Philosophical Studies degree program and make elective choices accordingly. Second Pre-theologian M.A.P.S. candidates should be working with a Philosophy Department mentor on preparing for the comprehensive examinations, and to begin thinking about a topic for the qualifying paper to be completed by the end of First Theology.

• Am I acquiring a firm grasp of philosophy so that I can see how reason supports and is supported by faith, and understand the underlying dynamics of contemporary society?
• Am I acquiring an adult understanding of the faith through a thorough study of the Catechism of the Catholic Church?
• Am I appropriating the language skills specified by my program? (That is, am I developing the skills in English necessary for graduate work and/or acquiring a reading knowledge of Latin and Greek and/or other languages?)
• Am I open and honest about my academic work with my formation advisor?
• Do I make use of the library, of information technology, the Writing Center, Learning Services, study groups, etc.? Do I speak with my professors when I have problems?
• Have I reviewed the Master of Arts in Philosophical Studies degree program? Will I enroll? (see the full M.A.P.S. degree description below). If enrolled, have I started working with a mentor in the Philosophy department towards the completion of the M.A.P.S. degree requirements?

D. Pastoral Formation

Pastoral formation is designed to prepare seminarians to be shepherds imbued with the charity of Christ and filled with his missionary spirit. It also enables seminarians to attain the pastoral competence and skills they will need to serve God’s people. This aspect of formation begins by introducing seminarians to the practical pastoral life of the Church through formative, supervised experiences in ministry. The focus at this stage of formation is “social outreach” to the poor and needy. Seminarians should aim at developing a real love for the “least of the brothers and sisters,” a love that should always be at the heart of their ministry in the future.

• How am I developing my identity as a servant of the people of God?
• What do I hope to get out of my pastoral experiences for my priestly formation?
• Is my concern for social justice, peace, and respect for life deepening, and do I regard them as integral to priestly service?
• Do I strive to recognize Christ in the “least of his brothers and sisters” and do I live with a true preferential option for the poor?
• Do I recognize that ministry involves collaboration with others? Do I enjoy doing things by myself, or do I look forward to working as a member of a team.
FORMATION ADVISING - ISSUES FOR FIRST THEOLOGY

I. INTRODUCTION

During the First Year of Theology the seminarian begins a journey toward the priesthood, which is motivated and sustained by pastoral charity. As he begins this journey, he is committing himself to grow continually in charity in his relationships with everyone he meets along the way. At this stage, it is particularly within the seminary community that practical aspects of pastoral charity will be manifested, fostered, challenged, and refined. Pastoral charity plays a decisive role in all aspects of his life: in his response to people of other cultures, in relationships with new acquaintances, in his attentiveness to how his behaviors affect others (positively or negatively), in his willingness to be self-sacrificing on behalf of community needs, in his willing obedience to demands of the common schedule, and in his growth as a mature person with unpretentious self-assurance.

The First Theologian also begins serious discernment of a vocation to the priesthood involving eventual commitment to a diocese (or comparable entity). He begins to wear clerical attire on campus and in field assignments, which should help him understand his formation as growth in public witness to Christ. Multiple new demands of his first year as a seminarian should also foster increased awareness that he is called to be a good steward of his time, his talent, and his possessions, always in the light of Gospel imperatives.

Called to become a “man of the Church,” the First Theologian’s entire approach to prayer and spirituality should become increasingly interiorized. Personal piety and devotions need to become integrated with the Liturgical Prayer of the community in a balanced way. Since the ministry of Lector usually occurs during this year, he should become increasingly familiar with, and reliant on, the Word of God.

The First Year is a crucial time for discernment of a vocation to celibacy. The First Theologian should examine honestly and thoroughly his capacity and desire for the celibate life, and should be attentive to what his behavior and attitudes tell him about his capacity. He should be honest and forthright with his spiritual director about his struggles, and where there are signs of difficulties in living celibacy in a mature and healthy way, he should take steps to address these problems. He should develop a certain prudent consciousness about behaviors that will foster a healthy celibate vocation, just as he should become aware of, and should avoid, behaviors truly detrimental to this calling. The First Theologian should develop a disciplined spiritual life, consisting in prayer and the sacraments, to support him in being faithful to his commitment to the celibate life.

Depending on past life experience, adjustment to an academic schedule and expectations may be a great challenge for some seminarians. Each First Theologian needs to assess his gifts and challenges and to honestly take appropriate steps to strengthen certain abilities—or lacks—as needed. As a future teacher of faith, the First Theologian should cultivate intellectual and theological curiosity, viewing his studies not as an interruption to his spiritual life, but as an integral part of the vocation to which God calls him at this point. He should regard his studies as truly the “work of God” for him now.

The First Theologian should embrace his pastoral field education placement as an opportunity to communicate the fundamentals of the faith and to learn effective techniques for doing so from experienced teachers in the course of his ministry. He should also grow in the ability to address groups with confidence and to present the faith’s content to those of various ages and differing educational levels. He should develop skills of listening, leadership, and collaboration appropriate to the tasks assigned him and he should become particularly aware of his relational abilities and behaviors in different ministerial circumstances. He should consciously attend to the immense dignity of every human person as created and redeemed by Jesus Christ in whose likeness he should strive to serve in every aspect of ministry.

II. EXPECTATIONS

A. Human Formation

The First Theologian should make a sincere effort to learn about various cultures in order to broaden his thinking and experience. He should recognize that thoughtful consideration of others is necessary in community living and that he has a serious responsibility to know and to live seminary directives in a mature fashion. He should make conscious efforts to foster mature friendships with other seminarians, while avoiding exclusivity, cliquishness, or dependent relationships. He should also avoid excessive independence, as well as any inappropriate singularity drawing unnecessary attention to his person. The First Theologian should demonstrate that he knows how to relate appropriately with all the different kinds of people he encounters in the seminary, college, field education placement, and elsewhere.

He should treat the faculty and all seminary staff with consideration and respect, especially by being punctual regarding schedules (classes, meetings, appointments) and timelines (turning in assignments, forms, etc.). He should develop an increased awareness of how his behaviors can impact others with negative consequences in future priestly ministry. Family relationships will remain important for the First Theologian, but he should also be fostering a capacity to function with a mature interdependence in relation to his family.

The First Theologian should begin cultivating a close relationship with his diocese in view of the possibility of future priestly ministry there. He should spend significant time in his diocese becoming at least somewhat cognizant of its personnel, its structures, and its pastoral needs. Whether or not he is wearing clerical attire, his conduct should be consistent, avoiding any kind of “double standard.” He should be conscious at all times of being and of behaving as a genuine Christian gentleman witnessing to Christ.

Demands of the seminary schedule may be intense, so the First Theologian needs to realize his time is not his own but is given to God through service to His people. Thus, growth in effective time management is a necessary priority. He should recognize the need to relax, to exercise regularly, to foster healthy fraternity, and to balance well the time needed for prayer, study, and recreation. Limitations of seminary accommodations may automatically impose a certain restraint on possessions, so the First Theologian should use this circumstance to assess his attitudes towards material goods and personal belongings.

He should strive to maintain good health so that his service to the Church will not be compromised, and to this end he should develop a healthy diet and a realistic program of physical exercise, hobbies, sports activities, etc. He should also learn polite and appropriate behavior regarding acceptable, common social skills (such as dining, mature conversation, listening, courtesy, etc.). Skills and habits that might foster self-confidence in future priestly ministry should be cultivated.

- How can I foster wholesome human friendships (with both men and women) that might be beneficial to the common good and transcend mere personal “neediness”?
- How might I genuinely honor and respect my living relatives, communicating with them regularly without inordinate dependence?
- How do I intend to foster positive internal attitudes and external behaviors regarding seminary directives, schedules, and activities?
- Am I familiar with my diocese; how can I become more acquainted with it?
- How might I foster a habit of neatness and simplicity in clothing, particularly when not in clerical attire?
- How might I grow in conducting myself with adequate public propriety as is required of those who are “public” persons in the Church?
- How am I addressing (or might I address) possible personally destructive behaviors?
- Do I have, and to what extent am I able to maintain successfully, a regular but flexible daily/weekly schedule? If not, why not? How might I adjust my behavior accordingly?
- How might I grow in appreciation of and care for my possessions without being overly concerned about them and other material things?
- Am I open to people of other cultures?
- Do I make an effort to contribute to the life of the community? Do I have a house job? Do I see myself as a “team player” or am I more of a loner?
- Do I strike a balance between solitude and socializing?
- Do I take care of my health? Do I get sufficient exercise and do I watch my diet? Do I achieve a balance between work and recreation?

B. Spiritual Formation

Fidelity to the seminary liturgical schedule should be a priority for each First Theologian, enhancing his self-discipline as well as fostering a spirit of generous love for God and others. His personal spirituality should involve the integration of community prayer and personal prayer and devotions. The First Theologian should devote quality time to personal prayer and to sound spiritual reading. He should regularly read and reflect on Sacred Scripture, particularly as the primary source for lectio divina. He should consistently receive the Sacrament of Penance and should practice wholesome, daily examination of conscience. Spiritual difficulties ought to be discussed openly and honestly with his Spiritual Director.
The First Theologian should expunge sexual imagery and vulgarity from his language and should avoid any intimation of flirtation or seductive behavior. Simultaneously, he should be developing a positive, healthy understanding and acceptance of his own sexuality. He has to come to terms with how he as a celibate should handle his needs for intimacy. He should realize that certain types of literature, movies, videos, and Internet sites are simply not acceptable. In relating to collegians and the other people he encounters from day to day, the seminarian should be learning to set and to respect proper boundaries in keeping with the different kinds of relationships he develops.

The First Theologian manifests an obedient spirit in a docile attitude toward those in authority and toward the seminary rule. A collaborative attitude is a good indication of one’s capacity for obedience.

- In the development of my spiritual life, am I integrating community prayer with my personal prayer and devotions in an appropriate, balanced way?
- To what extent might I engage in communal prayer only matter-of-factly or grudgingly and/or out of obligation? If so, why?
- How might I personally grow in the virtue of humility?
- How has my own personal spirituality begun to take shape? What are the elements in my spirituality?
- In what way(s) am I developing an ability to relate to others (men and women) as a mature person who is committed to celibacy? Do I demonstrate affective maturity in my relationships with others?
- Am I making a sincere effort to understand celibacy from a theological, spiritual, personal, and psychological viewpoint, and to discern, through spiritual direction and prayer, whether God has given this gift to me?
- Am I making an effort to see the connection between my theology studies, my field education placement, and my spiritual life?
- How am I growing in appreciation and love of the Word of God, and what practical steps am I taking to proclaim the Scriptures in a more convincing manner?
- Do I actively participate in the liturgy and contribute my personal talents, as in the music program?
- What evidence can I give that I live a life of obedience and simplicity? Are there aspects of my life that I must change in order to live them more authentically?

C. Intellectual Formation

It is expected that the First Theologian will either possess or will acquire the ability to read, write, and speak English at the level demanded of the ordination program curriculum. He should learn to make good use of the assistance available from his professors and from the staff of the Library, the Writing Center and Learning Services, and the Information Technology help desk. He is expected to use the library regularly, and to be informed of the world about him through regular use of newspapers, news magazines, and on-line and televised news services. He should acquire proficiency with Microsoft Word, the electronic reserve system, the campus computer network, and the tools of computer-assisted research. At the same time, he should be developing a personal library of fundamental resources in the theological disciplines. He should acquire the skills necessary to proclaim Scripture effectively in public with a view to institution in the ministry of Lector.

The First Theologian will make every effort to pursue studies with a view to grasping a general fund of basic knowledge, to developing skills in logical thinking, and to increasing his ability to express his learning precisely and intelligibly. He should be growing in understanding the meaning of theology and in developing a habitus of ongoing pursuit of learning in sacred sciences, integrated with his overall formation, particularly with his spiritual life and pastoral experiences. His intellectual goals should include the importance of being a hearer, proclaimer, and teacher of the Word of God. This year he must decide if he will enter one of the dual degree programs: the S.T.B. or the M.A. (theology) program and if so, in which area of concentration. M.A.P.S candidates should be working on the completion of the qualifying paper or any other outstanding degree requirements. In First Theology, students are introduced to theological reflection for the first time to lay a foundation for life long reflection on the relationship between pastoral practice and theological issues.

- What might be (or what, in fact, are) my primary academic challenges and goals for the next year (two years...three years...)?
- How might I deal honestly and constructively with any possible learning disabilities or notable lacks in my academic background?
- How might I develop a sense of intellectual curiosity and sound skills in critical thinking?
• How might I apply myself more efficaciously to my ongoing intellectual formation insofar as possible (for example, by allotting sufficient time for reading, writing, and study, and by balancing this with my spiritual life and with other activities)?

• How might I integrate my learning with genuine virtue in my pastoral ministries? (e.g.: To what extent am I learning to treat all persons of whatever intellectual capacity/status with respect and charity in whatever circumstances I encounter them?)

• To what extent am I faithful in completing assigned reading and other academic responsibilities on time?

• Have I kept my formation advisor apprised of my academic progress?

• Have I made use of the library, technology, professors’ office hours, the Writing Center, Learning Services, study groups, etc.?

• Will I enter the M.A. (Theology) degree program? If so which concentration? Or will I enter the S.T.B. degree program? If a M.A.P.S. candidate, am I working on studying for the comprehensive examinations, the completion of qualifying paper or any other outstanding degree requirements?

• Do I understand the concept and value of theological reflection?

D. Pastoral Formation

The First Theologian will conscientiously and thoroughly prepare for his pastoral field experience, recognizing the great responsibility he shares in communicating the faith to others. He should also learn to accept constructive criticism graciously and humbly from his supervisors, aware that their knowledge can help him grow in a variety of ways beneficial for future priestly ministry. He will refrain from any kind of “clerical” attitude that reflects arrogance or superiority or a sense of “entitlement” as a seminarian. He should make every effort to present his lessons in concepts and vocabulary accessible to the specific stage of development and to the realistic human circumstances of those whom he is called to serve in his field assignment. In all circumstances, even if--or especially if--he is well versed or experienced in his present task, the seminarian should strive to create an atmosphere of trust and cooperation with all, witnessing to Christ both zealously and compassionately for the good of others.

The First Theologian will make every effort to get to know the staff with whom he works, as well as all those of whatever age or status to whom he is sent in a ministerial capacity. Insofar as possible, those engaged in teaching assignments should become aware of the family background, the values and the various influences which may affect a student’s ability to learn. The seminarian should develop a sensitive and prudent manner of presenting moral teaching, aware that this may directly impact students in the circumstances of their home life. He will work respectfully and collaboratively with all professional staff and support personnel--including women, persons of various ethnic/religious backgrounds, and those with disabilities--in whatever capacity he may be called upon to interact with them.

• In light of pastoral experience in the past, especially in the area of teaching, what do I hope to learn this year in my placement?

• How might I better integrate other aspects of formation in my field education experience? Have I integrated theological reflection into my pastoral formation?

• What pastoral skills and qualities do I need to acquire in order to be more effective pastorally, especially in the field education assignment I have this year? Are there attitudes or behaviors that I need to adjust or correct?

• Do I need to learn certain cultures and languages, like Spanish, for my future ministry?

• Am I collaborative in my pastoral placement? Do I prefer doing things on my own?
FORMATION ADVISING - ISSUES FOR SECOND THEOLOGY

I. INTRODUCTION

The Second Theologian finds himself in a crucial year of formation. Having completed a year of theological studies, by the end of Second Theology he will most likely be one year from Ordination to the Diaconate. Therefore, the Second Theologian should be moving from discernment of a priestly vocation to an increasing certainty of commitment to this vocation. Whatever his age, he should display growing maturity and greater ability in being self-governed and in doing what is right, not because another commands it, but because he understands and recognizes the intrinsic value of virtuous conduct in the likeness of Jesus. Another sign of his maturity should be growth in the ability to accept and integrate constructive criticism in the on-going formation process. He should also be attaining a consistent level of time management, setting reasonable and voluntary limits on his use of television, the internet, telephone, and the gym. He should accept the fact that time is not his own to use as he pleases, but is a gift from God to be used as a good steward.

The Second Theologian, in anticipation of the reception of the Ministry of Acolyte, should be evermore integrating his prayer and spirituality as foundations for his entire future priestly service. Growth in his love for the Eucharist is imperative. He should also be increasing in fidelity to praying the Liturgy of the Hours. His personal and communal prayer should be becoming more and more interior, and his use of Scripture and lectio divina for prayer should be both regular and formative. Since he is one year closer to the promise of celibacy, this issue should become one of increasing attention, both in the internal and external forum. He should be consciously growing in awareness of the sacrifice of priestly celibacy and, simultaneously, should be learning to live a consistent and joyful celibate life with increasing ease. The Second Theologian should have a strong consciousness of himself as a “man of the Church,” and thus should have a deep appreciation for the place of obedience in his life.

Having completed a year of seminary studies, the Second Theologian should have a substantial degree of comfort with the language of theological discourse as well as with the kinds of demands expected of seminarians in the second year of formation. He should be able to assess the success of his study habits. Where necessary, he should take initiatives in making appropriate adjustments. In Second Theology, the seminarian should experience an increased capacity for integration of course content across the curriculum, and should be able to see the relationships between his courses more clearly. Second Theology students should choose their electives carefully in light of the M.A. (theology) or S.T.B. degree programs, the Hispanic Ministry certificate program and the expectations of the home diocese for Spanish, the needs of the people they will serve, and their own personal interests and needs for intellectual growth. They should also sense a growth in awareness of how their academic endeavors relate to the other areas of formation, including their spiritual life, pastoral responsibilities, and personal relationships. By the end of the year, they should have a good understanding of what is involved in the Ministry of Acolyte.

The focus on Health Care or Social Justice Ministry for Second Theologians will very likely provide opportunities for each seminarian to extend himself to God’s people in new ways. They should accept these challenges as a source of new pastoral skills. They should also see them as genuine opportunities to learn more about themselves in the face of all sorts of human sorrows, which are, for the most part, inexplicable without a solid foundation of belief and firm trust in the ultimate goodness of God. Through his second year field placement, the Second Theologian will come to a deeper appreciation of himself as an instrument of God’s healing and of the establishment of God’s justice in the world.

II. EXPECTATIONS

A. Human Formation

The Second Theologian should have internalized the house liturgical schedule and be able to meet its expectations with ease, faithfully reporting any lapses in consistency. He should be recognizing that his capacity to obey the seminary directives indicates a potential to fulfill his promise of obedience at Ordination. Confronting any tendency to exempt himself from common obligations, he should set an example for Pre-theologians and First Theologians, displaying a positive attitude toward formation and respect toward those in authority. He should be appropriately receptive to “peer evaluations,” incorporating necessary adjustments for growth into his on-going formation. He needs also to increase his genuine respect for the seminary faculty and staff, and to develop appropriate relationships with them. In his behavior towards others he should avoid (or correct) any attitudes or expectations of being “served” and should be growing in concrete expressions of other-directed charity. The Second Theologian should feel at ease in social situations and should give evidence of his ability to relate to all different kinds of people in a mature way.

The Second Theologian should be especially concerned to cultivate a close relationship with his diocese and he should have a growing sense of being called by God to ministry in that diocese. He should become familiar with the structures, the services, the human demographics, and pastoral needs of his diocese through reading, discussion, and time actually spent there. In short, recognizing that the commitments of incardination are serious, he should be experiencing a sense of truly being “at home” in the diocesan Church which he is preparing to serve.

The Second Theologian should be cultivating an attentiveness to “what needs to be done” in the community and should show a spirit of generosity in response to such needs. Willing generosity is an absolute requirement in parish ministry, and it can be effectively cultivated in the seminary community through serious, prayerful consideration of multiple service opportunities. During Second Theology, the seminarian’s friendships should be based less on his own needs than on a genuine spirit of fraternal charity. Relationships which might best help him grow in virtue, rather than those which may seem more comfortable but do not challenge him, should be fostered. In general, he should be growing in constructive and appropriate awareness of the needs of others and responding more maturely to such needs as is the constant pattern required for authentic priestly ministry. He should show a genuine interest in people of other cultures and strive to know them and their cultures as well. He should also continue to develop a personal health lifestyle, which includes a balanced diet, exercise, and recreation.

- How am I developing wholesome friendships with other seminarians (for the common good and the benefit of others, beyond mere neediness and beyond competitiveness/jealousy/cliques)? Am I also developing good friendships outside the seminary?
- How do I honor members of my family through regular communication while not demonstrating a dependence detrimental to future total service of the Church?
- What appropriate efforts do I make (or might I make) to learn about and to become better known in the diocese to which I will be committed?
- How do I display disagreement with those in authority (by internal rebellion?… denial?… behind-the-scenes complaining)? What might I do about such behaviors?
- How do I plan to manage my daily and weekend time giving priority to prayer and study, followed by apostolic activity, leisure, and personal responsibilities?
- In what ways am I really becoming a self-disciplined person; and in what ways do I depend inordinately on others to “measure up” in various circumstances?
- How do I demonstrate willingness to serve others at some “cost” to my preferences? Am I generous in putting my time and talent at the disposal of others?
- What aspects of my lifestyle might not be balanced and/or healthy?
- How do I plan to demonstrate a Christ-like simplicity in clothing and possessions, maintaining neatness and observing the common norms concerning clerical/casual attire?
- How might I adjust behaviors or attitudes that imply a personal “entitlement” for others to defer to my preferences and personal desires?

B. Spiritual Formation

To increase his appreciation for the Eucharist, the Second Theologian, in consultation with his Spiritual Director, should be spending time each week in Eucharistic Adoration. Sound Marian devotion should be integrated into his spiritual life. He should experience a deep commitment to participation in daily Mass, both during the academic year and during breaks and vacations. He should see his consistent desire for the Eucharist as a significant gauge of an authentic priestly vocation. His liturgical and sacramental spirituality should go beyond the potential rigidity of ritualism and/or formalism to a direct, practical, operative understanding of the profound theological relationship between the Eucharist, Eucharistic Adoration, Marian devotion, and those persons who are daily placed before him, those whom Jesus Christ saved at the cost of His Cross and in whom the Trinity has chosen to dwell by grace. The Second Theologian should no longer need to be convinced of the necessity of daily prayer; he should experience an ever-deepening, insatiable need for prayer. He should seek to become thoroughly familiar with all dimensions of the Ministry of Acolyte, in preparation for receiving it in good conscience.

The Second Theologian is still in the process of discerning the call to celibacy, but by this time he should find fulfillment and peace in living as a celibate, and he should be comfortable in embracing the concrete consequences of celibacy for himself. Any serious difficulties in living the celibate life at this point are a strong indication that a man is not yet ready to assume this way of life freely and joyfully. The Second Theologian will continue to foster mature relationships and friendships in and outside the seminary, and will give evidence of his affective maturity in his ability to act appropriately and to respect proper boundaries in his multiple relationships. He will increase in his level of identity as a public person, responsible to Christ and the Church, recognizing that personal discipline, prudence, and restraint are necessary. He should be dealing honestly and constructively with any doubts or questions regarding the serious, long-term, practical implications of the obligation of clerical celibacy. His sense of “thinking with the Church” will manifest itself in an obedient attitude.

- How might I strengthen my prayer life, being faithful to public daily prayer of the seminary community, the Liturgy of the Hours, Eucharistic devotion, lectio divina, etc.?
- How might I be more faithful in spiritual direction and confession as well as in consistently reading good classical and contemporary works of spirituality?
- How might I develop a more interior prayer life (in contrast to a primarily exterior or merely outwardly “devotional” level of prayer)? Have I developed a personal spiritual life to which I am faithful each day?
- How might I be engaging in spiritual or liturgical practices to “be seen” or because I “am seen”?
- Do I feel genuine ease and fulfillment in living the celibate life? Do I believe the Lord is giving me the capacity to live this life in a healthy and happy way?
- How might I grow in understanding the need for at least some formative, mature, adult relationships/friendships in order to live celibacy effectively?
- Do I view myself as a man of the Church, filled with a deep sense of obedience toward my bishop and others who are responsible for my formation?
- Am I preparing to assume the Ministry of Acolyte?

C. Intellectual Formation

If enrolled in either the M.A. (theology) or S.T.B. dual degree programs, the Second Theologian should be taking steps toward fulfilling the degree requirements. By this time, the Second Theologian should sense that he has the necessary tools and skills to complete theological studies. If any are lacking, he will take the steps needed to acquire them as soon as possible. He should have developed discipline in study habits and in note-taking, and he should be growing in the ability to express to various audiences in an effective and accurate manner whatever he has learned.

The Second Theologian should begin to see his studies, not as abstract or theoretical material existing in isolation, but as necessary, effective knowledge to be consistently and appropriately utilized in pastoral ministry. He should be able in an ever-increasing manner to see the integration and pastoral application of his studies in Scripture, Systematic and Moral Theology, Canon Law, etc. He should cultivate an appreciation for reading and study, not simply as a duty of the seminary curriculum, but as a necessary activity of any priest. In short, he should be developing a habit of continuing his theological education and of reflecting theologically on all his pastoral experiences.

The Second Theologian has done enough studies that he should be able to make a distinction between theology and doctrine, and he should have an appreciation of the value of theological pluralism. Through the study of the history of doctrine, he should also understand that doctrine develops over the course of the Church’s history, and he should be able to distinguish the various degrees of authoritative teaching in the Church.

The Second Theology student should develop the habit of keeping abreast of national, international, and church related current events. He should plan to take advantage of the cultural richness of the Baltimore-Washington area. Study of modern church history should help increase his awareness of and interest in understanding the multiple cultures to which he will address the Gospel in his priestly ministry.

- How might I articulate my academic goals for the next 2-3 years, in an area of special interest, the M.Div, the M.A. (theology), the S.T.B., JP II Institute, language study (Spanish, Latin, Greek, Hebrew), electives, etc.?
- What skills can I hone to realize my intellectual abilities and work to my capacity?
- What areas of my theological background are still lacking and what concerted effort (or practical plan) might I initiate to remedy these lacks?
- In what ways are my studies becoming integrated or more meaningful? If such is not the case, what effort(s) is/are needed on my part to remedy this lack of integration?
- How might I develop a pattern of genuine intellectual curiosity and serious reading?
- How am I meeting the expectations of my diocese for preparation for Hispanic Ministry? Should I consider application to the Querétaro program?
• If I have enrolled in the M.A. (theology) program, have I been able to complete the concomitant research projects in a timely manner? Have I participated in any “community of learners” activities in my area of concentration?
• Am I keeping up with current events?
• Have I taken advantage of the cultural richness of the Baltimore-Washington area?
• Have I any plan to increase my understanding of the multiple cultures to which I will address the Gospel in my priestly ministry?

D. Pastoral Formation

The Second Theologian will reflect on his response to human suffering, and will seek to grow in genuinely other-oriented Christological compassion when dealing with those who suffer, whether the person is struggling with physical, mental, emotional illnesses, moral difficulties or economic deprivation. He will cultivate within himself a preferential option for the poor, learning especially to listen rather than to speak, to be empathetic rather than to give advice, and to abandon personal self-concern in circumstances of illness or poverty. He needs to be developing the capacity to deal with his own emotions courageously and honestly and to become increasingly aware of how his own needs may negatively affect pastoral relationships. It will be important for him to know how to initiate conversation with strangers, to pray spontaneously, to cultivate good listening skills, and how to be respectfully silent when appropriate in pastoral circumstances. The Second Theologian will aim at acquiring those pastoral skills and qualities that will help him in ministering to those who suffer from illness or deprivation of justice.

• How am I developing skills necessary for positive relating in pastoral circumstances and how am I growing in ability to converse openly/easily with others?
• Is my professional “self-control” increasingly natural, comfortable, and meaningful or overly “rigid” and “distant”? How might I address any lacks or difficulties in this area?
• How might I be more friendly/gracious toward others, especially in my pastoral assignment, attending to the poor and disadvantaged, and those culturally diverse?
• How might I grow in ability to explain or defend the faith, give spiritual counsel or direction, and make the most of brief human interaction in my apostolic service?
• In what practical ways am I dealing constructively with any personal traits or limitations that impede my pastoral efficacy?
• How might I assess whether I have a collaborative approach to ministry or if I might be primarily concerned about being in control of others in pastoral circumstances?
• How do I genuinely display respect for supervisors and colleagues (men or women, clergy or laity), and do I really welcome their constructive criticism?
• How do I handle crisis situations and personal conflicts in pastoral ministry?
• What skills and qualities do I need to acquire to do effective ministry to the sick?
• Do I have a strong commitment to the Church’s social justice ministry? How do I need to grow in my appreciation of the Church’s mission on behalf of a just society?
FORMATION ADVISING - ISSUES FOR THIRD THEOLOGY

I. INTRODUCTION

The Third Theologian is in his final year of preparation for ordination as a Deacon. In the first semester, he will be admitted as a candidate for ordination, and in the second semester he will take the oath of fidelity and declaration of freedom. He should take these final steps before ordination only if he is fully convinced that he is ready and willing to petition for ordination. He will be able to advance in good conscience if he and those responsible for his formation are convinced that he possesses the human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral qualities that a priest should have.

The focus of this Third Year on the level of human formation is on consolidation of the individual good habits related to personal growth and communal spirit and service into an overall lifestyle appropriate to the ordained minister. This involves a spirit of universal charity, a desire to serve, generosity, simplicity and detachment, zeal for ministry, and a cooperative spirit. Because the ordained minister is a “man for others,” the Third Theologian must be able to relate socially with all the different kinds of people he will be called upon to serve. He must give evidence of mature friendships with his peers and good relationships within and outside the seminary community.

The focus of spiritual formation during this year is immediate preparation for a free and joyful embracing of the celibate state of life and the promise of faithful obedience to one’s Ordinary. This presumes that the seminarian, by this stage of his formation, has developed a self-motivated faithfulness to his personal prayer life, the spiritual exercises of the seminary, and the Liturgy of the Hours. At the same time, readiness for ordination requires that the seminarian has developed a spirit of humility and self-sacrifice that must ground the future fulfillment of the promise of obedience for the good of the Church and her mission.

The special focus of the intellectual formation of the prospective Deacon during this Third Year should be on the consolidation and integration of both the content of his theological education and the virtues related to sound study habits. The candidate for the M.A. (theology) or S.T.B. will manifest this integration by working diligently to fulfill the various requirements for his degree. However, all seminarians at this stage of their formation should manifest a self-commitment to intellectual growth as part of the life of the ordained minister, and not only as a preparation for ordination. Since he is about to enter the ordained ministry, the Third Theologian should make a conscious effort to see the connections between pastoral ministry and his theological studies. Theological reflection should be a regular practice of daily life and not just a formal exercise required by the formation program. Third Theologians should also focus in a particular way on their Homiletics course as immediate preparation for the ministry of preaching.

Finally, the focus of this year’s pastoral formation is developing a spirit of pastoral cooperation and prudence combined with an authentic zeal for pastoral service. This spirit of cooperation must be shown to extend not only to the immediate authority of the bishop and pastor, but also to all the faithful who are cooperating with these authorities in the service of the Church. It is especially here that the future Deacon and Priest must manifest an openness to direction from legitimate authority, a non-critical spirit, a commitment to building communion, and humility in the face of criticism that makes personal change possible. The prospective Deacon must give evidence in his field placement of a spirit of generosity, service and self-sacrifice.

II. EXPECTATIONS

A. Human Formation

The Third Year seminarian should have a firm and well-grounded conviction that he is capable and ready to accept candidacy and move forward to ordination to the Diaconate.

He should show that he has developed a more universal openness to friendship and service in the seminary and in the field placement assignments where he serves. People should be able to identify him as a “man for others.” Within the seminary community, he should manifest a spirit of service and interdependence.

By Third Year, the theologian should have developed a way of life appropriate to the ordained ministry, including a spirit of poverty and detachment, producing a simplicity in lifestyle that frees him for service in the Church.

He should give evidence that he has attained a level of personal maturity in his self-knowledge, self-acceptance, personal integrity, and friendliness that enables him to give a more selfless form of service to the People of God.
The Third Theologian should be capable of mature relationships with his peers, with people in authority, and with those whom he serves. He should know how to respect proper boundaries in each of his personal and professional relationships.

The Third Theologian should manifest a readiness to accept direction, constructive criticism and correction from superiors with legitimate authority. He should reflect on the observations from the Second Year peer evaluations in considering what changes he needs to make in himself in order to be a more effective priest.

He should show proper concern for his health so that he will be a more effective minister. This includes observing a healthy diet, getting regular exercise and sufficient recreation. By the Third Year, a man should have any serious health concerns, such as overweight or smoking, under control.

- Have I made an honest effort to examine and evaluate my personal strengths and weaknesses for the sake of self-correction and improvement?
- Have I developed a personal integrity in all my dealings with others so as to be a person that others find trustworthy?
- Do I make an effort to be friendly towards all, kind and considerate, so that people find me approachable?
- Have I made an effort to expand my circle of friends in the seminary or parish, so as to avoid cliquishness or exclusivity?
- Do people find me a joyful person, someone who inspires hope rather than doom?
- Have I made an effort to be of service in the community? Do I try to get to know others? Am I open to people who are different from me, including people of other cultures? Do I maintain a proper balance between solitude and socializing?
- Am I faithful to the seminary rule of life?
- Have I made an honest effort to evaluate my lifestyle, spending, possessions, etc., to bring my way of living into accord with the simplicity of life that the Church calls for her priests to adopt?
- Am I possessive of my time, or do I forego my personal convenience for the service of others who impinge on my time with their needs?
- Do I show proper concern for my health? Do I observe a healthy diet and get regular exercise?
- Are there questions about my readiness for ordination that have been raised by others that I still need to deal with?
- Have I taken seriously the observations made about me by my peers in the Second Year peer evaluations?
- Have I developed a genuine openness to direction and correction by co-workers or superiors, or am I defensive when confronted with criticism which is intended for my genuine growth?

B. Spiritual Formation

The Third Theologian should show that he has developed a spiritual maturity that is self-motivated in fulfilling faithfully all the spiritual exercises in the seminary and that is faithful to one’s own personal prayer life.

The spirituality of the Third Theologian should be rooted in the Eucharist and in pastoral charity, and it should also have a strong Marian component.

The Third Theologian should now pray the whole Liturgy of the Hours out of conviction that this prayer, even when it becomes an obligation, is prayer that unites himself more closely to Christ in His prayer for the Church.

The Third Theologian should have a good understanding of what he is doing when he takes the oath of fidelity and declaration of freedom. He should discuss these with his spiritual director and/or advisor.

The Third Theologian is expected to make the canonical retreat as an essential part of his preparation for ordination.

By the Third Year, the theologian should have developed such personal and spiritual maturity that he has a deep confidence and ready willingness to make the life-long commitment to the celibate state of life, not simply as a requirement for ordination, but as an integral part of his future priestly spirituality and union with Christ.

The Third Theologian should have developed the spiritual foundations for embracing the promise of obedience to his Ordinary and all legitimate superiors, including the requisite humility and self-denial for a life of obedient service.

- Do I faithfully participate in all required spiritual exercises, except when I am legitimately excused?
- Have I developed the habit of praying the Liturgy of the Hours in its entirety, even when I am away from the seminary?
- Have I developed a prayer life that is appropriate for a diocesan priest and am I faithful in observing it each day?
- Am I prepared, after prayer, reflection, and spiritual direction, to embrace the commitment to celibacy joyfully and freely? Am I aware of any interior or exterior obstacles to committing myself to this way of life?
• How do I respond interiorly and exteriorly to authority in the Church, especially when I disagree with their theology or vision of things?
• Do I appreciate the meaning of obedience in the life of a minister? Am I an obedient person, motivated by a collaborative spirit?

C. Intellectual Formation

The Third Theologian is expected to develop an intellectual maturity that manifests itself in a self-motivated commitment, not only to master the required learning in the classroom but, beyond this obligation, to foster an ongoing intellectual growth in general, and specifically in theological and pastoral matters.

The Third Theologian should be conscious of seeing the connections between his theological studies, his pastoral experiences, and his spiritual life so that he can appreciate better how all areas of formation are related and so that he can develop his own unified vision of ministry.

In his Third Year of Theology, the theologian takes his first Homiletics course, which he should accept as an opportunity for learning how to communicate with others what he has learned in his Scripture and Theology studies.

In view of Diaconate ordination, the candidates should deepen their knowledge of the Order of Deacon by studying the theology and history of this Order.

Dual degree M.A. (theology) and S.T.B. candidates should be well along in the completion of their degree requirements.
• Have I developed a specific plan for the completion of the various requirements of the M.A. (theology) or S.T.B. degree? For the Hispanic Ministry Certificate?
• Have I established a solid work ethic that enables me to accomplish effectively the learning objectives of my courses, including the timely completion of reading assignments and papers, or do I tend to procrastinate or do the minimum? Have I set aside blocks of time each day for study?
• Do I make an effort to expand my intellectual interests and reading habits beyond the required course contents, especially during vacation times?
• Do I take my preparation for the ministry of preaching and teaching seriously? Do I devote sufficient time and effort to it?
• Am I learning foreign languages that will be useful for me in the pastoral ministry? Am I getting to know the cultures of the people I will be serving?

D. Pastoral Formation

The Third Theologian should manifest zeal, generosity, and a spirit of self-sacrifice in his pastoral field placements.

He should manifest an understanding of, and appreciation for, the complementarity of the various vocations within the Church for the internal mission of the Church and its mission to the world. He should show that he is a “team player” who is capable of taking direction and criticism from his supervisors.

The Third Theologian should give evidence of leadership ability and, in particular, he should show that he can take the lead while maintaining a collaborative spirit. He should take initiative and not always have to be asked to do things. He should give himself wholeheartedly to what he is asked to do, and he should manifest enthusiasm and a desire to learn. In his dealings with others, he should show that he has the heart of a shepherd.

The Third Theologian should also have an ecumenical spirit of openness to people of other Christian communities or other religions. He should be eager to cooperate with them where this is possible, and he should always manifest respect for them and their religious traditions.
• Am I generous and forthcoming with my time and talents in my field assignments and am I open to forms of service that do not appeal to me? Do I see myself as a servant?
• Am I a “team player” in my assignments and do I willingly take direction and correction from my superiors?
• Am I zealous and enthusiastic? Do I take initiative or do I always have to receive orders about what to do?
• Do I truly respect and esteem the dignity of the vocation of the baptized with its specific participation in the priesthood of Christ?
• Do I try to see my preaching and teaching ministry as part of the “New Evangelization”?
• Do I handle conflicts and disputes in my field education assignments in a mature and charitable way?
• Am I open-minded toward people of other Christian communities or other religions, and do I collaborate with them on common projects, wherever possible?
• Am I trying to become familiar with other cultures and languages so that I can better serve all the different peoples that make up the Church?
FORMATION ADVISING - ISSUES FOR FOURTH THEOLOGY

I. INTRODUCTION

The Fourth Year of seminary formation has a unique character all its own, for it is a time of transition from the seminary to ministry as a priest. Many of the men have already been ordained deacons and others soon will be so ordained. Approaching the end of their seminary formation, Fourth Year men have passed through the initial stages of formation and cultivated solid habits that will serve them well in priestly life. Many have already served in parishes as deacons and have thus begun their preaching and sacramental ministry. All their experience should help them to value the Fourth Year of seminary life as an especially precious time of imminent preparation for ordination to the priesthood.

The role of the Fourth Year men within the seminary is of great importance, for they are examples to other classes of the maturity which fidelity to seminary formation brings. The fidelity they practice both to the various phases of seminary life and to their ministries in the parishes should at this point of formation be greater than at any earlier stage. Since they are to be sacramentally conformed to the priesthood of Christ, all their words and actions should manifest their own efforts to conform themselves to Christ.

Fourth Year men should take advantage of the time they have to deepen their knowledge of theology, especially with regard to marriage and family life and moral issues. They should begin planning their on-going theological education for the time after ordination, and to this end they should consolidate an adequate library of indispensable reference books. For those in the M.A. (theology) or S.T.B. dual degree programs, the goal should be completion of all degree requirements, especially the comprehensive exams, before leaving the seminary. Fourth Year men should also focus intensely on perfecting their homiletic skills, keeping in mind what they learned from their summer experience. In their practicum, they should strive to become prayerful celebrants of the sacraments.

As ordained ministers, they should see how all the areas of formation converge in their parish pastoral experience. The parish weekend assignment should be viewed as an opportunity to develop the pastoral skills that will soon be put to good use after ordination to the priesthood. Finally, the Fourth Theologian will continue spiritual direction to deepen his prayer life and his love of the Lord, and he will already be looking for a spiritual director in his home diocese.

II. EXPECTATIONS

A. Human Formation

It is expected that the Fourth Year seminarian be fully convinced that he is called to the priesthood and that he is ready and able to accept ordination. By this time, he should understand well the commitment to celibacy and have adopted a way of life that supports it. This means that he understands the importance of establishing limits and guidelines in relating with men, women, and children in ministry and that he knows how to maintain a pastoral and professional relationship. He is also expected to manifest a lifestyle and behavior that is consistent with the poverty of spirit appropriate to the priestly life, especially as this is enunciated by Pope John Paul II.

By the Fourth Year, the seminarian should be able to organize and coordinate his various responsibilities. He is also expected to demonstrate qualities of leadership and to support others who are in leadership positions. He also displays an ability for collaborative ministry and cooperation with the pastor and all those with pastoral responsibilities.

It is expected that the Fourth Year seminarian be a mature man of profound personal integrity and respect for others. He has a realistic knowledge of himself and his strengths and weaknesses and manifests a capacity for friendship and service towards others. It is essential that he possess those human qualities that will allow him to assume the figure of the “Good Shepherd” in his pastoral ministry.

Do I have any serious doubts about by fitness or ability to assume the obligations of the ordained priesthood? If so, have I discussed this with my spiritual director, formation advisor, and vocation director? Has anyone expressed serious doubts and, if so, have I honestly dealt with these with my spiritual director and formation advisor?
Am I aware of any potentially unhealthy tendencies in my relationships with others in my exercise of the ministry? Are there any signs of singularity or eccentricity in me that would detract from my effectiveness as a priest?

How have I shown leadership qualities in my pastoral ministry during the summer and in my deacon assignment? Am I overbearing, possessive, and jealous of my authority? In other words, am I secure in exercising authority?

On a practical level, how do I collaborate and cooperate effectively with others? Are there any complaints from co-workers or authorities concerning my inability to cooperate?

Am I on time for meetings, etc.? Do I prepare ahead of time? How capable am I of efficiently organizing my responsibilities in the seminary, in the parish, etc.?

Have I honestly assessed my attachment to material goods and commitments to see if they are in harmony with the priestly life and ministry? How am I preparing for rectory life in terms of recognizing the demands of living with others? Do I try to accommodate others?

Do I seek out friendships with my peers? Do I intend to seek out priestly fraternity after ordination? Am I a “lone ranger” or do I value the sense of solidarity that exists in the presbyterate?

B. Spiritual Formation

It is expected that the Fourth Year seminarian has developed a strong spirituality and the habit of prayer and that he shows that he is easily able to combine fidelity to the spiritual exercises of the seminary with his personal prayer life and his service to others.

By the Fourth Year, the seminarian is committed to his diocese and manifests obedience to his bishop and those representing him. He also has begun to look for a spiritual director and confessor in his own diocese and has made arrangements to fulfill the requirement of his canonical retreat. He has also begun to think of belonging to a priestly support group.

The Fourth Year seminarian demonstrates a sense of the importance of the ministry of preaching. He fulfills his obligations carefully in this regard by careful preparation and consultation with more experienced preachers.

Knowing the riches that are in Christ and in his Church, the seminarian recognizes and respects the freedom of the faithful with respect to personal devotions and different spiritualities. He is ready to give spiritual guidance to others in accord with their way of life and God’s call to them without forcing his personal devotions or attractions on them. The Fourth Year should be a time when the theologian acquires the basic elements of spiritual direction so that he can offer his services to those who seek him out for direction.

- In my final year of seminary, am I able without great effort to be faithful to my communal exercises and my personal prayer life, or do I regularly excuse myself from one or the other?
- Does my commitment to the Liturgy of the Hours and to personal prayer continue when I am away from the seminary on vacations or exercising my ministry in the parish?
- Have I made any concrete efforts to inquire from others who might be a good spiritual director or confessor? Do I have an alternate plan if I cannot find either in my diocese?
- Am I open to serving as a spiritual director after ordination, and am I taking steps to prepare myself for this ministry?
- Have I made an honest evaluation of my own piety to see if it is in conformity with the mind of the Church and the contemporary needs of the Church?
- Do I make an honest effort to respect and value the diversity of spiritualities and devotions among the faithful? Do I have a tendency to want to impose a particular spirituality or pious practices on the faithful?
- Do I experience joy and fulfillment in the celibate life? Have I experienced difficulties that I still need to resolve before my ordination to the priesthood? Am I open and honest with my spiritual director?
- In my pastoral assignments, have I demonstrated that I am an obedient person and a “team player”?

C. Intellectual Formation

In the final academic year, the student should aim at bringing synthesis to his intellectual formation. He should conduct an honest self-assessment of his theological readiness, and take appropriate steps to address areas of deficiency. Fourth Year classes treat central issues, so the seminarian must strongly resist the temptation to so emphasize his role as deacon as to neglect his role as student. In applying himself to the curriculum, he should note that this is the year in which nearly all his sacramental theory, law, and practice is treated (Marriage, Eucharist, Anointing, Reconciliation, priesthood practicum). Study of Pauline literature, the most extensive New Testament writings, becomes the capstone of the Scripture study. Students should be particularly attentive to ecumenism this year. Fourth Year men should strive to be prepared for ministry to marriage and family by the combination of pastoral counseling, medical and sexual ethics, and the marriage and family courses. If not taking an elective for one of the dual degree programs, ordination program candidates should give serious consideration to electing to take those courses aimed particularly at Fourth Year men (spiritual direction, parish administration). M.A. (theology) and S.T.B. candidates should be working on the comprehensive examinations and at the completion of any other outstanding degree requirements.

Fourth Year men should manifest a fidelity to study, a habit of theological reflection and reading, interest in contemporary national, international, and church related current events. They should be attentive to how their theological training is reflected in their teaching and preaching as deacons. Deacons should welcome positive and critical feedback on their preaching. They should be attentive in their weekend assignments to learn how parish priests address ongoing theological education, what periodicals and books they are reading, and what workshops and other opportunities for ongoing education are available. They should take care to develop their own collection of theological resources, both in print and on line, for future ministry.

Fourth Year men from dioceses where there is a pastoral need for Spanish language proficiency should take the necessary steps to become proficient in Spanish if they have not already done so. Study of U.S. Church history should help increase his awareness of and interest in understanding the multiple cultures to which he will address the Gospel in his priestly ministry.

- Am I preparing for S.T.B. or M.A. (theology) comprehensives? If an M.A. (theology) candidate, have I successfully completed all three research projects for my concentration?
- Have I done any outside theological reading not directly related to my courses?
- Is there some area of theology that I need to strengthen before leaving the seminary? Have I acquired proficiency in Spanish or other languages needed for ministry?
- Have I assembled a library of resources that will be useful to me in the parish ministry?
- Have I acquired the habit of doing regular theological reading not related to my courses, and do I have a plan to continue my theological education after ordination?

D. Pastoral Formation

The Fourth Year seminarian who is a deacon should take advantage of opportunities to preach in his deacon assignment and in the seminary. He should manifest an ability to preach to different kinds of congregations and to show appreciation of multiple aspects of life.

He should show himself able to carry out all functions of pastoral ministry with the patience, humility and kindness of Christ. In the parish setting, he should demonstrate leadership within the context of a willingness to implement the pastoral vision and policies of the pastor and other parish leaders. In the seminary setting, he should strengthen unity and build up the community.

The Fourth Year seminarian is expected to avoid singularity and eccentricities of behavior in his personal and pastoral activities. He also is willing and able to operate within the customs of the local church and to foster its unity. Finally, he demonstrates the ability to be realistic about accomplishing his ideals and projects, taking into account the actual situation of the parish and the people.

The Fourth Year seminarian should be characterized by a missionary and ecumenical spirit. As a priest, he should have a sense of his universal mission to preach the Gospel to all and to regard himself as sent to all who live within his parish. He should have a profound respect for other Christian and religious traditions, and he should be ready to collaborate with all for the building up of a just society.

- Have I had made a serious attempt to develop my preaching skills? Do I make any serious effort to understand the issues that hold people’s attention today? Am I at ease in discussing a range of topics and questions in my personal contact with people?
- Do I find myself getting upset when people do not agree with me or do not understand my point of view? Am I able to maintain respect and calm when I disagree with others?
- Do I make an effort to distinguish between what is a matter of law and what is a matter of my personal preference when it comes to the celebration of the liturgy and the sacraments? Am I biding my time in the seminary in relationship to my own agenda? Once I am out of the seminary, will I have regard for the customs of the local church and the sensibilities of others?
- Do I have the intention of adopting what I know others will consider an eccentric lifestyle or liturgical style once I am free from the constraints of seminary life without thought of the impact of this on my priestly ministry? Is it my intention to conform to the customs of my diocese with regard to clerical dress?
• Do I willingly and effectively cooperate with the pastor in my present assignment and do I see this as a modus vivendi for the future? Do I recognize, respect, and further the leadership roles of other members of the pastoral team in the parish (e.g. DRE, Music Director)?

• Am I realistic in my expectations when it comes to implementing my ideas? Have I honestly examined my own ideals to see how they conform to the Church’s life and mission?

• Do I keep in mind that I am a missionary sent to bring the Gospel to all people within the parish to which I am assigned? Am I eager to undertake the New Evangelization?

• Do I appreciate that the priest is supposed to be a source of unity and not of division? Do I strive to promote unity and peace and charity?
ACADEMIC NORMS

I. INTRODUCTION

These academic norms constitute Mount St. Mary’s Seminary policy regarding the intellectual formation program as it applies to both students and faculty.¹

II. INTELLECTUAL FORMATION OF FUTURE PRIESTS

The Program of Priestly Formation (2006) addresses the intellectual formation of future priests (PPF 136-235). It explains that disciples are learners. The first task of intellectual formation is to acquire a personal knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ. The deepening and appropriation of this knowledge is not simply for personal possession. Rather, intellectual formation has an apostolic and missionary purpose and finality (PPF 137). Intellectual formation culminates in a deepened understanding of the mysteries of faith that is pastorally oriented toward effective priestly ministry, especially preaching (PPF 138). It demands academic integrity (PPF 138). “The overall goal of every stage of seminary formation is to prepare a candidate who is widely knowledgeable about the human condition, deeply engaged in a process of understanding divine revelation, and adequately skilled in communicating his knowledge to as many people as possible (PPF 138).

The study of philosophy is fundamental and indispensable to the structure of theological studies; and is usually at least two full years in length (PPF 152). It is not just an intellectual formation, but closely connected to human, spiritual, and pastoral formation. “Philosophy serves as a guarantee of that certainty of truth which is the only firm basis for a total giving of oneself to Jesus and to the church” (Pastores Dabo Vobis 52). Philosophy must include the study of ancient, medieval, modern, and contemporary philosophy as well as logic, epistemology, philosophy of nature, metaphysics, natural theology, anthropology, and ethics. Students should develop critical and analytical abilities and become clearer thinkers who will be better able rationally to present, discuss, and defend the truths of the faith (PPF 156). It must be grounded in the perennially valid philosophical heritage and the philosophy of Aquinas should be given significant treatment (PPF 181). Other great Christian theologians who were also great philosophers should be treated (PPF 157).

Pre-theology should include 30 hours of philosophy, and students who lack a solid liberal arts education should be provided a curriculum that supplies for lacunae in this area. The Catholic intellectual tradition in literature and the arts should be part of such curriculum as well as Latin, Greek, rhetoric and communication (PPF 161-62, 182).

Theological education begins and ends in faith, is apostolically motivated, and integrated with other elements of human understanding especially philosophy and the human sciences (PPF 163). It must be rigorous, both academically and pastorally in its orientation (PPF 163). The theological curriculum is described in detail, with attention paid to homiletics, synchronic and diachronic methodology in scripture, the various theological methods, respect for both the traditional and contemporary modes of theological expression and explanation, fidelity to the magisterium, etc. Regarding degrees to be offered (PPF 231), the PPF sees the Master of Divinity degree program as the recognized standard for preparation for ordained ministry, supplemented by the Master of Arts (theology), and the S.T.B. degree programs. Seminarians are normally expected to obtain the Master of Divinity and/or the S.T.B. degree prior to ordination (232). The Mount program is in compliance with the requirements of the PPF.

¹ The “Academic Policies & Regulations” regarding courses offered by Mount St. Mary’s University are listed in the current undergraduate catalog. Other policies governing undergraduate student conduct are contained in the university’s Student Handbook.
III. REGISTRATION

A. Enrollment

1. Registration:
   Students enrolled in the seminary register for classes through the Seminary Registrar’s office according to posted schedules and procedures. Typically registration for the next semester occurs two weeks after the mid-semester break. Seminarians may also register for undergraduate classes through the Seminary Registrar with permission of the Academic Dean. No student will receive credit for any subject taken in a class or section for which he has not been duly registered by the Seminary Registrar.

2. Course Load:
   Full-time students may register for no more than 18 and no less than 12 credits per semester.

3. Pass/Fail and Audit Courses:
   a. Selected practica courses (HOML 701/702 Models of Preaching/ Homiletics practicum, LITY 801 Penance practicum, LITY 802 Mass practicum, PTHL 003 Pre-theology Formation Pro-Seminar, as well as the Pastoral Music and Pastoral Field Education placements) are graded either Pass ("P") or Fail ("F") and do not contribute quality points towards the grade point average calculations.
      • There is no option for seminarians to choose to take other courses for pass/fail at Mount St. Mary’s.
   b. Seminarians may choose to audit courses (i.e. attend and participate without receiving credit) only with the approval of the seminary Academic Dean, and provided that space is available in the course.
      • To receive the audit grade ("AU") on the transcript, the student must satisfy attendance and any other course requirements set by the professor for an official audit.\(^2\)
      • After the last day of “drop/add” (at the end of the first week of classes), the student may not change enrollment status from audit to regular grade or vice versa.

B. Drop/Add Course Policy

1. Drop/add forms for either seminary or undergraduate classes are available from the Seminary Registrar. They must be completed by the student and returned to the Seminary Registrar’s office for approval by the Seminary Academic Dean before the deadline.

2. The deadline for the change of any course, change in enrollment status (credit/audit), the discontinuance of any course, or the change of section is noon of the fifth day of classes for that semester. The Seminary Academic Dean must approve all changes.

C. Independent Study/Tutorial Courses

1. In exceptional cases, independent study\(^3\) or tutorial courses may be permitted in order to accommodate a student for whom there is no other practical manner in which to fulfill a program or degree requirement.

---

\(^2\) “A student may audit a course, i.e., attend and participate without receiving credit, provided that space is available in the course and written permission of the instructor is obtained.” (Academic Policies, undergraduate catalog)

\(^3\) “An independent study is an advanced-level study taken with a faculty mentor, generally within a student’s major... Satisfactory completion of independent study must involve a substantial scholarly or creative project that the student designs in concert with the mentor... Independent studies must be approved in advance by the faculty mentor, the mentor’s department chair, and the dean of undergraduate studies. A tutorial is a specially offered version of a regular course, taken by a student because he or she does not have the opportunity to take it in the ordinary way... Tutorials
2. Permission for any independent study or tutorial must be sought from the professor, the department chair, and the Seminary Academic Dean.
   a. The Independent Study/Learning Agreement form (available from the Seminary Registrar) must be completed and submitted for approval before the end of the drop/add period.
   b. In the case of an independent study elective to be counted towards the M.A.P.S. degree program, permission must be sought from the Director of M.A.P.S. in addition to the Seminary Academic Dean, prior to making arrangements with a professor for such a course.

IV. COURSE WORK

A. Syllabi:
   1. At the beginning of each course, the professor will provide a syllabus to each student for all courses taught at Mount St. Mary’s Seminary, cores and electives. This may be posted on the current course management software (Moodle or Canvas). The professor also submits an electronic copy of all syllabi to the appropriate folder on the campus network shared seminary drive no later than the end of the second week of classes for the seminary’s academic archives.
   2. The syllabus (following the standard seminary template) shall contain at least the following:
      - the code and title of the course (as listed in the catalog); number of hours per week the course meets for the number of weeks in the semester (e.g. 3 hours per week/15 weeks or 2 hours per week/10 weeks)
      - professor’s name, academic rank, and credentials
      - course description (8-10 lines)
      - bibliography (5-10 titles of required texts)
      - place of this course in the curriculum, in the Formation Program Goals, in the specific degree programs
      - expected outcomes, goals, objectives for the course (no more than 6 statements, using SMART language)
      - course requirements (specific readings, papers, exams – with due dates, detailed instructions, and the percentage weight of different course requirements for the final grade calculation)
      - availability of professor outside of class times
      - grading – how it is based and what determines the final grade (showing the seminary grade scale* - unless the course is Pass/Fail, plus any penalties for the late submission of required work or unauthorized absences)

* Seminary grade scale -- effective fall 2006

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>Grade point</th>
<th>Grade range</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>4.00</td>
<td>96-100</td>
<td>Exceptional performance</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A-</td>
<td>3.67</td>
<td>93-95</td>
<td>Excellent work</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B+</td>
<td>3.33</td>
<td>89-92</td>
<td>Very good work</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B</td>
<td>3.00</td>
<td>83-88</td>
<td>Good work</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B-</td>
<td>2.67</td>
<td>80-82</td>
<td>Acceptable work</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* must be approved in advance by the faculty mentor, the mentor’s department chair, and the dean of undergraduate studies.” (Academic Policies, undergraduate catalog)

4 Refer to the Norms of the Master of Philosophical Studies (available as an appendix to these Academic Norms)

5 “Each faculty member at Mount St. Mary’s is free to devise any system of student evaluation that is based on reason and results in professional judgments of student academic performance and achievement. Ordinarily, this means faculty members base grades on the following criteria: understanding of material; articulation and communication of course material; application and integration of material; fulfillment of basic course requirements. "Faculty and students share an understanding that: A=Excellent; B=Good; C=Satisfactory; D=Poor; F=Failure. Grading policies for each course must be published in the syllabus distributed at the beginning of the semester.” (Academic Policies, undergraduate catalog)
B. Required Reading

1. Although there is no absolute norm regarding the quantity of reading normally required for a graduate level course, students should generally expect to devote more time to reading outside of the classroom than they devote to attending classes.

2. The university bookstore carries all required textbooks. The Phillips Library provides a reserve shelf for texts specified by the professor. The use of “Moodle” or other campus-standard course management software is expected. Photocopying is available in the library as well as in the seminary at a reasonable cost. All copyright laws shall be respected by students and faculty.

C. Examinations

1. Midterms:
   A midterm exam (or its equivalent) shall be given in every seminary course about the middle of the semester. These shall be graded promptly. The student and the Seminary Registrar shall be made aware of any midterm academic deficiencies (see below).

2. Finals:
   Final examinations in the core courses will be scheduled by the Seminary Registrar and are to be administered at that time as part of the contact hours for the course. The exam schedule is generally available at the time of registration (or by the beginning of the semester) so that appropriate travel arrangements may be made in advance. The professor will determine whether an oral or a written examination will be given. Departments shall take care that students regularly are required to take written exams. Final examinations in elective courses are given on the last day of class.

D. Papers/Written Reports

1. Departments shall take care that all students regularly are required to submit research papers in the core classes.
   - Details regarding written requirements for M.A. (theology) degree candidates are given below.

2. General Norms:
   The seminary follows the Turabian style sheet, and accepts its preference for footnotes rather than endnotes. Students are encouraged to own a copy of the most recent edition: Kate Turabian, A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses and Dissertations (Chicago: The University of Chicago Press, 1996).

E. Academic Assistance

1. The Writing Center, located in the Phillips Library, is available to seminary students to help them develop skills in writing analytically and critically.

2. Learning Services, located in the Archbishop William Borders Learning Center, provides assistance to students seeking confidential academic accommodations.

3. Writing Pro-Seminars:
   - A writing pro-seminar (MDIV 500) “Making Good Papers Better” is required of all first theologians (1T’s). Three sessions of about 75 minutes will be scheduled near the beginning of the fall semester each year and taught by a seminary professor. The content of the sessions includes: an overview of the writing process, with particular attention on the requirements for papers written during first theology, training regarding proof-reading fellow students’ papers to improve coherence and clarity, and instruction in the Turabian style of documentation.

- A writing pro-seminar is required of all first year pre-theologians (P1’s) as a part of the PTHL 003 Pre-Theology Formation Pro-Seminar. Two or three sessions of about 50 minutes will be scheduled near the beginning of the fall semester each year and taught by a seminary professor. The content of the sessions includes: an overview of the writing process, with particular attention on the requirements for papers written during the first year of pre-theology, training regarding proof-reading fellow students’ papers to improve coherence and clarity, and instruction in the Turabian style sheet and MLA documentation.

F. Student Course Evaluations

1. All students are expected to complete an evaluation for each of their classes before leaving campus at the end of the semester. This input is important both to the professor teaching the class and to the academic dean for the overall assessment of the Seminary curriculum.
   - The evaluations will be available online through the “Portal” by the last week of classes and should be completed before the end of the final examination week (and the grades are submitted). The evaluation consists of rating standard statements regarding the teaching of each course, the student’s rating of their accomplishment of the goals set for the course (as exhibited on the syllabus), and a freeform section for comments about the course (which can be particularly helpful for the ongoing review and revision of the curriculum). Evaluations for “practica” courses and formation seminars consist of just the comments section.
   - Seminarians’ access to their personal information on “Portal” (grades, finances, etc) will be blocked during the time that the evaluation forms are made accessible until the final grades have been processed. The personal information will continue to be blocked until all course evaluations for that semester have been completed.
   - Seminarians in undergraduate/graduate philosophy classes may be asked to complete course evaluations administered by the philosophy department.

2. Only the Seminary Registrar (who does the compilation) and the Rector have access to the raw data of the evaluation forms. Faculty members receive a compilation of the evaluations and comments after the final grades are received for the semester.

V. MASTER OF ARTS (THEOLOGY) DEGREE PROGRAM

The following specifies the procedures for registering for the Master of Arts (theology) degree program, research portfolio or thesis, comprehensive examination, and withdrawal from the degree program or any aspect of it.

A. Admission

1. M.A. (theology) Degree Requirements (as listed in the catalog):
   - Bachelor’s degree or the equivalent from an accredited college
   - At least 18 undergraduate credits in philosophy
   - For ordination program candidates:
     - Approval from the sponsoring diocese to enter the M.A. (theology) degree program
     - Endorsement (signature) of formation advisor

2. Application Process:
   - Lay students: completion of the seminary’s short application forms and the application form for the area of concentration (approval of diocese and endorsement of formation advisor is not applicable for such candidates).
   - Seminarians: completion of the application form for one of the concentration areas available from the Seminary Registrar’s office.
   - Forms are available from the Seminary Registrar. Seminarians typically are admitted to the M.A. (theology)/M.Div. dual-degree program at the time of the fall registration into second theology.
B. Degree Requirements

1. Foundation:
   Successful completion of the following foundational (first theology) graduate courses with an average of at least 2.50 (or permission of the Seminary Academic Dean)
   - MORL 501 Fundamental Moral Theology I
   - SCRP 501 Introduction to Biblical Studies: Wisdom & Psalms
   - SCRP 501 Christian Spirituality
   - SYST 501 Revelation, Faith, and Theology

2. Course work:
   Successful completion of the minimum 48 credits required with a cumulative average of 3.0; including 12 credits of foundation courses, 12 credits of concentration core courses; 9 credits of other cores, 6 credits of electives in the area of concentration and their concomitant research projects (details regarding the research projects portfolio below), plus 6 additional credits to be specified by the degree candidate. In addition the candidate must successfully pass an oral comprehensive exam (details below).

3. Completion:
   Seminarians must complete all degree requirements by the end of their fourth year of theology. Lay students must complete their program no later than four years from initial matriculation (see below for the thesis option deadlines). Any exceptions to these norms must have the approval of the Academic Dean

C. Portfolio of Written Research Projects

1. Electives and Concomitant Research Projects:
   M.A. (theology) candidates must take and pass three electives in their area of concentration according to the requirement specified in the catalog. The electives, in general, earn two credits and are given letter grades. M.A. (theology) candidates concomitantly register for an independent directed research project corresponding to each of the three electives. Each directed written research project is given a letter grade and earns one credit.
   - The final copy of the project is due at the end of the semester in which the concomitant elective is taken. Any grade of “I” (incomplete) must be resolved according to seminary policy (see below). There are no additional extensions given for research projects. It is the student’s responsibility to ensure that the final electronic copy with the professor’s approval signature has been submitted to the Seminary Registrar’s office for their portfolio.
   - The three successfully completed papers together comprise the portfolio of the M.A. (theology) candidate and are filed with the Seminary Registrar. No paper may be added to the portfolio with a grade of lower than 3.0. Departments may establish policies requiring specific courses or professors for the electives and or research projects.

2. Requirements for Written Research Projects:
   Each paper shall present a well-researched point in church history, moral theology, pastoral theology, sacred scripture or systematic theology in a clear, organized and reasoned way. The candidate shall demonstrate the ability to formulate an outline, discern and employ appropriate literature needed to research the topic thoroughly, to state the facts and positions in an intelligible manner, to discern and present the strengths and weaknesses of the arguments which have been investigated, and to draw an appropriate conclusion.

3. Length and Style:
   The written text shall be a minimum of 15 standard pages (about 250 words per page), exclusive of notes and bibliography. The director must agree to the candidate’s choice of topic. The director will provide guidance through the outline, research, and draft stages of the written research project, and will award a letter grade to the completed work. Mount St. Mary’s Seminary requires the Turabian style sheet and its preference for footnotes rather than endnotes. Projects will not be approved which rely too heavily on internet resources.

4. Grading:
Research papers are awarded a letter grade which reflects the quality of the research and writing. Those awarded less than a “B” (3.0) may not be added to the portfolio, but the student may have one additional attempt at repeating such a research course.

5. Final Copy:
The Seminary Registrar shall maintain a final electronic copy of each of the written research projects in the student’s academic file. Three completed works comprise the M.A. (theology) portfolio. The official final copy of each research project should use basic standard format of wording for the title page with a place for the director to sign and date the approval is to be followed [see sample, suggest using 12-point font consistent with the body text]. The professor submits a signed electronic copy of each approved research paper to the Seminary Registrar along with the semester grades for the course (or grade change request form, in the case of an incomplete). It is the student’s responsibility to make sure that this has been done in a timely manner.

D. Thesis Option

1. Distinction between a Thesis and a Research Portfolio:
M.A. (theology) candidates, with the approval of the Academic Dean, may opt to write a thesis instead of taking two of the three electives with their concomitant research and writing projects. Because the thesis requires more extensive research and writing, six credits are awarded. At the Master’s level one would not expect the thesis to produce some new discovery. It must, however, give evidence of research and knowledge in greater depth than is expected in a research portfolio. It can also treat questions that have a broader scope, since more time is allotted for this project.

2. Beginning the M.A. (theology) Thesis Project:
It is the responsibility of the candidate to approach a prospective director for the M.A. (theology) thesis from those teaching in the area of concentration, as soon as possible after the candidate enters the M.A. (theology) program. The director must agree to the choice of topic, to guide the candidate’s research, outline, and draft stages, and to give or withhold final approval to the completed project. The department chair will designate a second reader for the thesis.

3. Stages to be Completed in Second Theology:
At a meeting before the end of second theology, the candidate and director should have a preliminary discussion of possible topics, should review the thesis topic proposal form (available from the registrar), and plan a schedule to meet its deadlines.

4. Stages to be Completed in Third Theology:
The completed form and required one-page summary of the nature of the proposed M.A. (theology) thesis (its major questions, methodology, and limit, and the proposed authors to be studied) are submitted to the director and second reader no later than November 1. After any adjustments to the thesis topic proposal have been made, the director, the second reader, and the department chair must signify their approval and file the proposal form with the Seminary Registrar no later than December 15. If the director is the department chair, the signature of an additional member of the department is sought. Mount St. Mary’s Seminary encourages candidates to begin work on their outline and research during their third year. After the thesis topic has been approved, the M.A. (theology) thesis must be registered for as a three-credit elective class for the first and second semesters of fourth theology.

5. Stages to be Completed in Fourth Theology:
   Candidates should submit a draft outline and bibliography to the director no later than September 1. Approval of the department is required for any extension. Papers must receive final approval of the director no later than March 31 to qualify toward a May commencement.

6. Length and Style:
   A recommended average length for the M.A. (theology) thesis is approximately 150 to 200 pages, exclusive of bibliography. The candidate should outline the thesis in such a way as to present the research adequately within this limit. The thesis must use correct grammar, style, and technical form. Mount St. Mary’s Seminary follows the Turabian style sheet, and accepts its preference for footnotes.

7. Grading:
   Upon approval, the thesis is graded by the director (first reader) and the second reader. Only a grade of "A" or "B" will be accepted and entered on the student's transcript and averaged in with the other courses in order to arrive at the final grade point average (GPA). The title of the approved thesis appears on the student's transcript. If it should happen that the two faculty readers are in disagreement as to the acceptability of the thesis, a third reader shall be assigned by the Seminary Academic Dean after consultation with the faculty in that area of concentration and the vote of that reader shall decide the issue.

8. Final Copy:
   The official final copy of the M.A. (theology) thesis should be signed by the director and second reader, submitted electronically to be kept on file with the seminary. A basic standard format for the title page with a place for the director and second reader to sign and date the approval is to be followed (see the sample above for the research paper).

   Courtesy demands that a copy be given to the Ordinary, the director, and the second reader. Copier centers offer various binding services for any additional copies needed. The thesis must be completed within five years of initial matriculation into the M.A. (Theology) degree program.

E. Comprehensive Examination

1. Purpose:
   The exam shall measure the candidate’s mastery of a body of theological knowledge as well as the ability to synthesize.

2. Time of the Exam:
   Offered in March of fourth theology, candidates are automatically registered for the comprehensive examination during registration for the spring semester. Only registered candidates may take the exam. The deadline for withdrawal (which must be made in writing to the Seminary Registrar) is two weeks prior to the examination. A no-show is counted as a failure, emergencies excepted.
3. Study Guide:
   After registering for the exam in the fall of fourth theology (or in the fall of the year a non-ordination program candidate plans to take the comprehensive examination), the candidate will receive a study guide consisting of three synthetic questions prepared by the department of concentration which should incorporate materials from the cores taken in the other disciplines in so far as possible. The study guide may, at the discretion of the department, include some bibliography should the department wish to offer it as a sort of reading list.

4. Method of the Examination:
   Each student will be examined by a team composed of the professors in the department of concentration for a 30 minute oral examination. Departments establish the specific procedures for the oral examination. The exam consists of any or all of the study guide questions. The Academic Dean designates one member of each board of examiners as the “chair of the exam.” It is the responsibility of the chair to keep time, to determine the ordering of the three 10-minute sections of the oral examination, to call for a vote at its conclusion, and to report the result of the examination to the registrar. In exceptional cases a written comprehensive exam may be authorized by the Seminary Academic Dean (see V, F, below).

5. Passing the Examination:
   After the candidate is excused, each examiner votes individually either pass or fail. Each judges both the merits of the answers given to questions he or she posed as well as the overall performance of the student in the examination as a whole. Candidates pass the comprehensive exam by obtaining a unanimous vote of pass. Departments may record pass/fail or pass/fail/distinction for the comprehensive examination. The chair of the exam delivers the results to the Seminary Registrar, who announces the result to the candidate. The student is told the overall grade of pass or fail, not the individual vote of members of the examining board. The individual votes remain confidential. Nevertheless, any student who has failed is free to meet individually with members of the examining board to seek advice as to how to prepare for an eventual second attempt.

6. Policy on seminarians who choose not to sit for the scheduled M.A. (theology) comprehensive examination:
   Seminarians are required to complete all M.A. (theology) requirements before the end of their fourth year theology. Seminarians are automatically scheduled to sit for the M.A. (theology) comprehensive examination when they register for their final semester of study, usually in their fourth year. Students who are scheduled to take the M.A. (theology) comprehensive examination are exempt from the requirement of taking an elective in their final semester of seminary study. Subsequent failure to sit for the examination will count as one failed attempt at the comprehensive examination and will be recorded as such. In such a case the seminarian has only one remaining opportunity to take and pass the comprehensive examination. This may take place no sooner than the semester following his failure to sit for the originally scheduled examination, and no later than 1 year after the failure. He may still earn the M.A. (theology) degree (assuming all other requirements are met before he completes his final semester). However, if he fails to complete the other requirements or fails the exam or fails to take it in that timeframe, he is no longer eligible to earn the degree.

7. Retaking the Comprehensive Exam:
   Candidates who fail the comprehensive exam are permitted one additional attempt to pass the exam (usually no sooner than fall semester following their first attempt). The second attempt involves preparing the new study guide and sitting for the 30-minute exam as described above. The board of examiners will not necessarily be the same.
a. It is the M.A. (theology) candidate’s responsibility to contact the department chair and request the rescheduled exam. The chair will set a date and establish a board of examiners and determine the study guide for the exam. It is expected that the exam be given face to face (in person) at the Seminary.

b. The department chair shall inform the academic dean when and if the comprehensive exam date is set. If the exam is passed and all other requirements are met, the degree will be awarded at the graduation ceremony the following May.

F. Written Comprehensive Examination (* FOR EXCEPTIONAL CASES ONLY)

1. Developing Examination Questions for Written Comprehensive Examinations:
   A board of three examiners, one of whom is also named the chair, is selected by the Seminary Academic Dean. They meet and determine the three synthetic questions for the written examination. These may include any or all of the questions from the oral exam study guide for that year. The chair submits the questions to the Seminary Registrar who mails the assembled packet to the M.A. (theology) candidate in a sealed envelope.

2. Proctor:
   Written examinations are to be proctored. This is to be arranged by the candidate. Directions are given to the student on the sealed envelope containing the exam. The proctor is asked to sign a statement on the envelope, as follows: “I have monitored the M.A. (theology) candidate’s comprehensive exam, which I received in this sealed envelope. The candidate was allowed a total of 90 minutes to complete the questions. The candidate did not use any books, notes, or other materials in preparing the written response other than the one page prepared outlines which are being included with this exam.”

3. Written Comprehensive Examination Process:
   a. The candidate may not exceed 90 minutes to complete the questions chosen from the alternatives offered.
   b. The comprehensive exam consists of questions based on the three synthetic questions of the study guide. The candidate may use word-processing technology or may write out the answers in ink on lined paper or in the blue books provided with the exam. A separate blue book or sheets of paper should be used for each section of the exam. The candidate is to return the original envelope signed by the proctor, the exam questions sheet, and his or her answers to the Seminary Registrar in the envelope provided for that purpose as soon as possible. The written exam will be considered void and the attempt a failure if the exam is not returned within one month of its receipt.

4. Grading for Written Comprehensive Exams:
   a. Each examiner votes individually either pass or fail. Each judges both the merits of the answers given to questions he or she posed, as well as the overall performance of the student in the examination as a whole. Departments may record pass/fail or pass/fail/distinction for the examination. Candidates pass the written comprehensive exam by obtaining a unanimous vote of pass.
   b. The chair of the exam delivers the results to the Seminary Registrar, who announces the result to the candidate. The student is told the overall grade of pass or fail, not the individual vote of members of the examining board. The individual votes remain confidential.
   1) Nevertheless, any student who has failed is free to meet individually with members of the examining board to seek advice as to how to prepare for an eventual second attempt. A minimum of two weeks should be allowed for notification of the results of a written examination.

5. Retaking Written Comprehensive Exams:
   Only two attempts are permitted of the comprehensive examination, regardless of the format.

G. M.A. (theology) degree Completion
   All degree requirements, as specified in the catalog, must be completed by seminarians by the end of their fourth year of theology. Non-ordination program candidates must complete their program no later than four years from initial matriculation. Students who opt for a thesis must complete all degree requirements within five years of the date of matriculation. PDFs of all graduating candidates’ M.A. (theology) Research Project Portfolios will be archived at the Phillips Library.

1. Candidates are considered currently enrolled in the program from the date of matriculation until either they complete the degree, officially withdraw, or allow the time limit to expire.
2. The Seminary Academic Dean and the department chair must approve any request for an extension due to extraordinary circumstances.

H. Honors at Graduation

The graduation honors are calculated from the cumulative grade point average of the minimum 48 credits earned for the M.A. (theology) degree: summa cum laude (3.85 to 4.00); magna cum laude (3.65 to 3.84); cum laude (3.50 to 3.64). Such honors will be noted on the transcript along with other pertinent details about the M.A. (theology) degree program.

I. Withdrawal from the M.A. (theology) degree program

The Seminary Registrar must be notified in writing by the student of their intention to withdraw from the M.A. (theology) program (with copies given to the formation advisor and vocation director). The transcript will show an indication of withdrawal from the M.A. (theology) program. If currently enrolled in any coursework for the M.A. (theology) program, the intention to withdraw from such courses must also be clearly communicated to the Seminary Registrar (and the proper drop/add - withdrawal form completed).

1. Seminarian candidates withdraw from the M.A. (theology) program only with the consultation of their formation advisor and the approval of the diocese, since this same process was required to enter the program.
2. Students who withdraw from the M.A. (theology) program will be readmitted to the degree program only with the consent of the Seminary Academic Dean and the chair of the department in which the student intends to concentrate. This shall occur only in exceptional circumstances.

J. Withdrawal from a Research Course

1. Before the deadline for withdrawal from seminary courses:
   As in all other seminary courses, the student must submit a written explanation to the professor with a copy to the formation advisor and the Seminary Academic Dean explaining the reasons for the proposed withdrawal. No student may withdraw from a course after the fourth week of the semester without penalty. Students who withdraw are given a “W” on their transcript. A “W” is not calculated in the determination of the GPA.

2. After the deadline for withdrawal from seminary courses:
   A grade of “F” is given to a student who drops a seminary research course after the deadline, but who is not dropping out of the M.A. (theology) program. The grade of “F” is entered on the transcript and calculated in the determination of the GPA.

3. Withdrawal from both research course and M.A. (theology) program:
   A grade of “WF” is given for withdrawal from a seminary research course after the deadline on the condition that the student is withdrawing not only from the course but also from the M.A. (theology) program. The grade of “WF” appears on the transcript. A “WF” is not calculated in the determination of the GPA.

K. Failure of a Research Course

1. A student fails the 1-credit research course if he does not submit the required paper on time. A grade of “I” may be given following the procedures for Incompletes described elsewhere in these norms (X.E.).
Otherwise, a grade of “F” is entered on the transcript, and the term and cumulative grade point average is calculated accordingly.

2. With the consent of the professor, a student may repeat any such (one or more) research course one additional time. The student is not required to repeat the concomitant elective(s) if this course has already been taken and passed. Transcripts will indicate a retake. If a passing grade is earned, the cumulative GPA will be recalculated based on the retake grade with the previous attempt forgiven.

L. Failure to Earn a Grade of at least “B” in a Research Project

A student who does not earn at least a “B” in a research project may not submit that project to become part of the required M.A. (theology) research portfolio. In this case the student may repeat any such (one or more) research course one additional time. If a higher grade is earned, the cumulative GPA will be recalculated based on the retake grade with the previous attempt forgiven.

VI. MASTER OF DIVINITY (M.DIV.) DEGREE/ORDINATION FORMATION PROGRAM

A. Academic Requirements

The requirements for the Master of Divinity degree and the ordination formation program are listed in the current MSM Seminary Catalog (posted on the seminary website), along with descriptions for core and elective courses. All course credits applied to the M.Div. degree should be earned (at the Mount or another appropriately accredited graduate-level institution recognized by the U.S. Department of Education or by the Congregation for Catholic Education in Rome) within ten years of the awarding of the degree. The provisions of the catalog are not to be regarded as an irrevocable contract between the seminary and the student. The Seminary reserves the right to change any provisions or requirements at any time. Its general practice is to make no provisions retroactive, unless necessitated by changes in the Program of Priestly Formation (PPF) or other compelling causes.

B. Pastoral Field Education

See the Pastoral Formation section of this Seminarian Handbook for specifics.

C. Priesthood Integration Assessment

A comprehensive examination given to Fourth Theologians focusing on the pastoral application of the theological and canonical courses the seminarian has already successfully passed. The PIA is a 30-minute oral assessment given before the Rector and two other priest faculty members with broad parish experience. The questions of the Assessment address cases which may confront a newly-ordained priest during his first year in the parish. During the discussion of the cases with the priest assessors, the seminarian must prudently apply the theological and canonical knowledge he is already presumed to possess to these pastoral cases. It involves aspects of dogmatic, scriptural, moral, sacramental, canonical and psychological issues faced in a normal parish setting. The Fourth Theologians are provided a Study Guide with these questions to help them prepare for the exam. This oral examination is the culminating assessment for the ordination formation program.

D. Honors at Graduation

The graduation honors are calculated from the cumulative grade point average of all courses taken in the four years of the ordination formation program (pre-theology coursework not included): summa cum laude (3.85 to 4.00); magna cum laude (3.65 to 3.84); cum laude (3.50 to 3.64). Such honors will be noted on the transcript. See the Seminary Catalog (available on the seminary website) for other academic prizes that may be awarded.
E. Withdrawal from the M.Div. degree/Ordination Formation Program

1. In addition to the procedures outlined in the Rule of Life, Section II “Practices within the Seminary Community,” IV, J. (available on the seminary website), any student withdrawing from the seminary must ask the Seminary Registrar to withdraw enrollment from all current courses and degree programs.

2. An international student, who plans to withdraw early and transfer to another school, must inform the Seminary Registrar/DSO of that intent. An international student who withdraws early from their degree program (and is not transferring) has 15 days to leave the USA. However if dismissed or withdraws without informing the DSO, the student must depart the USA immediately (there is no grace period). Failure to maintain status with SEVIS can have serious consequences for the international student’s future ability to visit, study, or work in the USA.

VII. Bachelor of Sacred Theology (S.T.B.) Degree Program

A. Purpose

The degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology provides the student with a solid, Thomistic, organic, and complete instruction in theology at the basic level. As a first-cycle ecclesiastical academic degree, it enables graduates to pursue further studies in the sacred sciences. The degree is a prerequisite for further pursuit of an ecclesiastical licentiate degree, and is also accepted for further study in universities of the European Union where the M.Div. is not recognized.

B. Admission Requirements

The following prerequisites for admission will be evaluated by the Seminary Academic Dean who may, in individual cases, allow the student to remedy particular deficiencies during the first year of the program:

1. A bachelor’s degree (B.A./B.S./or its equivalent) from an accredited college or university.

2. Superior achievement and the ability to pursue graduate work as indicated by the transcript of previous studies (with a minimum GPA of 3.00).

3. An undergraduate foundation in philosophy, including a minimum of 36 credit hours. Courses should include: ancient, medieval, modern, and contemporary philosophy, logic, ethics, metaphysics, epistemology, natural theology, philosophical anthropology, political philosophy, and cosmology.

4. A reading knowledge of Latin.

C. Degree Requirements

1. Course Work: A minimum of 110 semester hours of credit is required with the following distribution:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DISCIPLINE (## crs)</th>
<th>Mount St. Mary’s Seminary Courses</th>
<th>Hrs per Wk</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Foundational (21)</td>
<td>CANL 601: Introduction to the Code of Canon Law</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>CANL 702: Marriage Law and Sanctifying Office</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>LITY 501: Introduction to the Liturgy</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>MORL 501: Fundamental Moral Theology I</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>MORL 502: Fundamental Moral Theology II</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SPIR 502: Christian Spirituality</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SYST 501: Revelation, Faith, Theology</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Systematic (23)</td>
<td>SYST 502: Theology of the Tri-personal God</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SYST 605: Grace I: Protology &amp; Anthropology</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SYST 606: Grace II: Grace and Theological Virtues</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SYST 705: Christology and Soteriology</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SYST 707: Ecclesiology I</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SYST 803: Ecclesiology II: Ecumenism and Missiology</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SYST 911: Mariology</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Sacramental (10)
- SYST 920: Thomistic Seminar
- SYST 604: Sacraments: Baptism and Confirmation
- SYST 704: Holy Orders
- SYST 801: Sacraments of Healing: Penance and Anointing
- SYST 802: Holy Eucharist

Moral (15)
- MORL 602: Justice and Social Teachings of the Church
- MORL 801: Catholic Medical and Sexual Morality
- MORL 802: Sacrament of Marriage and Pastoral Care
- MORL 907: Readings from the Summa I
- MORL 908: Readings from the Summa II

Scripture (21)
- SCR 501: Intro to Biblical Studies/Wisdom and Psalms
- SCR 502: Pentateuch and the Historical Books
- SCR 601: The Prophets
- SCR 602: Matthew and Mark
- SCR 702: Johannine Writings: Gospel, Revelation, Letters
- SCR 801: Pauline Letters and Pastoral Letters

Church History (12)
- CHUR 501: Patrology and the Church of the Fathers
- CHUR 502: Gregorian Reform and Protestant Reformation
- CHUR 601: Modern/Contemporary Church History
- CHUR 802: History of the Church in the U.S.A.

Pastoral Theology (8)
- ORDN 501: 1T Formation Seminar: Celibate Witness
- ORDN 502: 1T Formation Seminar: Public Speaking/Lector
- ORDN 601: 2T Formation Seminar: Personal Conduct and Character of the Priest
- ORDN 602: 2T Formation Seminar: Intro to Parish Finances
- ORDN 701: 3T Formation Seminar: Parish Administration and Human Resources
- ORDN 702: 3T Formation Seminar: Pastoral Leadership
- ORDN 801: 4T Seminar: Transition Seminar to Priesthood
- ORDN 802: 4T Seminar: Priesthood Assessment Integration Seminar (PAIS)

Total Semester Credit Hours (not including PHIL, LATN or GREK) for S.T.B. degree
- 110

NOTE:
- 3 credit courses meet for 3 hours per week over a span of 15 weeks (150 hours of instruction);
- 2 credit courses meet for 3 hours per week over a span of 10 weeks (100 hours of instruction);
- 1 cr. Formation Seminars meet for 75 minutes per week over 15 weeks (50 hours of instruction).

2. Language Requirements:*
Students must demonstrate a reading knowledge of New Testament Greek and Ecclesiastical Latin.

3. Grade Point Average:*
The student must maintain a grade point average of 3.00 or above in the S.T.B. requirements.

4. Comprehensive Exam:*
The S.T.B. comprehensive exam consists of written and oral examination. Normally the student takes the comprehensive examination during the eighth semester of study. The subject matter is material covered in the courses in systematic and sacramental theology, moral theology, and Scripture. A study guide of the themes or theses is given to the candidates. A series of preparatory and synthesis sessions is provided to those registered for the S.T.B. comprehensive. In order to pass, a student must receive an average grade of 3.0 on the exam. A candidate for the S.T.B. degree may not continue candidacy after two failures in the comprehensive examination.

a. Composition of the Examining Board:*
The board of examiners will consist of four professors, one each from the areas of Sacred Scripture, Systematic Theology, and Moral Theology, and one examiner from the Pontifical Faculty of the Immaculate Conception (of the Dominican House of Studies).
b. Structure of the Examination:

- PART ONE: Written Component: A three-hour long written examination in which the candidate for the S.T.B. will be asked to write on three of the questions from the study guide, one each from the assigned areas of sacred scripture, systematic theology and moral theology. In each area the candidate will be able to choose from three possible questions.

- PART TWO: Oral Component: A three-quarters of an hour long exam before three faculty members and a representative of DHS who will examine the candidate in all of the assigned areas. Questions may be drawn from any of the themes. The Oral Component of the S.T.B. examination will be scheduled as soon as possible after the Written Component, preferably no later than three days. During the Oral Component of the examination, a complete set of themes will be provided for reference by both the candidate and the examiners. The candidate should bring a Bible to the oral examination.

c. Purpose of the Examination

- The principal purpose of the Written Component of the S.T.B. Examination will be to test the candidate’s ability to expose theological materials, with special emphasis (as appropriate) on the pertinent contributions of historical and positive theology.

- The principal purpose of the Oral Component of the examination will be to test the candidate’s ability to order these materials towards a reasoned theological judgment or conclusion.

d. Grading of the Examination

- The following grades may be assigned for each part of the exam: A (4.0); A- (3.75); B+ (3.5); B (3.0); B- (2.75); C+ (2.5); C (2.0); C (2.0); F (0).

- The grade for the S.T.B. comprehensive examination is the average of all grades submitted by the examiners (written and oral components), with a minimum average of 3.0 needed for each component. Each examiner will assign a grade evaluating only those sections of the examination which he administered. No student will be admitted to the oral component without having received the minimum average for the written component. If the candidate has not met the 3.0 benchmark for the oral component, he need repeat only this component.

- No student will be admitted to the oral component without having passed the written component (minimum 3.0). The grades for both the oral and written components of the comprehensive examination will be available from the Office of the Seminary Academic Dean.

5. Honors at Graduation

a. Honor grades are computed according to the following method: S.T.B. Course work: 75%, Comprehensive Examination: 25%.

b. The graduation honors are: summa cum laude (3.90 to 4.00); magna cum laude (3.70 to 3.89); cum laude (3.50 to 3.69). Such honors will be noted on the transcript along with other pertinent details about the S.T.B. degree program.

6. Residency and fees

a. The residency requirement for the S.T.B. degree is eight semesters.

b. A $200.00 per year S.T.B. fee is charged (billed $100 each semester after matriculation in the S.T.B. degree program).

c. A non-refundable $25.00 diploma fee (check payable to the “Pontifical Faculty of the Immaculate Conception”) is due prior to taking the comprehensive examinations in spring of Fourth Year.

7. Transfer credit:

Students may transfer up to thirty (30) credits taken from an ecclesiastical faculty or other institution granting canonical degrees through affiliation with an ecclesiastical faculty.

D. Withdrawal from the S.T.B. degree program

1. Seminarian candidates withdraw from the S.T.B. program only with the consultation of their formation advisor and the approval of the diocese, since this same process was required to enter the program.
2. The Seminary Registrar must be notified in writing by the student of their intention to withdraw from the S.T.B. degree program. The transcript will show an indication of withdrawal from the program.

3. Students who withdraw from the S.T.B. degree program will be readmitted to the degree program only with the consent of the Seminary Academic Dean. This shall occur only in exceptional circumstances.

E. Model S.T.B. program

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>First Pre-Theology – Fall Semester (prerequisite courses)</th>
<th>[hours per week over 15 weeks]</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>LATN 950 Ecclesiastical Latin I</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PHIL 202 Logic and Philosophical Methods</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PHIL 311 Ancient Philosophy</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PTHL 001 Catechism and Catechetics I</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PPHL 901 Cosmology</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>First Pre-Theology – Spring Semester (prerequisite courses)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>LATN 960 Ecclesiastical Latin II</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PHIL 301 Ethics/Moral Philosophy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PHIL 312 Medieval Philosophy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PTHL 002 Catechism and Catechetics II</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Second Pre-Theology – Fall Semester (prerequisite courses)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>GREK 950 Biblical Greek I</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PHIL 313 Modern Philosophy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PHIL 521 Metaphysics</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PPHL 505 Natural Theology</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Second Pre-Theology – Spring Semester (prerequisite courses)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>GREK 960 Biblical Greek II</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PHIL 314 Contemporary Philosophy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PHIL 318 Epistemology/Philosophy of Knowledge</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PHIL 323 Political Philosophy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PPHL 506 Philosophical Anthropology</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>First Theology — Fall Semester</th>
<th>[16 hours]</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>CHUR 501 Patrology and the Church of the Fathers</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MORL 501 Fundamental Moral Theology I</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ORDN 501 1T Formation Seminar: Celibate Witness</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SCRP 501 Introduction to Biblical Studies/ Wisdom and Psalms</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SPIR 501 Christian Spirituality</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SYST 501 Revelation, Faith, Theology</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plus required Workshop on Catechetics</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>First Theology — Second Semester</th>
<th>[16 hours]</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>CHUR 502 Gregorian Reform to Protestant Reformation</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LITY 502 Introduction to the Liturgy</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MORL 502 Fundamental Moral Theology II</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ORDN 502 1T Formation Seminar: Public Speaking/Lector</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SCRP 502 Pentateuch and the Historical Books</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SYST 502 Theology of the Tri-personal God</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Second Theology — Fall Semester</th>
<th>[13 hours]</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>CANL 601 Introduction to the Code of Canon Law</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHUR 601 Modern and Contemporary Church History</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ORDN 601 2T Formation Seminar: Personal Conduct/Char-Priest</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SCRP 601 The Prophets</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SYST 605 Grace I: Protology and Anthropology</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Second Theology — Spring Semester</th>
<th>[16 hours]</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>MORL 602 Justice and Social Teachings of the Church</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ORDN 602 2T Formation Seminar: Intro-Parish Finances</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SCRP 602 Matthew and Mark</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
VIII. DEGREE DISTINCTION

A. Master of Divinity (M.Div.)

The Master of Divinity degree is a fully accredited basic professional degree oriented towards ministerial leadership. Designed to foster basic theological understanding and develop pastoral competence on the part of students preparing for ministry, it is the normative degree to prepare seminarians for ordained ministry. It includes a thorough study of the Catholic theological heritage and its faithful contemporary expression and a supervised practice of ministry. The degree conforms to the standards of the Association of Theological Schools (ATS). All seminarians entering first theology are enrolled in the M.Div. program.

B. Master of Arts (theology)

The Master of Arts (theology) degree is a fully accredited graduate academic degree. It provides students with competence in the study of theology as a scientific discipline. It includes both the attainment of survey knowledge of theology as well as a focus in an area of concentration for study and research writing in church history, moral theology, pastoral theology, sacred scripture, or systematic theology. Conforming to the standards of the ATS, it can be of particular value for those interested in teaching positions or who hope to enter Ph.D. programs.

C. Bachelor of Sacred Theology (STB)

The Bachelor of Sacred Theology degree provides the student with a solid, Thomistic, organic, and complete instruction in theology at the basic level. As a first-cycle ecclesiastical academic degree, it enables graduates to pursue further studies in the sacred sciences. The degree is a prerequisite for further pursuit of an ecclesiastical licentiate degree, and is also accepted for further study in universities of the European Union where the M.Div. is not recognized.

D. Dual Degree Candidacy

Qualified students at Mount St. Mary’s Seminary may enroll in one of the dual degree programs. The Mount offers two such programs, each with its own focus, entrance requirements, curriculum, and concluding exercise. Students may choose between an M.Div./M.A.(theology) combination or an M.Div./S.T.B. combination.

IX. Pre-Theology Formation Program

At the conclusion of Second Pre-theology students are awarded a “Pre-Theology Formation Program” certificate if they have completed at least one year of residency at Mount St. Mary’s Seminary. The certificate represents the completion of the formation program, with its four pillars: Human, Spiritual, Intellectual, and Pastoral formation, which normally includes 60 academic credits of which 30 are philosophical studies. In exceptional cases students may be awarded the certificate if they have six credits or less remaining to take in required philosophical studies coursework.

Seminarians in the Pre-Theology Formation Program may qualify to enroll in the Master of Arts in Philosophical Studies (M.A.P.S.) degree program through the University’s Philosophy Department (see the M.A.P.S. norms below or the Mount St. Mary’s University Graduate School catalog for further details)

X. Disciplinary Questions

A. Attendance

1. Students are expected to attend all scheduled classes for which they are registered. Unexcused absences (“cuts”) are not permitted and are subject to penalty.
2. Permission to miss class must be obtained, in advance whenever possible, from the professor and from the Seminary Academic Dean. This permission is to be obtained in writing when an overnight absence from the seminary is anticipated. Absence from the seminary is also treated in section 2 of the Rule of Life (available on the Seminary website).

B. Tardiness

1. Punctual class attendance is the norm. Courtesy demands that an explanation for tardiness be given to the professor.
2. Professors are free to penalize tardiness. This should be addressed in the course syllabus.

C. Classroom Conduct

1. Seminarians are expected to behave as mature adults and as men preparing for Holy Orders.
Consequently, private conversations during a class and audible demonstrations of approval or disapproval are disruptive, distracting, and completely inappropriate.
2. Courtesy demands that permission be sought to leave class.
3. Students are permitted to record a class only with the explicit permission of the professor, and according to any restrictions that the professor specifies.
4. No guest shall be brought into class without the explicit permission of the professor.
5. The use of laptop computers is encouraged. These must be used in a manner which does not disrupt the learning environment. Any use of a laptop during class for purposes unrelated to the lecture shows a serious lack of respect for the professor and will be dealt with as such.
6. No student may post class notes electronically or on the internet as this infringes on the intellectual property rights of the professor.
D. Academic Integrity

1. Cheating on an exam or in a class assignment consists in unauthorized collaboration or the use of unauthorized materials. Cheating in any form is both a violation of the honesty expected of every student and of the integrity expected of those preparing for priestly ministry.

2. Plagiarism consists of presenting the words or ideas of another as one’s own. It ranges from careless negligence in the handling/citing the work of others to deliberate dishonesty. Plagiarism may involve printed as well as electronically retrieved materials. The Mount St. Mary’s University campus-wide Technology Acceptable Use Policy is to be followed.

3. Both cheating and plagiarism are treated in the Seminary as both serious violations of academic integrity and as a formation issue. The response of the Seminary is dictated by its overall concern for priestly formation. In the event that questions are raised concerning seminarians:
   a. The person raising the question shall inform the Seminary Academic Dean.
   b. The Seminary Academic Dean informs the Rector, the Vice Rector, and the formation advisor of the seminarian(s) involved.
   c. If, in the judgment of the Rector, there is deliberate plagiarism, the sponsoring diocese shall be consulted.
   d. The Seminary Academic Dean, in consultation with the Seminary Admissions Committee, may dismiss a student from any degree program for cheating or plagiarism.
   e. In the event of a clear lack of academic integrity involving seminary students enrolled in any degree program, the Seminary Academic Dean has the authority, in consultation with the Seminary Admissions Committee, to dismiss such a student from either or both Master’s programs.

   1) A student may appeal the decision directly to the Rector.
   2) The Rector alone has the authority to dismiss students from the seminary.
   3) Penalties for any infraction are cumulative in that they are imposed in light of a student’s record at Mount St. Mary’s Seminary.

   - The minimum penalty for the first offense will be a grade of zero for the assignment or examination; an instructor, at his/her discretion, may impose a more severe penalty, including a course grade of “F.”
   - Any second offense during his seminary career will automatically result in a semester grade of failure (“F”) for the course in which this second incident occurred and a recommendation for the expulsion or suspension of the seminarian.

4. In the event that questions of plagiarism or cheating are raised regarding any student studying in the undergraduate division or in the Master of Arts in Philosophical Studies (M.A.P.S.) degree program of Mount St. Mary’s University such students are bound by the prescriptions and policies of that program.

5. In the event of a clear lack of academic integrity involving non-ordination program students enrolled in the M.A. (theology), M.Div., or S.T.B degree programs, the Seminary Academic Dean

---

6 Mount St. Mary’s University Technology Acceptable Use Policy is available as an appendix to these Academic Norms; and also at http://www.msmary.edu/inside/student-services/information-technology/.

7 Standards of Academic Integrity: An academic community must operate with complete openness, honesty, and integrity. Responsibility for maintaining this atmosphere lies with the students, faculty, and administration. Therefore, the achievement of personal and academic goals through dishonest means will not be tolerated. Cheating is the unauthorized use or exchange of information before or during a quiz, test or semester examination. Unauthorized collaboration on a class assignment, submitting the same work in two courses without the professor’s permission, and buying or selling work for a course are also forms of cheating. Plagiarism is the representation of words or ideas of others as one’s own. The various forms of plagiarism include but are not limited to copying homework, falsifying lab reports, submitting papers containing material written by another person and failing to document in one’s written assignment words and ideas secured from publications.

Penalties for Cheating and Plagiarism: Penalties for any infraction are cumulative in that they are imposed in light of a student’s record at Mount St. Mary’s. The minimum penalty for the first offense will be a grade of zero for the assignment or examination; an instructor may impose a more severe penalty if circumstances warrant it. A second offense will result in a semester grade of failure (“F”) for the course in which this second incident occurs. The penalty for the third offense is expulsion from the College. (Academic Policies, undergraduate catalog) has the authority, in consultation with the Seminary Admissions Committee, to dismiss such a student. Students may appeal this decision directly to the Rector.

E. Grade Options for Courses Not Completed

1. Withdrawal ("W" or "WF"):
   After the drop/add period students may withdraw from a course only by way of exception and with the permission of the Seminary Academic Dean. The student must submit a written explanation to the professor, the formation advisor, and the Seminary Academic Dean explaining the reasons for the withdrawal.
   a. A notation of “W” or “WF” is entered on the grade reports for the withdrawn course and does not alter the GPA.
   b. No student may withdraw from a course after the fourth week of the semester (unless withdrawing from the Seminary).
   c. For withdrawal from M.A.P.S. or undergraduate courses, the policies in the University catalogs are to be followed. In addition the permission of the Seminary Academic Dean is required and the written explanation must be given to the Seminary Academic Dean and formation advisor.

2. Incompletes:
The Seminary expects students to complete all academic requirements on-time. Incompletes should not be regarded as an extension of a deadline, but as a statement that the student was unable to complete the expected work in the expected time-frame. Any student who wishes to petition for a grade of “Incomplete” must complete and submit the signed “Incomplete Request Form” available from the Seminary Registrar. This form must include both the reason for the incomplete and a detailed plan for the completion of remaining requirements. This form must be submitted for the Seminary Academic Dean’s approval by the last day of class for the course in which the incomplete is being requested. Failure to submit the Incomplete Request form will result in a letter grade of “F” in the semester grade report. Copies of the form will be filed with the Rector, the Vice Rector for Formation, the Professor, the Formation Advisor, and the student’s academic file. The content of the form is also made available to the sending diocese.
   a. In the semester GPA calculations a grade of "I" is given zero quality points.
   b. The student, in consultation with the professor, must complete all outstanding work by such a date that the professor can grade it and submit a course grade to the registrar by the last day of the fourth week of class of the immediately following semester.
   c. Seminarians who are dual degree candidates enrolled in the M.Div. and M.A. (theology) program with two or more unresolved incompletes in the research components are automatically dropped from the M.A. (theology) degree program, and so notified by the Seminary Registrar. Appeals may be directed to the Academic Dean in particular cases where it is believed that the incompletes are the result of circumstances beyond the control of the student (such as significant health issues or family considerations). The Academic Dean, with the agreement of the professors of the research projects involved, may grant permission for an extension of up to one semester in particular cases.
   d. Students with more than two incompletes, regardless of their program (dual or single degree), are placed on academic probation.
   e. If professors submit course grades by the deadline to resolve incompletes, an adjustment will be made right away on the student’s record. The GPA will be recalculated. However, any and all “I” (incomplete)

---

8 "W" (Withdraw): This grade is posted for students who withdraw from a class after the end of the official add-drop period. Students who seek to withdraw from a class must submit to the Dean of Undergraduate Studies, before the end of the tenth week of the semester, a withdrawal form signed by the instructor of the course in question. Withdrawal from class after the end of the tenth week is allowed only in cases of serious illness or other emergencies and must be approved by the Dean of Undergraduate Studies. No adjustment in tuition (full or part-time) is made as a result of withdrawal from classes. Note that full-time students must maintain at least a minimum full-time load of 12 credits unless they receive special permission from the Dean. (Academic Policies, “Grade options for courses not completed,” undergraduate catalog) grades become grades of “F” (failure) if professors do not submit course grades by the date specified in the Seminary calendar for the resolution of incompletes (i.e., end of the fourth week of classes). These failing grades remain on the transcript for the remainder of the semester, even if work is submitted after the deadline to resolve incompletes, and the professor accepts this work and files a grade change. Professors are not required by these academic norms to accept submissions after the deadline to resolve incompletes. Formation advisor reports will show that the student failed the course by failing to submit late work even with the extra time given (the posted deadline to resolve incompletes). Grade changes filed by professors and any recalculation of the GPA will be done only at the end of the semester.

f. The policy of the University’s graduate M.A.P.S. program and the undergraduate division are to be followed for incompletes in courses on those levels. In addition, permission of the Seminary Academic Dean must be obtained (using the seminary’s “Incomplete Request Form” or other appropriate form used by the University). That written explanation will be submitted to the Rector, the Vice Rector for Formation, the Professor, the Formation Advisor, and the student’s academic file.

3. Failures:
   Seminarians must repeat one time any core course which they have failed, and any student may repeat one time any elective course or the research/writing concomitant component which they have failed. The official transcript of the academic record will indicate retake courses. The GPA will be recalculated from the retake with the previous attempt forgiven.

F. Academic Probation

1. Students falling below the 2.00 average (term GPA) in required program courses are subject to formal review, and a transcript notation of “Academic Probation” is recorded. If the resolution of an “incomplete” raises the semester GPA above 2.00, the notation is removed.

2. The formal review process for a student on probation includes the following:
   a. A professor who has given a grade of “C-” or “F” is to meet with the student and review the student’s work (papers, tests, notes, etc.). As soon as possible professors are asked to submit in writing to the Academic Dean an indication of their opinion regarding the precise difficulty encountered (poor study habits, poor writing skills, poor note taking, absence from class, etc).
   b. The student will take standardized tests (Millers’ Analogies, TOEFL) and/or have interviews with Learning Services (or ESL office) regarding the study skills, note taking skills, and learning disabilities. These findings will help the seminary understand the precise difficulty encountered.

3. A meeting with the Seminary Academic Dean, the formation advisor, and a representative from Learning Services (or ESL) will take place for the purpose of identifying specific steps for recovery. In some cases the academic load may be reduced, the extracurricular program adjusted, the pastoral field assignment modified, or specific remedial courses proposed. In more extreme situations it may be necessary to recommend summer school.

4. A student with a cumulative GPA of 1.50 or less is subject to dismissal. At the very least he is required to repeat the year.

5. The student’s continuance as a candidate for ordination will depend on suitable progress according to his ability and the approval of the faculty. A minimum 2.00 cumulative GPA is necessary for successful completion of the ordination program and the awarding of the M.Div. degree.

---

9 “The grade of “I” is given in exceptional cases to a student who, because of illness or other reason beyond his or her control, is unable to complete the requirements of the course. The grade “I” is permitted only if the “Incomplete” form has been signed by the instructor and the dean of undergraduate studies. An Incomplete becomes an “F” and is entered as such on the official transcript if the Incomplete is not removed in the period specified by the dean. Ordinarily, the dean will not approve a completion date later than the final day of registration for the following semester.” (Academic Policies, “Grade options for courses not completed,” undergraduate catalog)

10 “FA” (Failure because of absence): This grade is posted for students who miss an excessive number of class periods, assignments, or exams as determined by the instructor, or who do not take a final exam.” [An “FA” has the same effect on the GPA as an “F” for a completed course] (Academic Policies, “Grade options for courses not completed,” undergraduate catalog)
G. Academic Deficiency Reports

1. Seminary faculty report academic deficiencies at mid-term via an email to the Seminary Registrar. Whenever possible, the deficiency report should suggest reasons for the deficiency encountered (study skills, note taking, writing skills, absence from class, etc.). Copies of relevant materials (failed exams, very poor written work, etc.) should be appended or submitted separately and will be kept in the student’s academic file.

2. The mid-term deficiency report emails are forwarded to the Seminary Academic Dean, Rector, Director of Human Formation, and the seminarian’s formation advisor.

3. The Seminary Registrar provides to the Rector, Vice Rector, and the Seminary Academic Dean a listing of all students showing a deficiency in their final course grades at the end of each semester.

4. Deficiencies are defined as:
   - a single grade of "C-", "F", or "I"; or
   - a semester total with two or more "C / 2.0" grades or lower.

XI. STUDENT ACADEMIC RECORDS

A. Grade Reports

1. Seminarians may access their grades (as well as financial records) at any time through the university’s portal, using their usual email/network user-id and password [http://portal.msmary.edu/exweb]. This access is blocked at the end of the semester during the time when faculty are submitting grades and until the student has completed all online course evaluations.

2. Final grades are generally accessible on the portal by the Thursday after exam week.

3. Grade reports are not routinely printed out and given to each student at the end of each semester (unless specifically requested in writing by the student). However a grade report or an unofficial copy of each seminarian’s transcript is given to the sponsoring bishop, vocations director, formation advisor, and put into the student’s academic file. Formation Advisors also have access through the Portal to their advisees’ academic information.

B. Academic Files

1. Each current student has an academic file, maintained by the Seminary Registrar on behalf of the Academic Dean. It contains:
   - Academic degree plan(s), course registration by semester, and current unofficial copy of the student’s Mount St. Mary’s Seminary transcript.
   - Official transcripts from all previously attended colleges, universities, seminaries (received as part of the admissions process).
   - Mid-term deficiency reports and any other correspondence regarding the student’s academic progress.
   - In the case of international students, a copy of the student’s passport, student visa, SEVIS I-20 form, and any other pertinent information.

2. Students or others who wish to have specific information regarding their rights of access to institutional education records maintained in their name should contact the Seminary Registrar at 301-447-5897.

C. Confidentiality of Student Records

1. Mount St. Mary’s Seminary accords all rights under the provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Acts (FERPA) of 1974, as amended, and any regulation promulgated there under.
2. The seminary does not release personally identifiable information or educational information to third parties by any means without the written consent of the student, except in those cases exempted by FERPA.
   - Mount St. Mary’s may release directory information without prior consent unless notified in writing to the contrary by the student.
   - Directory information includes: name, address, telephone number, dates of attendance, previous institutions attended, major fields of study, enrollment status, awards, honors, degrees conferred, date and place of birth.

3. The student’s written consent is not required under FERPA for disclosures to:
   - Faculty and administrators of Mount St. Mary’s who have legitimate educational interests
   - Certain government agencies and officials, or as required by law

4. Upon enrollment, seminarians are asked to sign a release form authorizing the seminary to disclose academic and other formation information to the sponsoring bishop, or his delegate, and other interested parties at the Seminary. In addition students sign a form authorizing the Mount St. Mary’s University Accounting and Finance office to discuss the student’s financial records with the appropriate parties. Further information regarding Student Academic Records may be found in this Seminarian Handbook, “Formation Advising Program,” Appendix A.

D. Notification of Student Rights under FERPA

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, known by its acronym, FERPA (or as the “Buckley Amendment”), affords students certain rights with respect to their educational records. They are:

1. The right to inspect and review the student’s own educational records within 45 days of the day the university receives a request for access. Students should contact the Seminary Registrar (or University Registrar in the case of undergraduate records) to schedule an appointment to review the academic records and receive an explanation or interpretation of the records requested.

2. The right to request an amendment of the student’s own educational record that the student believes is inaccurate or misleading.

3. The right to refuse consent to disclosures of personally identifiable information contained in the student’s educational records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosures without consent.

4. The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures to comply with the requirements of FERPA. Anyone who believes their rights have been violated may file a complaint with the Family Policy Compliance Office, U.S. Department of Education, 600 Independence Ave, SW, Washington, D.C. 20202-4605.

XII. Academic Freedom

Faculty members at Mount St. Mary’s Seminary are hired to teach in a specific area of competence and exercise complete freedom to teach in that area in accord with the principles of their respective disciplines (Governing Documents 6.16.1.). They enjoy lawful freedom of inquiry and of prudent expression of their opinions on matters pertaining to their expertise, while exercising due respect for the magisterium of the Church (Canon 218). Faculty members shall exercise this freedom within the context of the purpose and mission of the seminary and taking account of the rights of students, the institution, and the Church (Program of Priestly Formation 345). Faculty members are required to have a mandate to teach from the appropriate ecclesial authority (Canon 812). New faculty members make the profession of faith and take the oath of fidelity.
XIII. ONGOING REVISION OF THESE NORMS

A. Review Procedures:

The Academic Norms are reviewed in their entirety each year by the Academic Committee and are also updated biannually to be in accord with changes in the Seminary Catalog.

1. In addition, amendments may be suggested to any member of the academic committee by any member of the seminary faculty, the seminary administration, or the seminary student government.

2. Proposed amendments are discussed at meetings of the academic committee and brought to the full faculty for a vote.

B. Groups Responsible for Review:

According to the calendar for the academic year, the following groups should discuss any revisions to the Academic Norms in a set sequence:

1. Academic committee of the seminary student government - prior to academic committee meetings.

2. Academic committee - at fall and/or spring meetings

3. Full faculty meetings - at initial fall meeting to vote on proposed changes.
ACADEMIC NORMS – M.A.P.S. PROCEDURES AND NORMS
(Revised: October 1, 2012)

I. ADMISSION

A. Requirements

1. Applicants must have a bachelor’s degree or its equivalent from an accredited college or university.
2. Applicants must show evidence of academic ability. This requirement is usually met by an undergraduate grade point average of 3.00 or higher. The program director may accept other criteria, such as performance in pre-theology classes, as evidence of academic ability.
3. Seminarian applicants must have the permission of the seminary academic dean.
4. Non-seminarian applicants must write a letter to the program director describing their educational background and interest in the program.
5. Non-seminarian applicants must be interviewed by the program director. If circumstances prevent an in-person interview, the interview may be done by telephone.

B. Application

1. All applicants must complete and sign an Application for Admission form.
2. Seminarian applicants obtain the form from, and return it to, the seminary registrar.
3. Seminarian applicants’ forms must be signed by the seminary academic dean before being forwarded to the program director.
4. All other applicants obtain the form from, and return it to, the program director.
5. Applicants must arrange for official transcripts of all previous college work to be sent to the program director. The seminary registrar will coordinate this process for seminarian applicants.
6. Seminarians have three application deadlines.
   • Early admission (August). Seminarians committed to pursuing the degree may apply at the beginning of their first pre-theology semester. The application deadline for early admission is the end of the fall add/drop period.
   • Regular admission (October). Most seminarians will apply in the middle of their first pre-theology semester. The application deadline for regular admission is the end of the fall preregistration period. Regular admission candidates will have their candidacy formally recorded with the university registrar the following January.
   • Late admission (January). Seminarians who decide to pursue the degree based on their experience of first semester coursework may apply at the beginning of their second pre-theology semester. The application deadline for late admission is the end of the spring add/drop period.
   • Candidates are admitted to MAPS when their application is signed by the program director. All program policies, including the probation policy, apply to candidates from the day they are admitted.
   • Seminarians may not apply to the program after the late admission deadline.
7. For all other candidates the application deadline to begin MAPS coursework in the fall is August 1; in the spring, December 1.
II. DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

A. Logic Proficiency

1. Candidates must demonstrate proficiency in philosophical logic.

2. This requirement is normally met by obtaining a grade of C or higher in PHIL 201 Logic or PHIL 202 Logic and Philosophical Methods.

3. This requirement also may be met by passing the program’s logic proficiency exam. Candidates wishing to take the exam should contact the program director.

4. The program director may waive this requirement for candidates who have earned a grade of C or higher in a substantially similar logic course at another institution.

B. Coursework

1. Candidates must complete thirty credit hours of MAPS coursework. Credits for PHIL 201, PHIL 202, and MAP 599 do not count toward this total.

2. Up to six transfer credits may be accepted toward the thirty required. The program director will only consider for transfer those credits taken at a graduate level, or taken in excess of B.A. degree requirements. The director’s decision is final.

3. Courses should be distributed across historical periods and topical areas. A typical curriculum would include:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COURSE #</th>
<th>COURSE NAME</th>
<th>CREDITS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>MAP 501</td>
<td>Moral Philosophy</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAP 505</td>
<td>Natural Theology, or elective</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAP 506</td>
<td>Philosophical Anthropology, or elective</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAP 511</td>
<td>Ancient Philosophy</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAP 512</td>
<td>Medieval Philosophy</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAP 513</td>
<td>Modern Philosophy</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAP 514</td>
<td>Contemporary Philosophy</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAP 518</td>
<td>Philosophy of Knowledge</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAP 521</td>
<td>Metaphysics</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAP 5XX</td>
<td>Upper-level Elective</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

4. Non-seminarian candidates are not eligible to take MAP 505 or MAP 506, and should take electives in their place.

5. Seminarian candidates must take one MAPS elective beyond the standard courses of the pre-theology curriculum. Candidates who are waived from one or more standard courses should take additional MAPS electives to fill the thirty credits total. A model curriculum for seminarians is included as an appendix to these norms.

6. The coursework requirement may be met in part by independent study or tutorial courses.

   a. Candidates should take standard courses offered by the MAPS faculty whenever possible. Independent studies or tutorials will only be approved when the standard courses the candidate is eligible to take are insufficient to produce a full schedule.

   b. Candidates interested in an independent study or tutorial must first get the program director’s permission to approach a faculty member.

   c. With the program director’s approval, the candidate may approach a MAPS faculty member and ask him or her to teach the course. The faculty member should be approached as early as possible during the semester preceding the planned course, and no later than the final day of classes in that semester.
d. Candidates must submit an independent study/tutorial form to the university registrar’s office at the beginning of the semester. The approval of both the program director and the instructor are required, and are indicated by their signatures. This form is available from the program director.

e. Seminarians must have the approval of the seminary academic dean to pursue an independent study or tutorial course.

f. Independent study and tutorial courses carry three credits. Exceptions to this rule must be approved by the program director.

g. No independent study courses may be taken in a candidate’s first semester of the program. Exceptions must be approved by the program director.

C. Grade Point Average

1. Candidates must maintain a cumulative 3.00 MAPS gpa.

2. The MAPS gpa includes all MAPS course grades and grades in PHIL 201 or PHIL 202, if taken to meet the logic proficiency requirement.

3. Candidates whose cumulative MAPS gpa falls below 3.00 will be placed on MAPS program probation. (See section IV below.)

4. Graduate students are expected to perform consistently at the B level or higher. Grades below this level are cause for concern, even when they do not bring the cumulative MAPS gpa below 3.00. Candidates receiving such grades are encouraged to review their academic performance with the program director.

D. Preliminary Paper

1. Candidates must write a ten to fifteen page preliminary paper, typically during their second semester of coursework.

2. The purposes of the preliminary paper are to demonstrate and practice writing skills relevant to the qualifying paper, and to become familiar with the expectations and standards of graduate writing.

3. Normally candidates will write the preliminary paper for Moral Philosophy or for a second-semester MAPS elective. The program director may make exceptions for candidates admitted with advanced standing or who need a different schedule.

4. The preliminary paper topic need not be related to the candidate’s anticipated qualifying paper topic. The topic should be appropriate to the course for which it is written, and should be approved by the instructor.

5. The paper will be graded by the instructor and will count toward the course grade as described in the syllabus.

6. The instructor will also mark the paper on the MAPS Graduate Writing Rubric. Candidates who receive a mark of Inadequate Graduate Writing on the rubric will be placed on MAPS program probation. (See section IV below.)

7. Candidates will give the program director a copy of the marked preliminary paper.

8. Candidates must complete the preliminary paper with acceptable rubric marks before filing a qualifying paper proposal.
E. Qualifying Paper

1. Candidates must write a qualifying paper of twenty to thirty pages.

2. The purpose of the qualifying paper is to demonstrate graduate level skills in research, writing, and sustained argument about a specific philosophical topic.

3. Format
   a. The qualifying paper should be twenty to thirty pages long, excluding bibliography. Candidates should choose a topic that can be adequately treated within this limit.
   b. The qualifying paper must use correct grammar, style, and technical form. Candidates must use Chicago style for formatting and citations.
   c. The archive copies of the qualifying paper must have a cover page and abstract page. (See section II.E.10.vii below.)

4. Content
   a. The qualifying paper is more substantial than a typical term paper, and should engage both relevant primary sources and secondary scholarship.
   b. The qualifying paper may, but need not, involve revising and extending a paper originally developed for a class assignment.

5. Proposal
   a. The candidate begins the qualifying paper by choosing an advisor and filing a proposal.
   b. The candidate chooses a qualifying paper advisor from the MAPS faculty. A list of MAPS faculty is given in the graduate catalog.
   c. Candidates should approach potential advisors early, as workload considerations may lead some faculty to decline. Candidates who have difficulty finding an advisor should speak to the program director.
   d. Under the advisor’s guidance the candidate develops a written proposal consisting of:
      o a short description of the thesis and argument (200-400 words)
      o a bibliography of primary and secondary sources o an outline and research plan o signature lines for the candidate, advisor, and program director
   e. A proposal template is available from the program director.
   f. The candidate and advisor sign the proposal and submit it to the program director for final approval.
   g. The proposal is accepted when the program director signs it.
   h. The candidate registers for the one-credit pass/fail elective MAP 599 – Research Thesis during the semester in which the qualifying paper will be completed.

6. Drafts
   a. After the proposal is accepted, the candidate begins writing, following the agreed upon plan.
   b. The candidate should share and discuss partial drafts with the advisor frequently. The candidate may also consult other MAPS faculty.
   c. When a full draft is ready, the advisor shares it with two MAPS faculty readers selected by the advisor in consultation with the program director.
   d. The advisor and two readers are the candidate’s committee.
   e. The candidate revises the full draft in response to the committee’s comments.
   f. With the advisor’s approval, the candidate submits a final draft for the committee’s evaluation.
7. Schedule
   a. Candidates must meet certain deadlines in writing the qualifying paper.
   b. The signed proposal is due to the program director the semester before planned graduation:
      by November 1 for spring graduation, April 1 for fall graduation.
   c. An Intent to Graduate Form is due to the university registrar's office by January 31 for spring graduation, October 1 for fall graduation. The form is available online at https://www.msmary.edu/academics/registrar/graduation-procedure/intent_to_graduate_form_gradschool.html.
   d. A draft of at least part of the qualifying paper is due to the advisor by February 1 or September 1.
   e. A draft of the full qualifying paper is due to the advisor and readers by March 1 or October 1.
   f. The final draft for evaluation is due to the advisor and readers by April 1 or November 1.
   g. The public presentation must take place before May 1 or December 1. (See section II.E.9 below.)
   h. These deadlines are summarized in the following table.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Spring graduation</th>
<th>Fall graduation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Approved Proposal</td>
<td>November 1 of previous semester</td>
<td>April 1 of previous semester</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Intent to Graduate Form</td>
<td>January 31</td>
<td>October 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Partial Draft to advisor</td>
<td>February 1</td>
<td>September 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Full Draft to committee</td>
<td>March 1</td>
<td>October 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Final Draft to committee</td>
<td>April 1</td>
<td>November 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Public Presentation</td>
<td>May 1</td>
<td>December 1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

   i. The deadlines are the latest dates to submit work. Candidates are strongly encouraged to complete work before the deadlines.
   j. Candidates who miss a deadline cannot graduate until the following semester. They may continue work on the paper in order to meet the following semester’s deadlines.
   k. Candidates who do not complete the qualifying paper during the semester in which they are enrolled in MAP 599 will receive a grade of incomplete. This grade will later be changed to P or F.
   l. The advisor will inform the program director if a candidate is in danger of not meeting any of these deadlines or fails to meet with the advisor as scheduled. In the case of seminarian candidates, the program director will inform the candidate’s formation advisor and the seminary academic dean.

8. Text Approval
   a. With the advisor’s approval, the candidate submits three printed copies of the final draft to the committee members.
   b. Each committee member marks the qualifying paper on the MAPS Graduate Writing Rubric.
   c. The committee meets to discuss the qualifying paper and their rubric marks.
   d. Following their discussion, each committee member votes for one of two final marks: Pass or Revise.
   e. A paper that receives a final mark of Pass from every reader is approved.
   f. A paper that receives one or more final marks of Revise is returned to the candidate with comments and specific revision instructions. A suitably revised draft may be submitted at any time for re-evaluation by the same procedure.
   g. The advisor notifies the program director of the committee’s decision. The program director will keep the seminary academic dean informed, as needed.
   h. The advisor meets with the candidate to share the committee’s decision and to discuss the paper’s strengths and weaknesses.
   i. A candidate with an approved paper is cleared to proceed to the public presentation.
Public Presentation

a. Following the text approval, the candidate conducts a public presentation of the qualifying paper.

b. Purposes
   - The presentation allows the candidate to present his or her argument and conclusions to the faculty and the public, and to speak as a scholar on the topic.
   - The presentation challenges the candidate to explore the qualifying paper’s implications for other areas of study.
   - The presentation invites the candidate to reflect and share insights on the experience of writing the paper, and to talk about the project’s effect on his or her intellectual life.

c. Attendance
   - The members of the candidate’s committee attend the presentation.
   - Other MAPS faculty and candidates are invited to attend.
   - Seminarian candidates may invite their formation advisor to attend.
   - The presentation is open to the public. Members of the seminary and university community may attend.

d. Schedule
   - The advisor schedules the presentation after the committee approves the paper text.
   - The presentation must occur before the last day of classes. No presentations will be scheduled during the final exam period.

e. Preparation
   - In preparing for the presentation, the candidate should consider how to explain the qualifying paper’s content to people who have not read it, including both philosophers and non-philosophers.
   - The candidate may prepare by writing a one to two page précis.
   - The advisor meets with the candidate to discuss the planned presentation, review a précis, and suggest likely questions.

f. Format
   - The presentation is typically thirty minutes long.
   - The advisor chairs the presentation and keeps time.
   - The candidate begins the presentation with brief opening comments, no more than ten minutes. The candidate may choose to open by reading a précis of the qualifying paper.
   - The candidate responds to questions from committee members and attending faculty.
   - The advisor adjourns the presentation at the appropriate time. The candidate is excused while the committee deliberates.

g. Evaluation
   - The committee typically deliberates for five to ten minutes.
   - The committee evaluates the presentation for clarity in summarizing the paper’s central argument, mastery of the topic, familiarity with relevant philosophical material, reflection on the project and its implications, and facility in responding to questions.
   - The committee decides whether the entire qualifying paper project, including the text and presentation, merits honors or distinction.
   - Each committee member evaluates the entire project by casting one of three votes: Pass, Pass with Honors, or Pass with Distinction. In case of disagreement, the lowest vote prevails.
   - The advisor informs the candidate and the program director of the committee’s decision.

h. Completing the presentation is the penultimate step in passing the qualifying paper. Candidates who complete the presentation must then submit archive copies to the program director.
10. Archive Copies

- After completing the presentation, the candidate submits printed and electronic archive copies of the qualifying paper to the program director.
- Archive copies should be identical to the approved qualifying paper text.
- Seminarian candidates must submit two printed archive copies. All other candidates must submit one printed archive copy.
- One archive copy will be kept in the philosophy department office.
- Seminarian candidates’ second archive copy will be kept by the seminary registrar.
- All candidates must give the program director a file of the approved qualifying paper, in .doc or other standard format, for inclusion in the university library electronic archives.
- Archive copies must include a title page with a line for the program director to sign and date the approval, formatted as below.

```
RESEARCH PAPER TITLE

A Thesis Paper
Submitted to the Department of Philosophy of Mount St. Mary’s University in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Master of Arts in Philosophical Studies

by

DEGREE CANDIDATE FULL NAME, B.A.

Approved by __________________ Date ____________

Director’s Name Printed, Ph.D.

Emmitsburg, Maryland Month, Year
```

NOTE: This sample is not proportionate; use a 12-point font consistent with the body text.

- The second page of the archive copy, after the title page, should be an abstract page containing the title, author, and an abstract of 150-250 words. Page numbering should begin after the abstract page.
- The archive copies are approved when the program director signs the printed copies.
- After the archive copies are approved the program director reports a grade of P to the university registrar for MAP 599. If the candidate has a grade of incomplete in MAP 599 the program director files a grade change form. No quality points are given.
- The university transcript will record the qualifying paper title, and honors or distinction, if awarded.
III. Degree Completion

A. Candidates must complete all degree requirements within five years of admission, or within three years of completing coursework, whichever comes first.

B. The program director may grant time extensions due to extraordinary circumstances. Extension requests should be addressed in writing to the program director, specifying the length of the requested extension and the reasons it is needed.

C. Candidates are enrolled in the program from the date their application is accepted by the program director until they complete the degree, withdraw, or reach the time limit.

D. Withdrawal

1. Candidates who do not communicate with the program director or any MAPS faculty member for two years are automatically withdrawn from the program.

2. Candidates who fail to fulfill the conditions for removal from MAPS program probation are withdrawn from the program. (See section IV.F below.)

3. Candidates may withdraw from the program at any time by submitting a signed, dated letter of withdrawal to the program director.

4. Seminarian candidates may withdraw only with the approval of the seminary academic dean and rector.

5. Seminarian candidates must notify the seminary registrar in writing of their withdrawal from the program.

6. Withdrawal from the seminary does not affect a candidate’s status in the MAPS program. Candidates may choose to complete the degree after leaving seminary, or to withdraw from the MAPS program by sending a signed, dated letter of withdrawal to the program director.

7. Candidates who withdraw from the program during a semester in which they are enrolled in MAP 599 must withdraw from this course separately by filing a Graduate Withdrawal Form.

8. Graduate Withdrawal Forms are available from the program director or from the university website: http://www.msmary.edu/pdfs/inside/student-services/it/Graduate%20Withdrawal%20Form.pdf.

9. Graduate Withdrawal Forms require the signatures of the candidate and the program director. The candidate should sign the form and give it to the program director, who will sign and file it with the university registrar.

10. Candidates who withdraw from the MAPS program but do not withdraw from MAP 599 will receive a grade of F in the course.

E. Nonresident Candidates

1. Candidates may complete the qualifying paper requirement from off campus.

2. Nonresident candidates who previously registered for MAP 599 will discharge an incomplete grade in the course by completing the qualifying paper. The program director will file a grade change form upon accepting the archive copies. (See section II.E.9.x above.)

3. Nonresident candidates who did not previously register for MAP 599 must enroll in MAP 599 during the semester in which they complete the qualifying paper. This course may require the payment of tuition for one credit hour.

4. Candidates completing the qualifying paper from off campus should contact the program director to discuss options for the public presentation.
F. Graduation

1. Diplomas are awarded in December and May.

2. Candidates must file an Intent to Graduate Form with the university registrar’s office by January 31 for May graduation and by October 1 for December graduation. The form is available online at https://www.msmary.edu/academics/registrar/graduation-procedure/intent_to_graduate_form_gradschool.html.

3. In order to be recognized at a commencement ceremony, candidates must complete all degree requirements by May 1 or December 1.

4. Seminarian candidates graduating in May will be recognized during the seminary commencement ceremony.

5. Other candidates graduating in May will be recognized during the university commencement ceremony.

6. Candidates graduating in December may participate in the following May’s ceremonies.

7. All graduates receive their diplomas in the mail, directly from the university registrar’s office.

IV. Probation (within MAPS)

A. MAPS program academic probation is independent of seminary academic probation.

1. Being on MAPS program probation has no effect on a seminarian candidate’s status regarding seminary probation. The two probation systems are completely separate.

2. MAPS program probation is governed by the norms set out in this section.

B. Candidates who meet any of the following conditions will be on academic probation for the MAPS program during the following semester.

1. Earn a grade below B-minus in PHIL 202 or any MAPS course during the first semester

2. Earn a cumulative MAPS gpa below 3.00 after the first semester

3. Earn a preliminary paper mark of “Inadequate Graduate Writing” in any category of the MAPS Graduate Writing Rubric

C. In order to be removed from MAPS program probation, the candidate must meet with the program director and seminary formation advisor to develop a plan for improving academic performance, and:

1. If on probation for a first semester grade: earn a MAPS gpa of 3.00 or above in the probationary semester

2. If on probation for gpa: bring the cumulative MAPS gpa to 3.00 or above by the end of the probationary semester

3. If on probation for the preliminary paper mark:

4. Develop and complete a plan for improving graduate writing, drawing upon the assistance of the MAPS program faculty and others.

   • The program director will appoint a MAPS faculty member to work in conjunction with the seminary formation advisor in monitoring the candidate’s progress towards completion.

   • The candidate and the faculty member will agree upon a written plan, to include:
     o the amount and nature of work to be completed
     o the specific help to be offered,
     o by whom the help is to be offered,
     o a detailed plan for completing the work, o standards for judging the work’s completion, and o a deadline for submitting completed work and evidence of help received to the faculty member, formation advisor, and program director.
• Help may include regular use of office hours, visits to the university writing center, tutoring, ESL instruction, or additional meetings with one or more instructors, for example.
• Evidence of help received may include a memo from a tutor or faculty member, a report from the writing center, or a series of marked-up drafts, for example.
• The candidate will give the faculty member, the seminary formation advisor, and the program director copies of the completed work and evidence of help received by the agreed-upon deadline.
• The deadline should be no later than the last day of classes of the probationary semester.

5. Following the course of assistance described above, rewrite the preliminary paper, resubmit it for evaluation, and receive a mark of “Satisfactory Graduate Writing” or higher in every category on the MAPS Graduate Writing Rubric.
   • The rewritten paper will be marked by the same person, on the same rubric, as the original paper.
   • The rewritten paper will not affect the candidate’s grade in the course for which the paper was originally written.
   • Ordinarily, the rewritten paper should be resubmitted before the last day of classes of the probationary semester.
   • If placed on probation for more than one reason: complete all relevant sets of requirements.

D. The program director will inform the seminary academic dean and rector of any seminarian candidate placed on MAPS program probation.
E. The program director and MAPS faculty will coordinate with the seminary formation advisor in monitoring the candidate’s progress toward completing the probation requirements.
F. Removal from Probation
   1. Candidates who complete the requirements by the end of the probationary semester are removed from probation.
   2. Candidates who do not complete the requirements by the end of the probationary semester are withdrawn from the program.
   3. No candidate may be on probation for more than one semester. Candidates who are placed on probation in two different semesters are withdrawn from the program.
   4. A candidate withdrawn from the program for probation reasons may appeal to the Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, whose decision is final.

V. APPENDIX: MODEL CURRICULUM FOR SEMINARIANS

Semester 1 (First Pre-theology, Fall)
   • Standard Pre-theology load, including Latin/Greek
   • PHIL 202 Logic and Philosophical Methods
   • MAP 511 Ancient Philosophy
   • Consider MAPS, get permission, apply in August, October, or January

Semester 2 (First Pre-theology, Spring)
   • Standard Pre-theology load, including Latin/Greek
   • MAP 501 Moral Philosophy
   • MAP 512 Medieval Philosophy
   • Possible MAPS elective
   • Write 10-15 page Preliminary Paper for MAP 501 or elective

Semester 3 (Second Pre-theology, Fall)
   • Standard Pre-theology load, including Greek/Latin
   • MAP 505 Natural Theology (bridge course)
   • MAP 513 Modern Philosophy
   • MAP 521 Metaphysics
- Possible MAPS elective
- Submit Qualifying Paper Proposal, if intending May graduation
- Enroll in MAP 599 for Spring semester, if intending May graduation

Semester 4 (Second Pre-theology, Spring)
- Standard Pre-theology load, including Greek/Latin
- MAP 506 Philosophical Anthropology (bridge course)
- MAP 514 Contemporary Philosophy
- MAP 518 Epistemology
- Possible MAPS elective
- Submit Qualifying Paper Proposal, if intending December graduation
- Enroll in MAP 599 for Fall semester, if intending December graduation
- Submit completed Qualifying Paper, for May graduation
- Complete public presentation of Qualifying Paper, for May graduation

Semester 5 (First Theology, Fall)
- Submit completed Qualifying Paper, for December graduation
- Complete public presentation of Qualifying Paper, for December graduation
PASTORAL FORMATION

I. INTRODUCTION: WHAT IT IS - OBJECTIVES OF PASTORAL FORMATION

In accordance with the Program of Priestly Formation, the seminary requires pastoral experience that includes supervised ministry, evaluation, and theological reflection. Supervised pastoral field education is an integral part of the Master of Divinity degree as well as the Master of Theology concentration on Pastoral Theology program at Mount St. Mary’s Seminary (Program of Priestly Formation # 429-440).

Pastoral Field Education (hereinafter, PFE) should assist the seminarian in his desire to integrate the various aspects of priestly formation. His human, pastoral, spiritual, and intellectual formation should lead to developing a “pastoral personality” in union with our Lord Jesus Christ, who is Head and Shepherd, Servant and Spouse of the Church.

The goals of the PFE Program are:

- To instill a self-awareness in the seminarian as a future shepherd imbued with the charity of Christ and filled with a missionary spirit.
- To help seminarians gain pastoral competence through supervised ministry in distinct settings, such as: social justice and the corporal works of mercy, teaching, health care, evangelization, parish administration, and diaconate parish placements.
- To provide a pastoral forum to use and integrate the skills they have learned and developed in their spiritual, human and intellectual formation.
- To train seminarians in theological reflection in order to assess their own efforts, to develop confidence in their future ministry, and to learn their particular areas of strength and areas of needed growth.
- To develop an appreciation for the different ministries of the Roman Catholic Church, as well as develop an ability to collaborate with different persons in leadership roles, whether they be ordained priests, deacons, consecrated religious, or lay men and women.

II. DESIRED OUTCOMES OF PASTORAL FIELD EDUCATION

A. Professional

- The seminarian would come to know, to appreciate, and be able to act within the philosophy and goals of the agency within which he serves.
- He would become familiar with the language and concepts of the field, with the staff and clientele of the agency, and the specific tasks it has set for itself.
- He would be able to execute creatively and responsibly the tasks assigned to him in an efficient and effective manner.

B. Ministerial

- The seminarian would demonstrate initiative, leadership, and a desire to take maximum advantage of the possibilities to learn from the field education experience.
- He would appreciate the team model of ministry and be able to function appropriately and effectively within a ministerial team.
- Within his sphere of responsibility he would demonstrate the ability to lead others toward the greater good, toward wholeness and the appropriate use of freedom.
- He would enable others to use their gifts, insights, and energies.

C. Relational

- That the seminarian’s relations with those whom he serves and with those with whom he works be in every respect appropriate and respectful.
- That he be able to relate with and communicate to others with ease and effectiveness.
D. Personal

- That from his experience the seminarian would gain insight into his strengths and better awareness of his weaknesses.
- That he would be able to take direction and be open to channels of growth and development.

E. Theological

- That the seminarian would be able to integrate what he learns in the classroom with what he is experiencing in the field.
- That he can see how Scripture and the Church’s teaching on social justice apply to the situations he is involved in.
- That he can bring his commitment of faith to bear on his experience.
- That his judgment and actions in ministry are guided by his knowledge of theology.
- That he is able to move from service to prayer and back again to service.

III. Pastoral Formation and PFE Experiences: What It Is Not

It is NOT merely an “intern” program for a seminarian to function as a priest. Instead, the PFE site serves as a forum to learn how to serve in appropriate ways for a man who discerns priesthood but is not yet a priest. In other words, the service he provides must fit the seminarian’s theological level and experiences.

It is NOT a substitute for a pastoral year program. Instead, the PFE experience provides only highlights and glimpses of future priestly ministry. It cannot provide a seminarian the full and complete experience that he or the supervisor may want to have.

It is NOT an opportunity simply to provide necessary help to a PFE institution. Instead, the PFE experience requires the supervisor to provide a forum for a man to learn. To assume that a seminarian is sent to a site simply to provide extra help or clerical volunteerism is incorrect. In fact, the PFE institution and supervisor provide more help to the seminarian than vice versa.

It is NOT simply a Pass/Fail course. Instead, the PFE is an academic course that requires full compliance of the syllabus in order to be ordained a priest. Although the final grade is a Pass or Fail, the seminarian will be evaluated with “letter grades” regarding his performance in particular pastoral settings. Seminarians must consider how their Bishop or Vocation Director would react to a man who seeks ordination but has “failed” the requirements of pastoral formation.

IV. Two Elements of Supervised Ministry

Supervised ministry involves two interlocking components: (A) supervised ministry in approved ministerial settings with qualified supervision and (B) theological reflection.

A. Supervised Ministry in Approved Ministry Placements

The basic elements of supervision consist of: (1) syllabus requirements which outline the purpose of the assignment, desired outcomes, and the seminarian’s PFE goals; (2) the supervisor-seminarian relationship; and (3) written assignments, small group discussion, evaluations and feedback. The sequence of ministries for seminarians typically follows, but is not restricted to the following:

- Pre-Theology: Although a PFE for pre-theologians is not required, a 2nd Pre-theology student (P2) will be encouraged to exercise some form of regular pastoral work or modified PFE assignment as a way to help him discern his advancement into theological studies, as well as provide him a forum for regular practice of pastoral charity. The pre-theologian in a PFE placement is not required to complete the written assignment, called “theological portfolio”, but he is required to complete the syllabus and the final evaluation.
• First Year – Teaching Ministry: Seminarians gain an awareness and working knowledge of the role of religious education in the pastoral mission of the Church as well as a basic competence for catechesis and age appropriate lesson planning.

• Second Year – Health Care or Social Services Ministry: Seminarians develop pastoral compassion through effective listening skills, an understanding of collaborative ministry, and the ability to extend pastoral charity to the sick, the needy, and the marginalized. This also develops an opportunity to learn the effective pastoral practice of the corporal works of mercy.

• Third Year – Preparation for Diaconate and Evangelization Ministry: Seminarians continue to develop relational skills needed to communicate the faith to people across the generations, to grow in their capacity for exercising pastoral leadership, to engage in collaborative ministry, and to acquire ecumenical sensitivity. This 3rd Theology (3T) PFE experience is a more open ended and personalized program tailored to fit the needs of the individual seminarian. While this third year is technically designated as “evangelization ministry,” this could include a regular parish assignment, developing programs of evangelization within the parish, learning administrative skills, vocation promotion, or any other pastoral work determined by the Director of Pastoral Formation, the seminarian’s bishop or vocation director, as well as the formation team to help the man advance to the clerical state.

• Third Year – Pre-Deacon Parish Assignment: With the approval of the Director of Pastoral Formation, a third theologian may request to be placed in a parish assignment for his 3rd year PFE. He will have the opportunity to develop parish skills and to witness and participate in evangelization efforts in a parish setting. This program gives 3rd year students a chance to spend the night at the rectory two weekends each month. While this is similar to the 4th year deacon assignments, it is distinct in that the 3rd year seminarian cannot perform any sacramental or pastoral service reserved for deacons. However, he can develop a stronger mentoring relationship with the pastor while developing a more practical sense of priestly service in a parish setting. This seminarian may also request that he return to that same parish assignment in his fourth year as a deacon, giving him the opportunity of a more consistent and continual pastoral experience.

• Fourth Year – Parish Internship: This provides a 4th Theology (4T) seminarian, in most cases a transitional deacon, to experience some aspects of rectory living, developing fraternity with his PFE supervising pastor, and to exercise level-appropriate sacramental, liturgical, and pastoral ministry as an ordained cleric.

B. Theological Reflection

• Theological portfolios are tools used to assess the seminarian’s growth for ministry. These portfolios are to be completed by all in 1st–4th Theology, not pre-theologians. Seminarians gradually acquire and demonstrate proficiency in two (2) theological reflections – one per semester. These portfolios are generally two pages long.

• These written requirements provide feedback for discussion between the seminarian, the Director of Pastoral Formation, the PFE supervisor, as well as the seminarian’s formation advisor.

V. General Field Education Requirements

In order to earn one required academic credit each semester, as well as a favorable report for his vocation director and bishop, every 1T – 4T seminarian engaged in PFE must fulfill the following requirements:

A. Full compliance with the PFE syllabus:

Each syllabus, a learning contract which outlines the purpose of the assignment, desired outcomes, and the seminarian’s PFE goals, is specifically designed for appropriate theological levels, as well as specific requirements set forth by the PFE supervisor. At the beginning of each academic year every seminarian receives an individually prepared PFE syllabus, tailored for their own assignment. Seminarians and supervisors must complete, sign, and return the syllabus by the due date.

B. Faithful attendance at the pastoral placement:

Supervised ministry requires a certain number of times / hours each week at the placement. Travel and preparation time are not included. All seminarians are required to make up any missed assignments. Specific policies on number of visits and hours for each PFE site can be found below in section IX, B.

C. Attendance at scheduled pastoral field education workshops:

This includes all meetings set forth and agreed upon by the seminarian and supervisor at the beginning of the academic year. This also requires the seminarian to ensure an appropriate balance of his schedule along with the other responsibilities set forth by the seminary.

D. Completion of all written requirements:

There are several written materials that are required for the academic portion of the PFE-assignment. These include: (1) a completed copy of the signed syllabus; (2) theological reflection based on the deacon’s presentation in the middle of the 1st semester; (3) theological reflection integrating the four pillars of formation in the middle of the 2nd semester. (First Theology through Third Theology only have a written requirement in the 2nd semester). (4) completed preference forms for the next year; (5) the seminarian’s evaluation of the PFE site and supervisor; and (6) for 4T seminarians only: an assessment and preaching evaluations at the end of the 1st semester. These written assignments are described in more detail below in section VIII A-F, and following.

E. Submission of all materials and proper copies distributed by the established date:

Seminarians are required to submit the original of all of the written materials to the Administrative Assistant to the Director of Pastoral Formation, and to keep a copy for the seminarian’s personal records. Making copies and distributing these to the proper people is solely the seminarian’s responsibility. Failure to return all necessary information by the due date or to comply with all instructions, unless previously excused due to serious illness or unforeseen emergencies, will result in a failure of the PFE course.

F. Other requirements on a case-by-case basis:

The seminarian, working with his supervisor, formation advisor, and the Director of Pastoral Formation, may have other requirements in order to maximize the educational aspect of this PFE experience.

VI. PASTORAL FORMATION GOALS (DISTINCT FROM PFE LEARNING CONTRACT GOALS)

The Director of Pastoral Formation requires formation goals for each seminarian at the beginning of the year. Seminarians are asked to work with their formation advisor in developing one or two pastoral formation goals based on their review of the “Issues by Year” (Pre-Theology, First Year, Second Year, Third Year, Fourth Year) contained above as appendices to the “Formation Advising” section of this Seminarian Handbook. The pastoral formation goals should reflect the pastoral consideration of what a man needs to develop in order to be an effective public minister. The pastoral goals are to be evaluated by the formation faculty and the student’s peers. These goals should be appropriate to the seminarian’s level of theology and discernment but distinct from the PFE syllabus or any specific PFE goals.

VII. PASTORAL AND THEOLOGICAL REFLECTION (DESCRIPTION)

Theological reflection is an important component of priestly and pastoral formation, and has two general goals:

FIRST: To foster in seminarians the habit of honest, critical, and ongoing reflection regarding their pastoral ministry, thus contributing to a constructive discussion with their supervisor and formation advisor. Some topics for discussion: (a) successes and failures in ministry; (b) challenges and difficulties in ministry; (c) issues in collaborative ministry; and (d) receiving advice or instruction from the supervisor.
SECOND: To encourage seminarians to understand their pastoral work in light of the theological tradition of the Church. They should make connections between the various aspects of priestly formation, including academic coursework, their personality, their spiritual life and their pastoral responsibilities. When this happens, the seminarian can better discern how God is present in the situation and thus make pastoral decisions which are more theologically grounded and effective, even if challenging.

VIII. DETAILS OF ALL PFE WRITTEN REQUIREMENTS

All 1T-4T seminarians will submit the following written assignments as described below. Failure to submit these written assignments (original to the Administrative Assistant to the Director of Pastoral Formation; a copy for the seminarian’s own records) by the established due date will result in a failing grade for this PFE class.

NOTE: Seminarians are solely responsible for making these copies and delivering them to the proper people by the deadline. The content of each of these written requirements is described below.

A. Completed and Signed Syllabus:

In order to comply with the academic aspect of this PFE program, seminarians and supervisors will use the PFE syllabus, a learning contract designed for each level of theology with specific required pastoral learning experiences outlined for each PFE site. This syllabus model will allow students and supervisors to establish concrete areas of learning, dialogue, supervision and theological reflection. The list of pastoral objectives or possible PFE responsibilities should shape the PFE experience for the seminarian.

NOTE: The PFE syllabus is distinct from the “pastoral formation goals” (see VI. above).

Since each level of theology as well as each PFE site and supervisor have different requirements, each PFE syllabus will be designed for that particular program and theological level.

The PFE syllabus will be distributed at the beginning of each academic year. Each syllabus indicates: (1) name of placement; (2) name of supervisor and assigned seminarian(s); (3) contact information (4) basic description of ministry; (5) specific objectives that must be part of the seminarian’s experience and monitored by the supervisor; (6) specific due dates for various PFE assignments; (7) the seminary expectations for the seminarian in this assignment; (8) any other specific goals or objectives established and agreed upon by the seminarian and the supervisor; and, (9) space for signatures to establish an agreement between the supervisor and seminarian.

B. PFE Theological Reflection #1: Fourth Year Theologian Presentation

In the middle of the first semester, the 4th Theology class will make a presentation and lead a seminarian small group regarding a topic particular to a PFE site. The organization for the group assignments, as well as specific instructions for the 4T seminarians will be coordinated by the Director of Pastoral Formation.

C. Fourth Year Theological Reflection:

A one-page, single-spaced reflection on the following questions at your pastoral field education assignment:

- How did God act in me in my PFE assignment?
- Did I experience a personal change as a result of my PFE assignment?
- How did my PFE assignment help me grow spiritually?
- What pastoral skills did I learn in my PFE assignment?
D. PFE Review: All Seminarians except Fourth Year

All seminarians except Fourth Year will actively participate and listen attentively to the 4T seminarian’s presentation. This small group will assist 4T students in developing presentations and leading small group discussions.

E. PFE Theological Reflection: On a Pastoral Experience

In the middle of the spring semester, each seminarian (1T-3T) will be doing a Theological Reflection, following the same instructions given above for VIII.C. “Fourth Year Theological Reflection.”

- The basic outline to be used at top of page is as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Document Title: Theological Reflection on Pastoral Experience</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Name of Seminarian</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Theological Level</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Formation Advisor</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

F. Homiletic Assessment & Preaching Evaluation [for 4th Theology ONLY]

All 4th year seminarians in parish placements are required to preach at least one time per month, preferably every weekend that they go to their PFE parish assignment. The exact number of preaching opportunities will be determined by the supervising pastor and the seminarian.

If a 4th theology student is not yet ordained a deacon, the supervisor must provide some opportunity for the seminarian to exercise some “practice” of preaching before a congregation. Non-deacon preaching can be done as a “post-communion reflection”, a prayer group reflection, at a parish mission, or even in a Liturgy of the Word outside of Mass.

Before the end of the first semester each 4th theologian, with the help of the supervising pastor, will complete a preaching evaluation. The specific evaluation sheet will be made available at the beginning of the year. The specific instructions are as follows:

1. The deacon and pastor will select a weekend to evaluate the deacon’s homily.
2. The deacon will be responsible for making ten copies of the preaching evaluation form. He will give five blank copies to the pastor.
3. The pastor will select five random parishioners who will complete the preaching evaluation form. The deacon will distribute his remaining five copies to random parishioners. These parishioners should represent the following groups of people: (1) a senior citizen (2) a married couple with a young family (3) a young adult single male (4) a young adult single female (5) a teenager.
4. After collecting the completed evaluation forms, the deacon and supervising pastor should discuss the results. The pastor should offer his personal comments to the deacon regarding the style, content and tone of the deacon’s homily on the “Pastor’s Summary” form.

G. Final PFE Evaluations and PFE Visits

A link to the final evaluations will be sent to each supervisor. It is most effective for both the seminarian and supervisor if the evaluation is reviewed together.

As part of the evaluation process, the Director of Pastoral Formation will schedule an appointment with the PFE supervisor. At any time the seminarian can specifically request the Director of Pastoral Formation to intervene or to schedule an appointment to discuss the progress.
H. Preference Forms and Evaluation of the PFE Assignment

After the spring break, seminarians must submit a completed PFE preference form in order to prepare for the upcoming fall semester.

I. Voluntary Evaluation of the PFE Site by Seminarian

A PFE site evaluation will be sent in order that each seminarian has the opportunity to provide feedback about his experience at the site. The evaluation will be helpful to the Director of Pastoral Formation when he makes a visit to the site.

IX. Field Education Policies

A. PFE Schedule – General Principles

1. A schedule of PFE events will be given to each seminarian and supervisor at the beginning of the year. The schedule provides the supervisor and seminarians a list of dates when the seminarian is NOT available to participate in his PFE, due to seminary or university obligations.
2. The program hopes to establish a “regular” schedule of PFE experiences weekly or monthly. The PFE program schedule hopes to create some regularity in order for the seminarian and the people he serves, as well as the supervisor, to sense a consistency in his ministry.
3. The hours listed below must not be interpreted so strictly that the hours no longer correspond with the reality of the situation at the PFE itself. In other words, there will be need for flexibility, just like in all pastoral settings. These “policies” should be seen more as “guidelines” to help establish a good, honest, thorough schedule between the seminarian and supervisor. These policies do not include driving time, but should be considered a factor by the seminarian and supervisor, especially during the busy times of the seminarian’s semester. Flexibility and constant communication about the schedule is an absolutely essential part of this program. There may be times when either the PFE supervisor or the seminarian’s schedule precludes a scheduled meeting.
4. Missed meetings that were scheduled should be made up in order for the seminarian to show that he is proactive in ministry, and not simply trying to do the bare minimum in terms of his service.
5. Supervisors are asked to make sure the seminarian is keeping busy enough that he feels that his service is needed, while at the same time not feel as if the PFE service depends solely on the man, as his schedule does not allow for a full-time presence.
6. These policies suggest a certain number of hours / time frames per month, which can be increased or decreased, as long as it is mutually agreed upon by the supervisor and seminarian and approved by the Director of Pastoral Formation.
7. It is very important that at the first meeting, the seminarian and supervisor discuss schedules in order to complete the PFE syllabus by the due date. That will help avoid any confusion about the seminarian’s expected days and times of service.
8. The official PFE schedule contains two helpful distinctions:
   o First, “OPTIONAL EXEMPTION” – i.e., a seminarian may legitimately ask to be absent from a PFE date originally requested by the supervisor;
   o Second, “OPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY” – i.e., seminarians may choose to participate in a PFE even during a non-required time, such as one of the semester breaks.

B. Hours of Service:

1. Pre-theology Seminarians:
   Six to eight hours per month. This time frame does not include travel time. Extra time to perform PFE or to be present at another PFE-related event requires permission from the Director of Pastoral Formation to ensure the seminarian is keeping a balanced schedule.
2. First Theology Seminarians:
   Three hours per week. It is possible for the seminarian to attend his PFE two times every other week for a six-hour service. This time frame does not include travel time. Extra time to perform PFE or to be present at another PFE-related event requires permission from the Director of Pastoral Formation to ensure the seminarian is keeping a balanced schedule. In addition, there will be a bi-weekly class offered by the Nashville Dominican Sisters in the fall only to support the seminarian in the classroom experience.

3. Second Theology Seminarians:
   Three hours per week. It is possible for the seminarian to attend his PFE two times every other week for a six-hour service. This time frame does not include travel time. Extra time to perform PFE or to be present at another PFE-related event requires permission from the Director of Pastoral Formation to ensure the seminarian is keeping a balanced schedule.

4. Third Theology Seminarians:
   Three hours per week. It is possible for the seminarian to attend his PFE two times every other week for a six-hour service. This time frame does not include travel time. Extra time to perform PFE or to be present at another PFE-related event requires permission from the Director of Pastoral Formation to ensure the seminarian is keeping a balanced schedule.

5. Third Theology Seminarians in a Parish (pre-deacon parish assignment):
   This assignment requires the approval of the Director of Pastoral Formation. This assignment requires at least three hours per week or a maximum of two overnights per month. If a seminarian chooses to spend the night at the PFE assignment, he should arrive no later than 5:00 pm on Saturday and return no later than 5:00 pm the following Sunday in order to participate in community Vespers. This PFE experience for 3rd year is “similar” but not exactly compared to the 4th year parish placement. This 3rd year experience provides the seminarian a more thorough pastoral experience of the parish. It is also possible (although not guaranteed) that the seminarian will return to that parish assignment in his 4th year of theology, in order to provide a continual pastoral experience. The 3rd year pre-deacon parish assignment can be simply a weekend presence, or some scheduled evangelization opportunity that occurs regularly on one day throughout the week, such as RCIA, a bible study, or any other parish program that will give the seminarian a good and realistic experience of evangelization in a parish setting. Extra time to perform PFE or to be present at another PFE-related event requires permission from the Director of Pastoral Formation to ensure the seminarian is keeping a balanced schedule.

6. Fourth Theology Seminarians in a Parish:
   At least two regularly scheduled weekend overnights each month, or at least eight weekends (maximum of 10 weekends) each semester. Throughout the 4th Theology academic year, he is expected to schedule at least 16 but no more than 20 weekend parish visits. Failure to complete 16 weekend visits will result in failing the PFE course with notification to the vocation director and bishop. These weekends must be specifically stated in the mutually-agreed syllabus which is to be signed by the supervisor and seminarian at the beginning of the academic year. If necessary, dates may change, but the number of opportunities remains the same. The term “weekend”, although technically beginning after the seminarian’s last class on Friday, should begin no later than 10:00 am Saturday and end in time for the seminarian to return to the seminary by 5:00 pm for community Vespers. Pastor supervisors are asked to ensure that the seminarians have ample pastoral activity and experiences on Saturday morning and afternoon, prior to the Saturday vigil Masses. Permission to return later on Sunday can be granted by the Director of Pastoral Formation. Considering the 4th Theology schedule, it is also permissible for the seminarian to attend one “extra PFE opportunity” for a weekday event at the parish per month. That will allow the seminarian and supervisor to organize a pastoral experience that does not occur on weekends, such as a marriage preparation meeting, a funeral liturgy, a parish council meeting, school board meeting, a parish mission, or a special parish celebration. In some cases, these “extra PFE opportunities” can be scheduled at the beginning of the semester. However, ample time must be given if the supervisor wants the seminarian to attend a weekday parish event to ensure a proper balance in the seminarian’s schedule.

7. Specialized PFE Programs (on-campus PFE or PFE Seminary Service):
   Seminarians who may have specialized programs that do not require much driving time are required the same amount prescribed in the information above. This schedule must be specifically written out at the beginning of each semester so that the Director of Pastoral Formation is convinced that ample time is being devoted to pastoral service and learning.

C. Absences

If a seminarian is unable to attend a scheduled assignment, he must inform both the supervisor and the Director of Pastoral Formation before the scheduled event. It is a serious formation issue if a seminarian chooses to miss an assignment without due cause. If a seminarian learns that a scheduled placement has been cancelled (e.g., due to inclement weather or by supervisor’s decision), he should also inform the Director of Pastoral Formation. It is necessary that any excused absences requested by the seminarian be made up in order to fulfill syllabus requirements.

D. Inclement Weather or Other Emergencies

Seminarians must be attentive to any closings due to inclement weather. Seminarians must also have a way to contact the supervisor in case of any other emergencies. The particular policies should be discussed at the introductory meeting with the supervisor. Each seminarian must also have an alternative number or a cell phone for each supervisor to thoroughly communicate any delays or cancellations immediately.

E. Deadlines for all Written Materials

Meeting deadlines is a matter of respect, courtesy and personal discipline. Seminarians are expected to consult the “PFE Calendar” of the handbook or the syllabus for details. Deadlines are also posted in the seminarian mailroom as well as on each blank copy of PFE documents. Reminders are usually reported in the Daily Bulletin, but it is the responsibility of each seminarian, not the supervisor or the Director of Pastoral Formation, to constantly make these deadlines. If a seminarian fails to submit materials in a timely manner, he will fail the PFE course and a letter will be sent to his vocation director.

F. House Cars

A house car is available for transportation to PFE assignments for seminarians who do not own a car. The PFE car is reserved only for official PFE use. Any other requests must receive specific permission from the Director of Pastoral Formation. Seminarians who use the car must satisfy the requirements of the Department of Public Safety before being eligible to operate the car. They will follow the procedure established by the Director of Pastoral Formation. They are to obey traffic laws of the jurisdiction. Any traffic tickets incurred are the responsibility of the seminarian. Gas reimbursement for the PFE car follows the policies established in the section IX.I., located below. If an accident occurs, seminarians are solely responsible for getting police reports and all insurance information. Policies are established by Mount St. Mary’s University.

G. PFE Masses

“PFE Masses” will be designated in the annual academic Seminary Calendar (see Seminary Website or copy posted on mailroom bulletin boards). No other PFE Masses will be conducted unless a seminarian presents a legitimate need that conflicts with the regularly scheduled community Masses. Other requests for early morning Masses are not considered PFE Masses. Request for early Masses can be made to any priest faculty member. If no priest is available, the seminarian is expected to make other arrangements.

H. Mediation

If the seminarian has made attempts but has not been successful in discussing an issue with the PFE supervisor, he must contact the Director of Pastoral Formation as soon as possible. Learning to recognize and address potential problems early on is an important skill in ministry. The Director of Pastoral Formation will inform the seminarian of any concerns raised by his supervisor.

I. Mileage Reimbursements for all PFE Seminarians

1. Since PFE is a one-credit course per semester, a seminarian is not to receive a salary to compensate work rendered. However, the seminary expects seminarians to use their personal vehicle for traveling to PFE assignments. Teams are expected to carpool. Only one driver per apostolate will be reimbursed. A PFE site is not expected to pay equal reimbursement for two men who choose to drive separately for any reason. Any exemptions must be approved by the Director of Pastoral Formation. Otherwise, mileage reimbursements will not be provided in those cases in which team members choose to travel separately.

2. Seminarians may request mileage reimbursement to cover travel expenses to and from the placement sites only. It is a serious formation issue for any seminarian to take unfair advantage of this policy. This must always be documented with on-line travel planning assistance (i.e., googlemaps or mapquest).

3. Seminarians are asked to make an accounting to each supervisor regarding their driving miles. Seminarians must organize a system with their supervisor by the beginning of the semester in order to request reimbursement. Reimbursement can be paid directly to the seminarian each month, or the PFE supervisor can provide a reimbursement or partial reimbursement check to the seminary each semester to cover those expenses. The seminary PFE fund will reimburse the seminarian’s travel expense if the PFE site cannot do so. Seminarians must follow the policies established on the PFE reimbursement form. Seminarians receiving stipends and/or mileage reimbursement from the supervisor should not request a reimbursement from the PFE program. It is a serious formation issue to violate this policy.

4. Reimbursements are distributed on a monthly basis only. Seminarians should submit the forms by the requested deadline monthly and not wait for semester breaks. Failure to follow this policy may result in a delay or denial of reimbursement.

5. Reimbursement is set for .45 cents per mile. This is not considered a salary but simply a reimbursement for the wear and tear of the car.

6. An international seminarian (on an F-1 student visa) who is using their own vehicle and expecting reimbursement for PFE expenditures must speak with the Seminary Registrar about signing up for part-time CPT (curricular practical training) before accepting any such payments. Failure to do so could cause the international seminarian to fall “out of status” with their I-20 responsibilities.

J. Deacon’s Pastoral Service Compensation

Deacons are not permitted to receive a salary for services rendered. This is a one-credit course per semester.

- Supervisors for 4th year deacons are asked to give a stipend of $50.00 per weekend plus mileage reimbursement of .45 cents per mile. This is given directly to the deacon. However, accounting by the deacon is required.
If a deacon attends a weekday opportunity, he should receive the mileage reimbursement but not the $50.00. The $50.00 stipend is only for deacons (not 4th year theology students) and only for weekends, as it is expected that deacons will perform some sacramental service such as weddings, baptisms, prayer services, and preaching homilies.

4th year theologians who are not deacons do not receive the $50.00 stipend, but are qualified to receive mileage reimbursement. A stipend is a gift and not a salary.

An international 4th year theologian, studying here on an F-1 student visa, who is expecting to receive mileage reimbursement, or as a deacon the stipend for weekend PFE expenditures, must speak with the Seminary Registrar about signing up for part-time CPT (curricular practical training) before accepting any such payments. Failure to do so could cause the international seminarian to fall “out of status” with their I-20 responsibilities.

K. Other Policies as Needed

Unforeseen situations may require the Director of Pastoral Formation to create new or adjust current policies, in which case these will be communicated to the Executive Committee prior to establishing these as an official PFE policy. After approval from the Executive Committee, these policies will be made known to the rest of the seminary community.

X. Pre-Theology Options for PFE Assignments (Brief Description)

- FIRST YEAR Pre-theologians (P1) will not receive regular PFE assignments. However, they should contact the Director of Pastoral Formation if they want to volunteer for apostolic work.

- SECOND YEAR Pre-theologians (P2) are encouraged to have a regular but limited PFE assignment, six hours of service per month (not including the travel time). This regular opportunity to serve others will give the Second Pre-theologians an opportunity to discern their next step into theology in a forum of service. It will also give them an opportunity to step outside of the seminary academic schedule and develop an appreciation for pastoral applications of their formation goals. Returning seminarians will express their interest on a preference form provided by the Director of Pastoral Formation in the middle of the spring semester; new seminarians, at the beginning of the year.

- PRE-THEOLOGY Required Pastoral Commitments: Pre-theologians are required to assist in some capacity for two activities: (1) seminary participation in the annual March for Life in Washington, DC; and (2) the Mount’s annual Eucharistic youth retreat (aka Mount 2000). Pre-theologians must consult their formation advisor prior to accepting any other pastoral commitments to ensure proper time management regarding their formation.

XI. Fourth Theologian Internships (Further Clarifications of Policies)

A. Parish Assignments:

Upon approval of the local Ordinaries concerned, and with the collaboration of various Vocation Directors, the Director of Pastoral Formation appoints the seminarian to a parish assignment. The seminarian will receive the assignment at the beginning of the year.

1. Local sponsoring dioceses: Seminarians from the Archdiocese of Baltimore, Archdiocese of Washington, Diocese of Arlington, Diocese of Harrisburg, and the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston usually receive an assignment from their bishop.

2. NOTE: Deacons are on a rotating schedule to preside during the Sunday Holy Hour at 4:00 pm and solemn Vespers at 5:00 pm. (The same deacon presides during both liturgies.) The deacon should give the supervisor advance notice (two weeks) about this matter. On those days, he will have to leave earlier relative to travel time.

3. Preaching and Preaching Evaluations: A deacon should assist at appointed Sunday Masses and should preach at least during one of those Masses. There will be times in which he must complete a preaching evaluation. See section VIII-F above for details.
B. Syllabus Requirements:
The supervisor and 4th theologian are asked to complete the specific requirements of the syllabus in order to provide introductory experiences of the seminarian’s future parish and priestly ministry. Although each supervisor and seminarian would prefer to enter more deeply into these pastoral experiences, the PFE program at Mount St. Mary’s is not designed to replace a pastoral year, where such in-depth experiences occur. Instead, the various requirements of the syllabus will give the seminarian some introduction to important pastoral and practical matters that the seminarian should have prior to his priestly ordination. It is the hope of the PFE program that the seminarian will see his supervising pastor as a mentor with whom he can develop deeper pastoral insight through conversations in the rectory, at formal meetings, meal times, and any other appropriate opportunities. It is also important to give consideration to any preparatory work that has to be done that will not be detrimental to the other aspects of the seminarian’s formation.

C. Weekday Duties:
Fourth theologians (4T) are assigned generally for just week-end duties. However, in order to provide some limited experience for parish preparation, the supervisor and seminarian can organize a schedule that will allow the seminarian to come to the parish one extra day per month, during the weekday, in order to experience another important pastoral experience, such as a wake service or an important parish meeting that occurs during the weekday. This extra day can be helpful in completing the syllabus requirements. This extra day of pastoral presence, however, cannot be scheduled at an inopportune time that would affect the seminarian’s other duties or the seminary community schedule. This extra visit will also require mileage reimbursement, but not a stipend.

D. International 4th year theologians:
Those foreign-born seminarians studying here on an F-1 student visa, expecting to receive mileage reimbursement, or as deacons the stipend for weekend PFE expenditures, must speak with the Seminary Registrar/DSO about signing up for part-time CPT (curricular practical training) before accepting any such payments. Failure to do so could cause the international seminarian to fall “out of status” with their I-20 responsibilities. Further information about International Students’ responsibilities is located on the MSM website (http://msmary.edu/academics/registrar/student-visas.html).

E. Exemptions:
Seminarians will need to speak with the Director of Pastoral Formation and supervisor regarding any rare exemptions to the syllabus agreement. They are expected to fulfill their assignments. In the event that some urgent matter presents itself, it is the responsibility of the seminarian to communicate those issues with his supervisor and the Director of Pastoral Formation in as timely a manner as possible. With exception of medical emergencies, two weeks’ notice is a ‘professional standard’ of time for communicating particular exemptions to the scheduled requirements. The skill to communicate these circumstances is an important part of parish and priestly life. The Director of Pastoral Formation remains as available as possible to assist in this matter.

XII. Policy Regarding Sports Chaplains
A. Overview: Sports chaplains serve campus intercollegiate teams under the direction of the Chaplain of Campus Ministry of Mount St. Mary’s University and are responsible to the Rector of Mount St. Mary’s Seminary. A Fourth Theologian serves as the Head Chaplain, who coordinates the Chaplaincy Program for the academic year and functions as the liaison among the seminarian chaplains, the Chaplain of Campus Ministry, and the Rector.

B. Overview continued: Sports Chaplaincy is not a Pastoral Field Education (PFE) assignment, but a volunteer opportunity. The chaplain’s average weekly time commitment will vary according to many circumstances, most especially the present duties regarding his preparation and formation for the priesthood (i.e., school work, seminary functions, PFE, diocesan events, etc.). The time devoted to chaplain-related activities should not exceed four (4) hours per week without explicit permission of the Dean of Men. Chaplaincy should never be detrimental to the seminarian’s fundamental commitment to seminary formation and all it entails. The expectations of time commitment and activity for the chaplain shall be determined/clarified with both the Chaplain of Campus Ministry and the Head Coach of the team for which the seminarian is chaplain. Chaplains may step down from chaplaincy at any time, for any reason. In such a case, the seminarian shall notify the Head Chaplain, Coach, University Chaplain, and the Dean of Men.

C. Chaplain Eligibility: Chaplaincy is limited to seminarians in the Configuration Stage of formation (Theology). Pre-theologians may not be asked or even approached to serve as sports chaplains until the Spring of their Second Pre-Theology Year. New First Theologians or transfers to Mount St. Mary’s Seminary must complete one year of seminary before they are eligible for service as chaplains. Seminarians should have time to become acclimated to seminary life and deal with preliminary formation and discernment issues before offering themselves for service.

D. Process for Selecting Chaplains: Qualified seminarians will be given the opportunity to express interest in becoming a chaplain by signing up on a sheet in the mailroom every spring semester. This sheet will be posted by the Head Chaplain on February 1st and taken down on February 15th of every academic year. All the present sports chaplains will discuss all the names on the list and then select those seminarians most fit to fill empty chaplain slots for the following academic year. The Head Chaplain then presents the entire sign-up list as well as the selections of the present chaplains to the Rector for his approval. If approved by the Rector, the respective sports chaplain(s) can then approach the seminarian to propose chaplaincy.

E. Process for Accepting a Chaplain Position: Before accepting a sports chaplaincy position, a seminarian must obtain permission from his Vocation Director, Formation Advisor, and Spiritual Director. The seminarian is expected to pray, discern, and discuss with each of these individuals whether or not this is God’s will for him to serve as a sports chaplain at this point in his seminary formation. A candidate for chaplaincy ought to consider many things before accepting a position such as the quality of his prayer life, the amount of time he will commit to this service on top of his many other duties in seminary, his academic performance, his life of fraternity in the seminary, and any concerns regarding a specific team that are worthy to note. Relevant information should be given to a candidate for chaplaincy so that he, alongside his Vocations Director, Formation Advisor, and Spiritual Director, can make an informed discernment and decision. The Rector reserves the right to terminate the service of any chaplain if it proves to interfere with the overall progress of his priestly formation.

F. Chaplain’s Role: The chaplain’s primary role on a sports team is to bring Jesus to the student-athletes, and to bring the student-athletes to Jesus. His usual responsibilities may include, but are not limited to the following activity: praying before and after games and practices, having meals with the team, attending one or two practices a week, forming a group for faith formation, helping bring athletes into RCIA, arranging a team Mass and/or dinner, etc.

G. Relating with Women: Seminarians should be cultivating appropriate ministerial, rather than social, relationships with university students. Moreover, great care should be taken not to foster close friendships with female students and to maintain the custody of the eyes and heart. The chaplain should practice prudence in relating with women in keeping with his commitment to celibacy and the circumstances that surround athletic training and events for women.

H. Overnight Policies: Travelling on the road and staying overnight at a hotel with the team is an extraordinary situation and is not permitted except possibly with post-season play. Seminarians need permission from the Coach and the Dean of Men to stay overnight at a hotel with their team. If permission is granted, the chaplain must give the following information to the Dean of Men: hotel location, room number, duration of trip, and relevant contact information. Chaplains must have a hotel room to themselves and may under no circumstances share a hotel room with student-athletes, coaches, athletic trainers, or other team personnel. Seminary funds will not be used to cover any incurred expenses.

I. FAM (Faith and Athletics Mentors) Meetings: Sports chaplains are encouraged to meet regularly to discuss ideas, issues, and events related to chaplaincy. The Head Chaplain is responsible for coordinating these meetings and ought to invite the Chaplain of Campus Ministry and the Varsity Catholic missionaries.

J. Team Dinners: With regard to Sport Team Dinners organized by the appropriate chaplain, refer to the corresponding policy under the use of the Recreation Room in the “Rule of Life.”

XIII. SUMMER EVALUATIONS AND PASTORAL YEAR EVALUATIONS

A. Summer Evaluations:

Forms will be provided to each student before the end of the spring semester. The first document will be a “summer contract” which explains some of the objectives for the summer experience. The summer assignment, normally made by the local bishop through the vocation director, is not officially directed by Mount St. Mary’s PFE program. However, the evaluations are reviewed by the Director of Pastoral Formation. Therefore, the contract must be completed, signed, and returned to the Director of Pastoral Formation in order to get an understanding of what the seminarian accomplished during this summer pastoral experience. The second document is the actual “summer assignment evaluation.” The evaluation must be completed by the summer assignment supervisor. Both the supervisor and seminarian should sign these forms and return them to the Director of Pastoral Formation by the due date. Proper copies should be made (see section V-E above). These documents provide evaluation information to the formation team. The information is also helpful in order for the Director of Pastoral Formation to make appointments for the upcoming academic year’s PFE. If the seminarian’s diocese requires a particular evaluation, the Director of Pastoral Formation will also accept that document along with the Mount St. Mary’s documents.

- International Seminarians – please note: All international seminarians studying here on an F-1 student visa who expect to receive any form of financial compensation for summer PFE expenditures must speak with the Seminary Registrar about signing up for part-time CPT (curricular practical training) before accepting any such payments. Failure to do so could cause the international seminarian to fall “out of status” with their I-20 responsibilities. Further information about International Students’ responsibilities in located on the MSM website (http://msmary.edu/academics/registrar/student-visas.html).

B. Pastoral Year:

The pastoral year is an appointment by the bishop. This provides the seminarian invaluable experience as well as opportunities for formation and discernment. The seminarian requires documents similar to the summer assignment, but specifically geared for the entire year. These documents must be completed by the supervisor, reviewed with the seminarian, and signed by both the supervisor and seminarian. These documents should then be sent to the Director of Pastoral Formation before the start of the next semester (generally, the same date as the summer assignment). If the seminarian’s diocese requires a particular evaluation, the Director of Pastoral Formation will also accept that document along with the Mount St. Mary’s documents. Seminarians should inform the Seminary Registrar that they will be on a required Pastoral Year and register for ORDN 010 Pastoral Year Internship, which will maintain their full-time status as a student for loan-deferments and insurance purposes.
• International Seminarians – please note: All international seminarians studying here on an F-1 student visa and are required by their diocese to have a “pastoral year” internship must speak with the Seminary Registrar about signing up for part-time CPT (curricular practical training). This will allow the seminarian to maintain full-time student status and to accept any financial compensation offered for expenditures while on the pastoral year. Failure to do so could cause the international seminarian to fall “out of status” with their I-20 responsibilities. Further information about International Students’ responsibilities is located on the MSM website: http://msmary.edu/academics/registrar/student-visas.html.
I. First Year - Teaching Ministry

Seminarians in 1st Theology (1T) are just beginning to learn what theology is. Their course work includes Revelation and Trinity; they are studying who God is and how He reveals Himself. In field work they are usually teaching at some level. The goal of first year theological reflection is to help seminarians take seriously the fact that it is God who calls and commissions priests. He - not they - is the source of their vocation.

The Holy Father’s 1992 exhortation on the formation of priests, Pastores Dabo Vobis, takes its title from Jeremiah 3 where God promises to give His people shepherds after His own heart. Seminarians are led to reflect on both aspects of this reality. First, it is God who calls, God who sends. Ministry is not our work, but our participation in the work of God. God loves His people - and out of that love - He sends shepherds to care for them. Second, God sends priests to a specific context. Seminarians need to reflect on who it is God has sent them to and why He has sent them. Ministry is not generic but is shaped by the needs of those to whom the minister is sent.

First theologians (1T) are given a reading assignment with questions that draw them into viewing their pastoral experience in these terms: To whom is God sending them? What do these people need? How does God want the seminarians to minister to these needs? How is God revealing Himself in this situation? The goal is to help seminarians to begin understanding and experiencing their ministry as something initiated and made possible by the love and grace of God, not their own abilities.

II. Second Year - Health Care / Social Ministry

Seminarians in 2nd Theology (2T) have completed important course work in Christology. Pastoral placements are intended to help seminarians develop one-on-one pastoral skills. The goal of second year theological reflection is to draw seminarians into deep consideration of what it means that a priest is called to be alter Christus, one who acts in persona Christi.

Second theologians are given a reading assignment that leads them to reflect on the meaning of living the reality of one who prolongs the presence of Christ, and how this relates to their actual experiences in their assignment. They are encouraged to find connections between the theology of being alter Christus and the pastoral situations. They are asked to give good examples of priests in this regard. What obstacles do they see in themselves preventing them from embodying Christ for his flock and what can they do about them? How can they enter into the reality of living as alter Christus?

III. Third Year - Evangelization Ministry

After two years of study, seminarians in 3rd Theology (3T) have some sense of what theology is, and how to reflect on pastoral experience in a theological way. This year, they are studying how the Holy Spirit works in the Church to sanctify the People of God. Their course work includes how grace works in human life and in the sacraments, and ecclesiology. Their pastoral placements are intended to develop skills in overall parish ministry and evangelization. The goal of third year theological reflection is to foster in the seminarians an appreciation of their future role in enabling the laity to enter into living out their Catholic identity and call to Christian witness and service in the world.

They will reflect on and discuss such questions as: What does it mean for pastors to empower the laity for the new evangelization? How does the Holy Spirit work in the Church to build up the Body of Christ and how can they as future priests be servants of the Spirit’s work?
In sum, the goal for each year of theological reflection is to integrate: (a) the seminarian’s level of theological knowledge and ability to reflect theologically; (b) what the seminarians are learning about in their academic theology courses (from God the Father, to the Son, to the Holy Spirit in the Church); and (c) the nature of pastoral fieldwork in which they are engaged and the kinds of skills they are trying to learn. The purpose of all three years is to help seminarians to be open and undefensive about difficulties, to help each other overcome them and encourage each other, and to understand the realities of pastoral experience in the context of the wisdom of the two thousand years of the theological tradition of the Church.
PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITIES

I. STUDENT GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES

The grievance procedure outlined below is intended to insure a fair hearing and a just response to student grievances at Mount St. Mary's Seminary. It does not apply to matters for which other procedures have been established by seminary policy (e.g. see the Formation Advising Program above).

A. Definition

Grievances arise when students perceive that they have been subject to arbitrariness, bias, unjust discrimination, harassment, unfairness or unreasonable deviation from the established written seminary policies (the Seminary Catalog, the Rule of Life, and the Seminarian Handbook’s Academic Norms or Formation Advising Program). Disagreement with a policy (such as a grading policy) does not constitute a grievance. A grievance is an allegation that the policies have not been followed or have been unjustly applied. The person alleging an offense is called the grievant; the person (or persons) against whom the grievance is alleged is called the respondent.

B. Process

1. Informal Resolution: In most cases, a student should attempt to resolve his grievance through direct communication with the respondent(s) before proceeding further. In cases of alleged sexual harassment, however, the student may choose to proceed to Step 2 (Administrative Intervention) without first seeking informal resolution.

2. Administrative Intervention: In the event that a mutually acceptable resolution is not attained by informal process, the grievant approaches the seminary administration within 30 days of the incident (the Rector may extend this deadline to ensure due process). For matters related to the academic program, a grievant shall approach the Academic Dean. For matters related to the pastoral formation program, a grievant shall approach the Director of Pastoral Field Education. For matters related to student life, a grievant shall approach the Dean of Students. If the grievance is with the administrator, see “Grievance Hearing” below.

   The administrator shall discuss the matter with the grievant and respondent(s), either together or separately. This is not a formal hearing; no minutes are kept. The judgment of the intervening administrator shall be acted upon promptly.

3. Grievance Hearing: In the event that the student believes that a grievance, as defined above, remains despite administrative intervention or, if the grievance was with the administrator, the student shall request a grievance hearing. The grievant shall submit a written request for a hearing to the Vice Rector within four days from the time when the administrative intervention allegedly failed to resolve the matter. In the written request, the grievant shall state concisely the basis for the grievance, the process followed thus far, and the relief or remedy that the grievant is seeking. The grievant should attach any relevant documentation (e.g. correspondence, e-mails, or witness statements) to the request.

   The respondent shall be informed that a grievance hearing has been requested and is given four days to submit a written statement and any relevant documentation to the Vice Rector for Human Formation.

   After he has received both sets of documents, the Vice Rector will provide copies to both the grievant and the respondent so that they may prepare for the hearing.

   The Grievance Committee consists of the formation team which corresponds to the class rank of the grievant. If the grievance is with the Vice Rector or any other member of the team, those individuals are excused, and, if necessary, the senior faculty member (in years of service) chairs the meeting. The Grievance Committee shall meet no later than two weeks from the date of the grievant’s request.

   Both grievant and respondent(s) meet together with the team. Each are given the opportunity to speak to the committee. The Vice Rector (or chair) shall ensure that both grievant and respondent(s) are given adequate opportunity to present their positions, one at a time starting with the grievant. They are not to question each other, but to direct their comments to the committee. The committee may ask questions of either the grievant or respondent after both presentations have been made. Both parties shall remain at all times during the hearing, and then both are excused so that the team may deliberate.

The committee deliberates and reaches a conclusion (by majority vote) in the form of a recommendation to the Vice Rector regarding the relief or remedy that the grievant sought. The Vice Rector makes the final decision and informs the grievant and respondent of the committee recommendation and his decision. A brief summary (not to exceed one page) of the grievance and the judgment is provided to the Rector. A copy is also kept on file with the Registrar.

C. Appeal

1. Either party may appeal the Vice Rector’s decision to the Rector. Appeals must be made in writing within 48 hours of the Vice Rector’s decision (this time the limit may be extended by the Rector to protect due process). The judgment of the Rector is final.

2. Policies regarding grievances related to the undergraduate program are to follow its published procedures.

3. The Rector alone has the authority to dismiss students from the seminary, and his decision is final.

II. International Students (non-US citizens)

A. All international seminarians studying here on an F-1 Student Visa must report to the Seminary Registrar who is the “designated SEVIS official” (DSO) at the beginning of each semester to verify their continued attendance and enrollment in a full-time load of classes. Seminarians must keep all versions of I-20’s they have received from Mount St. Mary’s Seminary or any other school they attended previously) with their passport at all times. Any changes to the information on the I-20 form, especially changes in address (or financial sponsorship), must be reported to the Seminary Registrar/DSO within 10 days.

B. New international students with an R-1 or Permanent Resident visa status must report to the Seminary Registrar at the beginning of their first semester to verify their immigration status.

C. All international seminarians studying here on an F-1 Student Visa must comply with all federal regulations (DHS, ICE, SEVIS) concerning their non-immigration status; Failure to do so could result in the termination of their I-20 authorization to study at Mount St. Mary’s Seminary.

D. International F-1 seminarians who plan to travel outside the USA must have an “authorization to travel” signature on the third page of their I-20 which is dated less than 12 months prior to their expected reentry into the USA. They are responsible for submitting their I-20 to the Seminary Registrar/DSO for this signature before leaving campus.

E. International F-1 seminarians must apply to the Seminary Registrar/DSO for a period of part-time “curricular practical training” (CPT) for any PFE, Summer placement, Deacon assignment, or required Pastoral Year during which they expect to receive any kind of payment, reimbursement, or stipend. Accepting any such financial payment (aside from the tuition, living expenses and other incidental support being offered by the diocese as noted on the I-20) without CPT authorization could be considered a failure to “maintain status” and could have a negative impact when the seminarian applies to change to an R-1 Religious Worker visa upon completion of seminary studies.

F. Fourth theologians with an F-1 student visa may apply during their final semester to have a period of full-time “optional practical training” (OPT). This will allow the seminarian to apply for an Employment Authorization Document (EAD). The one year of OPT also allows the diocese time to submit documentation for the change to an R-1 Religious Worker visa. It is the seminarian’s responsibility to contact the Seminary Registrar/DSO for assistance in this process.
STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

THE CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS OF
MOUNT ST. MARY’S SEMINARY STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

PREAMBLE

“For the letter brings death, but the Spirit gives life.” (2 Cor 3:6)

“The ‘seminary’ in its different forms ... more than a place, a material space, should be a spiritual place, a way of life, an atmosphere that fosters and ensures a process of formation, so that the person who is called to the priesthood by God may become, with the Sacrament of Orders, a living image of Jesus Christ, head and shepherd of the Church.” (John Paul II, Pastores Dabo Vobis, 42)

Mount St. Mary’s Seminary Student Government Association (SGA) - comprised of the Executive Committee, Executive Board, and General Assembly – exists to represent individual seminarians and promote the good of the entire seminary student body in an intermediary and advisory role to the Rector, his designees, the seminary faculty and administration, and to Mount St. Mary’s University, when appropriate.

The SGA acts to assist the Rector and the faculty in order that seminarians may discover and develop their potential in the areas of human, spiritual, intellectual, and pastoral formation (PDV, 43-59). Together, they seek to maintain the seminary as “a community built on deep friendship and charity so that it can be considered a true family living in joy” (PDV, 60). By presenting the needs and concerns of the student body with filial trust to the Rector, the seminary advances in its mission to become a true brotherhood of men who relive “the experience of the group of Twelve who were united to Jesus” (PDV, 60).

The SGA promotes the common good of the seminarians by addressing issues that affect the whole community, by providing a means whereby each individual seminarian’s voice is presented with filial trust to the Rector, and by serving as the coordinating body for its ongoing subsidiary activities. As befits a community that lives by active cooperation with God’s grace and has fraternal charity as its measure and goal the present Constitution does not attempt to foresee and legislate for every possible contingency. To assure that they remain current, the SGA will review the by-laws at the end of each academic year and recommend necessary changes.

ARTICLE I: DUTIES AND POWERS OF THE SEMINARY STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

“You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great men exercise authority over them. It shall not be so among you; but whoever would be great among you must be your servant, and whoever would be first among you must be your slave; even as the Son of man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many.” (Mt 20:25-28)

I. All members of the seminary student body (Pre-theology through and including IV Theology) are voting members of the General Assembly of the Mount St. Mary’s Seminary Student Government Association (SGA).

II. The SGA serves in a representative, advisory and intermediary capacity for the seminary student body in relation to the Rector, his designees, the seminary faculty and administration, and to Mount St. Mary’s University, when appropriate.

III. Under the authority of the Rector and with the participation (including but not limited to consent, advice, voting, discussion, etc.) of the governed, the SGA serves the community by legislating for the common good concerning issues which affect the whole community of the student body or its subsidiary parts, and which legislation is therefore binding upon each member.

IV. The SGA responds to the needs and concerns of the community through necessary governance and discipline; the management of communal funds and financial affairs; and the organization and coordination of subsidiary functions, such as fund-raising, house committees, and house jobs.

V. The SGA levies dues from its members each year in the amount of $25.00. If and when an increase of dues seems advantageous, it will have to be approved by a majority vote in the General Assembly.

ARTICLE II: EXECUTIVE BODIES AND MEETINGS

“If I, then, your Lord and Teacher, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash one another’s feet.
For I have given you an example that you also should do as I have done to you. Truly, truly, I say to you, a servant is not greater than his master; nor is he who is sent greater than he who sent him.” (John 13:14-16)

I. EXECUTIVE BODIES OF THE SGA

The Executive Bodies of the SGA work in harmony for the benefit of the whole body of the community by accomplishing their individual and subsidiary tasks under a common coordinating authority. A simple majority of voting members found present passes all motions, except under extraordinary circumstances and as provided for in the by-laws. Robert’s Rules of Order is the basis for resolution of conflicts about points of order at these meetings. Minutes of all meetings are taken and archived by each body.

The Executive Bodies comprise the following:

A. The Executive Committee

The Executive Committee is the governing committee of the SGA, which includes:

1. President:
   Under the Rector’s authority, the President acts as the chief elected representative of the seminary student body in official matters. He has the duty and power to implement the constitution and by-laws; to call meetings of the student Executive Committee, the Executive Board, and the General Assembly, and to establish committees. He makes ad hoc decisions when necessary, after prudent consultation with appropriate persons/bodies which might include: members of the student Executive Committee or Executive Board, the Rector or his designee, or resources outside of the immediate seminary community. Along with the Vice President, the President meets with the Rector in an Executive Meeting on a monthly basis and presents the representative ideas, concerns, and suggestions from the General Assembly and the SGA Executive Board meetings.

2. Vice President:
   The Vice President acts as an elected representative of the seminary student body, governing the student Executive Board in the absence of the President; succeeding to his office upon his untimely resignation or removal; and fulfilling such other duties as the President may assign or delegate.
   Along with the President, the Vice President meets with the Rector in an Executive Meeting on a monthly basis and presents the representative ideas, concerns, and suggestions from the General Assembly and the SGA Executive Board meetings.

3. Treasurer:
   The Treasurer acts as an elected representative of the seminary student body, manages and reports the financial affairs of the student Executive Committee, prepares its budget, and coordinates the budgets of all the subsidiary groups within the SGA. He records all financial transactions using the house-wide standard financial records log.
a. Members of the seminary student body may ask to review but not keep or copy the financial activity of receipts and expenses during or at the end of each semester.
b. Members of the student body may request a financial report from the SGA Treasurer with prior permission from the SGA President.
   • If the SGA President denies permission for the financial report, then the student(s) may seek permission from the Rector or his delegate to Student Government.
   • The financial report is to be reviewed in the presence of the SGA Treasurer so that questions may be readily answered.
   • The financial report may only be reviewed, and it may neither be kept nor copied.

4. Secretary:
The Secretary acts as an elected representative of the seminary student body, manages all minutes, records, archives and correspondence of the student Executive Committee, and ensures appropriate public notice of its affairs and positions.

a. The Secretary will take the minutes at all meetings. These minutes will be given to those in attendance at the meeting who request a copy. The Secretary will keep copies of all minutes of all meetings, and a copy will be given to the President.
b. These minutes will not be posted for general review; however, individuals of the seminary student body may ask to review them, but cannot duplicate them. Any seminarian wishing to see these minutes must speak to the President and make a request. The Secretary will show the minutes to the seminarian wishing to see them.

B. The Executive Board

The Executive Board is the official voice for the ordinary expression and representation of student opinion concerning community living, discipline and legislation. The Executive Board meets no less than every two months and no more than two times each month. It includes the following voting members:

1. The student Executive Committee
2. The Class Presidents (Pre-Theology through IV Theology) and
3. Non-voting guests of the President, including but not limited to:
   o The Dean of Students or other designee of the Rector; o A representative from each religious order which forms part of the seminary student body; and o Other guests or members of the General Assembly whose presence in an advisory capacity is judged helpful by the President.

At one of these meetings during the academic year, the seminary’s Rule of Life (in particular Section II “Practices within the Seminary Community”) and this Seminarian Handbook (both available on the Seminary website) are to be reviewed. The SGA Secretary will distribute the directives to be discussed well in advance and the SGA President can bring suggested changes to the Rector or his designee.

C. The General Assembly

The General Assembly is the present and actual voice of the entire seminary student body in all of its members.

1. The General Assembly is ordinarily advised about house affairs by the SGA president at appropriate times. The executive body and board should be consulted and take an active role in these meetings.

2. An executive or legislative meeting of the General Assembly is called by the President under extraordinary circumstances. As provided for in the by-laws, there is to be adequate time to consider the matters at hand.
II. SUBSIDIARY BODIES OF THE SGA

The Subsidiary Bodies of the SGA are the organs of the whole community, which serve the everyday needs of the seminary and students, promoting priestly formation and growth in fraternal charity, and reaching out to the communities beyond the seminary. They include:

A. Class Assemblies:

Class Assemblies are called at least once per semester and as needed by their respective President. They elect class officers and representatives which include Class President, Secretary, Treasurer, Spiritual Life Representative, and Academic Representative for each class from Pre-Theology to IV Theology.

B. Class Officers and Representatives:

All five of these class officers and representatives are elected positions from Pre-Theology through IV Theology.

1. Class President

   The Class President acts as the chief elected representative of the class in official matters. He has the power to call meetings consisting of the Class Secretary and the Class Treasurer, as well as calling meetings of the entire class. He can also establish committees and make ad hoc decisions when necessary after prudent consultation with those concerned/affected, such as the other two class officers, the two class representatives, as well as the whole class.

2. Class Secretary

   The Class Secretary is an elected representative of the class and manages all of the minutes, records, archives, and correspondence of both the three class officers and the two class representatives.

   - The Class Secretary will take the minutes at all meetings and give a copy to the Class President.
   - Any member of the class may ask the Class President to see the minutes from any meeting. This request must be made prior to the review of the minutes. These minutes will be shown to the person making the request, but they cannot be duplicated in any way.
   - If the Class President should resign or be removed, then the Class Secretary would succeed the Class President pending a class election of a replacement.

3. Class Treasurer

   The Class Treasurer is an elected representative of the class and manages and reports the financial affairs to both the class officers and the class.

   - The treasurer prepares a budget based on expected revenues from fundraising and expenditures; for example, fundraisers, dinners, photocopying, gifts, etc.
   - The treasurer records all financial transactions using the house-wide standard financial records log.
   - An oral report by each Class Treasurer will be given to both the class officers and the class once per semester.
   - A request by a class member to review the financial report may be made to the Class President, who will ask the Class Treasurer to provide the class member with the financial report; however, this report is not to be duplicated in any way.
   - The financial report is to be reviewed in the presence of the Class Treasurer so that questions may be readily answered.
4. Liturgical/Spiritual Life Representatives
The Liturgical/Spiritual Life Representatives will primarily serve as liaisons between the Liturgy/Spiritual Life Committee and their respective class. They will assist in planning, implementing, and evaluating the various liturgies that occur throughout the year (i.e., special Feast Day Masses, Eucharistic processions, retreat, etc.). This includes, but is not limited to, scheduling classmates for the house liturgical schedule (1st Pre-Theologians: Ushers; 2nd Pre-Theologians and 1st Theologians: Servers; 2nd Theologians: Lectors; 3rd Theologians: Acolytes; 4th Theologians: Deacons), informing classmates about changes in liturgical norms, and bringing liturgical/spiritual life questions and concerns of classmates to the Liturgy/Spiritual Life Committee. The Liturgical/Spiritual Life Representatives may also help organize spiritual exercises according to the desires of their respective class.

5. Academic Representatives
The Academic Representatives will assist their classmates by planning and organizing an academic calendar, which will contain the dates and deadlines for exams and papers for each semester as well as other seminary activities and mandatory functions. Each Academic Representative (Pre-Theology through IV Theology) will make up an academic calendar. Three copies of the calendar will be made – one will be placed in the faculty workroom, one on the student bulletin board, and one will be given to the Academic Dean. The representatives will also give input to the professors and assist in resolving conflicts with exams and papers. They will also be aware of and make suggestions to the professors and Academic Dean on a better learning and teaching environment. They will be the ordinary channels for communication with the Academic Dean and the faculty on matters related to the particular academic norms and concerns of their classmates.

C. House Committees
House Committees are composed of a volunteer Chairman accepted by the SGA President, and one or more members from each class, a volunteer elected by the class or appointed interim by the Class President pending class acclamation. The committees recruit other members as necessary. All committee members serve under the authority of the President, who may replace them for a serious reason (except the faculty members of the Liturgy Committee). House Committees promote seminary life and formation and meet monthly, or at least every two months to discuss concerns and improvements. They maintain minutes and report their proceedings to the SGA President. They include the following:

1. Social Committee coordinates two house parties per semester, with a total of four house parties per academic year. If the Social Committee wishes to coordinate subsequent house parties beyond these four, the Committee must submit a budget proposal and receive approval from the SGA President and from the Rector. There are to be one representative for each class (Pre-Theology through IV Theology). The Social Committee Chairman and the committee will put together a calendar and a budget for said house parties, which will be submitted in writing to both the SGA President and SGA Treasurer for approval, as well as to the Dean of Students for his consent. The calendar items will then be incorporated into the broader Seminary Calendar which is located on the Seminary website (http://msmary.edu/seminary/calendar-Seminary).

2. Academic Committee is comprised of the Class Academic Representatives in consultation with the Academic Dean. These representatives are to meet as a group, independently or in conjunction with the Academic Dean no less than once per semester. These meetings will be called by the IV Theology Academic Representative, who will determine the time and date of the meetings by consulting with the other representatives and the Academic Dean. The Academic Dean shall be invited to all meetings, but he must come to one meeting per semester.
• At these meetings, these representatives should include in their discussion, but not solely, the following topics:
  o All areas of the intellectual formation program.
  o Ongoing review of the “Academic Norms” section of the Seminarian Handbook, academic schedules and timetables.
  o Suggestions and proposals regarding speakers, symposia, workshops, and the like.
  o To raise matters related to academic support (library, information technology, writing center, learning services, etc.).
  o Any other matter relating to the intellectual life of the seminary.
• This committee is also to review the “Academic Norms” section of the Seminarian Handbook, as well as the Seminary Catalog as a whole on a regular basis.

3. Athletic Committee will coordinate and promote intramural athletics and procure and maintain seminary athletic equipment.
   • The SGA President will either ask for a volunteer or appoint a member of the seminary student body to be Athletic Committee Chairman.
   • The Athletic Committee Chairman is to oversee all intramural athletic events and all house equipment.
   • A captain must receive prior verbal approval by the Athletic Committee Chairman before forming a team.
   • The Athletic Committee Chairman oversees the formation of team rosters and the creation of additional teams, if necessary.
   • Each captain will give a copy of the team’s schedule to the Athletic Committee Chairman, who will oversee and correct scheduling conflicts due to required seminary schedule and/or events. The Athletic Committee Chairman will both consult with and seek the permission of the Dean of Students, if necessary, in regard to any conflicts with the seminary schedule and/or events.

4. Life and Justice Committee coordinates and promotes the pro-life formation of seminarians and organizes their participation in various pro-life activities.
   • This committee consists of a chairman and a member from each class (Pre-Theology through IV Theology).
   • The chairman and committee members will be responsible for organizing the seminary’s involvement in the Right-to-Life March.
   • This committee will also work in conjunction with the Mount Students for Life in promoting pro-life issues on the Mount campus.
   • The chairman and/or this committee will meet with the Rector’s delegate for pro-life issues at least once per semester and at other necessary times.
   • The chairman and the committee members will draft a budget proposal and submit this to both the SGA President and the SGA Treasurer.

5. Liturgy/Spiritual Life Committee is composed of the house Director of Spiritual Formation, Coordinator of Liturgy, Professor of Liturgy, Organist/Director of Liturgical Music, head Master of Ceremonies, head Sacristan, Sexton, Programs Coordinator, Liturgical Ministries Scheduler, and one representative from each class (Pre-Theology through IV Theology) who meet usually once a month.
   • This committee is an extension of the role of the Rector, to whom the faculty Coordinator of Liturgy reports.
D. Working Committees

Working Committees assist in the operations of the seminary that involve more than one man and require more coordination that a simple house job. Their chairman is a volunteer approved by the SGA President, and they (SGA President and the chairman and/or the chairman and his committee) meet and recruit workers as required. Working Committees include, but are not limited to the following:

1. Postal Committee
2. Technology Committee
3. Kitchen Committee
4. Orientation Committee

E. Associated Committees

1. House Scholas: These groups report to the Organist / Director of Liturgical Music
   - Latin Schola
   - Spanish Schola
   - Vespers Schola
   - Contemporary Schola

ARTICLE III: ELECTIONS AND TERMS OF OFFICE

“His office let another take’ .... And they prayed and said, ‘Lord, who knowest the hearts of all men, show which one of these two thou hast chosen to take the place in this ministry and apostleship from which Judas turned aside, to go to his own place.’ And they cast lots for them, and the lot fell on Matthias; and he was enrolled with the eleven apostles.” (Acts 1:20, 24-26)

I. SGA ELECTIONS

A. The Executive Committee

The Executive Committee is elected in the spring semester.

1. Nominations are taken at a meeting of the General Assembly, either after the Rector’s Conference or at an extraordinary meeting.
   - Any member of the General Assembly nominates.
   - The nomination must be seconded by another member.
   - The nominee must be present and accept the nomination.
   - Nominations for a given office must be closed by a motion to close, which is seconded.
   - The office of President should be filled by someone from III Theology, and the office of Vice-President should preferably be filled by someone from III Theology or at least someone from II Theology.

2. The Student Government President places a ballot in the mailbox of each member of the General Assembly, and places a ballot box in a central location.

3. The ballot box is collected within 48 hours. The ballots are counted independently by the President, and then by the Secretary, and then lastly by an independent balloter, with any needed assistants.

4. The results of the election are posted for the entire seminary before noon on the day following the ballot count.

5. One person cannot hold two offices with the SGA Executive Committee, but he may hold a class office or be a class representative. He cannot, however, be a class president, as these are two distinct positions on the Executive Board. Furthermore, one person cannot be both the SGA Treasurer and a Class Treasurer.
6. Regarding election of SGA Executive committee, 1st Pre-Theology through rising 4th Theology are the voting members of the General Assembly of the Mount St. Mary’s Seminary Student Government Association (SGA).

B. The Class Representatives

The Class Representatives are elected by their respective classes in the spring semester for the upcoming academic year, except Pre-Theology and I Theology, who will elect officers and representatives in late August or early September. Spacing the time of these elections with those of the Executive Committee provides for continuity in governance while the new Executive Committee members take office.

1. Process
   - The SGA President, or his delegate, will explain the election process for officers and representatives to both the Pre-Theology and I Theology Classes and will assist them in these elections.
   - The SGA President will also ask each Class President if he, the Class President, wants to conduct the new class. If the Class President does not want to conduct the new class elections, then the SGA President will conduct said election.
   - Elections for Pre-Theology and I Theology, which are held in the fall, are to be conducted by the outgoing Class President. If he does not want to conduct the new class elections, or is otherwise unable, then the SGA President will conduct said elections.
   - IV Theology elections are for a lifetime appointment. These officers are elected for life and will help organize reunions and other such things for the graduating class.

2. The same procedure is followed by class nominations as for Executive Committee elections, adapted appropriately.

3. Class elections are secured by voice vote or a simple majority at the same class meeting when nominations are made.

4. Class officers and representatives include Class President, Secretary, Treasurer, Spiritual Life Representative, and Academic Representative for Pre-Theology and the Classes of I, II, III, and IV Theology.

5. An officer of the Executive Committee is not eligible to be a class president.

C. Resignation

Resignation from office occurs when any member of the Executive Board or other Executive Body or class officers or class representatives notifies the President and his resignation is accepted.

- Class Presidents tender their resignation to the SGA President.
- The SGA President tenders his resignation to the Rector and the Vice President.

D. Procedures for Removal

1. Procedures for removal from office of any executive or class officer or class representative for protracted gross negligence or other serious reason occurs upon intervention by the Rector for independent cause, or after receipt of either:
   a. For the removal of:
      - the SGA President, there must be a unanimous petition for removal by the Executive Board with the approval of the Dean of Students and the Rector;
      - Class officer or class representative, there must be a unanimous petition for removal by the class officers and representatives with the approval of the Dean of Students and the Rector.
or:

b. For the removal of:
   - the SGA President, a petition containing the signatures of two-thirds of the General Assembly, accepted by the Rector;
   - members of the Executive Committee, a unanimous petition of the Executive Board accepted by the President and approved by the Rector;
   - any class officer or class representative, a petition of two-thirds of the class accepted by the SGA President and approved by the Rector.

E. Succession

Succession to the office of SGA President belongs to the Vice President, who appoints another to serve out his own term. The President appoints successors to positions in the Executive Committee. Class Presidents are succeeded temporarily by the Class Secretary pending class election of a replacement. Presidential appointments are made at subsidiary levels.

ARTICLE IV: AMENDMENTS AND REGULAR REVISION OF THE CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS

“For Christ is the end of the law, that everyone who has faith may be justified.” (Rom 10:4)

I. REGULAR REVISION OF THE CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS

Each SGA President, prior to leaving office, will review the constitution and by-laws and make recommendations to the Executive Board and to his successor regarding changes necessary to keep the constitution and by-laws in harmony with current practice and needs.

II. AMENDMENTS AND REVISIONS

Amendments and Revisions to the constitution and by-laws are secured by either:

Method One
   - passage by the Executive Committee;
   - approval by the Rector; and
   - a majority vote in the General Assembly or:

Method Two
   - unanimous approval by the Executive Board; and
   - approval by the Rector and the Dean of Students

III. RATIFICATION

A. Ratification of a new constitution and by-laws is secured by a vote of three-quarters of the General Assembly and the approval of the Rector.

B. Prior to ratification of the by-laws:
   1. The by-laws will be physically and electronically posted for two weeks, for review by all members of the General Assembly prior to voting on these by-laws at the SGA meeting.
   2. Any legislative meeting of the General Assembly is called to hear concerns about the by-laws before the by-laws are voted on, or it can be done at the same meeting.

ARTICLE V: FINANCIAL PROCEDURES AND AUDITS

“No one can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and Mammon (a Semitic word for money or riches).” (Mt 6:24)
I. Disbursement(s) of Funds (Cash or Check) by a Class President:

A. The schema is as follows:

- $0.00 - $199.00
  Approved by the Treasurer
- $200.00 - $500.00
  Approved by the Treasurer in conjunction and agreement with both the President and the Secretary
- Over $500.00
  Approved by the Treasurer in conjunction and agreement with both the President and the Secretary, and also with a two-thirds class approval by vote during a class meeting

Disbursements are classified as either two kinds: ordinary or extraordinary
- Ordinary disbursements are defined as either for expenses or for fund-raising.
- Extraordinary disbursements are defined as examples such as making a donation, expenditures for Deacon Night, etc.

- If the Class President is away, then the Secretary and the Treasurer will both approve disbursements from $0.00 - $500.00. If the disbursement(s) is(are) greater than $500.00, then a two-thirds class approval by vote during a class meeting is required.

II. Disbursement(s) from the Student Government Association (SGA):

A. Individuals or committees seeking disbursement(s) (cash or checks) must seek prior approval of the SGA Treasurer is according to the following schema:

- $0.00 - $499.00
  Approved by the Treasurer alone
- $500.00 - $899.00
  Approved by the Treasurer and the Executive Committee
- Over $900.00
  Approved by the Treasurer, with the approval of the Executive Committee, and Executive Board

- If the Treasurer is away, then the President can approve disbursements by having the unanimous agreement of the Executive Committee.

III. Seeking Reimbursement from the Student Government Association (SGA)

A. The SGA is not obligated to reimburse an expense if the SGA President and/or SGA Treasurer did not authorize the expenditure.

B. If an expense does not pertain to an event which is open to all seminarians, or does not pertain to all seminarians in an overt and obvious manner, then prior approval from the Rector is required or, in the Rector’s absence, from both the Vice Rector and the Dean of Students.

C. If an expense exceeds an approved budget by more than $25.00, the SGA President must consult with the SGA Treasurer in order to authorize an over budgeted reimbursement.

D. SGA is not obligated to reimburse any expense which is not proven with a receipt, even if the expense was previously budgeted.

E. In the absence of a valid receipt, the SGA may approve reimbursement after consulting with the SGA Treasurer, with the following stipulations:

- For any expenses is greater than $299.00, the SGA President will consult with both the SGA Vice President and the SGA Treasurer to decide whether to disburse monies to pay the expense(s).
- If they either cannot unanimously agree, or refuse to disburse monies to pay the expense(s), they will seek the advice of the Rector or, in his absence, the Vice Rector and the Dean of Students or the delegate of the Rector to Student Government, if he is not the Vice Rector or the Dean of Students.
F. If, in any given month, the monthly ending balance of the SGA checking account falls below $1,000.00, or the checking account balance is projected to fall below $1,000.00, then the SGA Treasurer must inform the SGA President.
   - This same procedure holds true for any class where their checking account balance either falls below or is projected to fall below $300.00.

IV. The procedures for a class to borrow monies (a loan) from the Student Government Association are:

A. A class may borrow monies from the SGA in the following manner:
   1. The class must hold a meeting and obtain a two-thirds vote in order to borrow the monies.
   2. The Class President and Class Treasurer will submit their request in writing to the SGA President and SGA Treasurer.

B. The SGA Treasurer and the SGA President will consider the request with regard to the SGA projected budget.
   1. A document must be submitted to the SGA President and the Rector for approval, which must contain the following criteria:
      - The reason(s) for the loan
      - The amount to be borrowed
      - The approximate date that the monies will be returned
      - A place for the signatures of the following:
        o Class President
        o Class Treasurer
        o SGA President
        o SGA Treasurer Rector or his designee, if the Rector is away.
        o Rector or his designee, if the Rector is away
   2. Two copies of the document are to be made. The Class Treasurer keeps one and the second copy is kept by the SGA Treasurer. A copy of the check is to be attached to both documents.

C. No interest is to be charged on any loans.

D. The borrowing class, within the stated time frame, makes the repayment of a loan.
   1. If an extension is needed, then the Class President and Class Treasurer request an extension from the SGA President and SGA Treasurer.
   2. The Rector, or in his absence his designee, is to be notified.
   3. An extension can be either given or denied.
      - The SGA President and SGA Treasurer in agreement with the Rector can either grant or deny the extension.
      - All three must consent for the extension to be granted.

E. The repayment of a loan must be documented in the form of a letter from the Class President and Class Treasurer stating that the monies borrowed have been paid in full to the SGA President and SGA Treasurer.
   1. One copy will be kept by the Class Treasurer and
   2. The SGA Treasurer will keep a second copy.
   3. A copy of the check for repaying the loan is to be attached to both documents.
   4. The Rector, or in his absence his designee, is orally notified that the loan has been repaid.
V. INTERNAL AUDITING OF THE FINANCIAL BOOKS AND RECORDS WILL BE DONE IN THE FOLLOWING MANNER:

A. There will be two independent auditors, appointed by the SGA President, who will audit all of the accounting and financial records of all classes (Pre-Theology through IV Theology) as well as those of the Student Government Association.

B. The SGA President will choose two men from the seminary student body who have either a great deal of work-related experience or degree(s) in the areas of accounting and finance.
   1. If no men in the seminary student body can be found who have accounting/finance expertise and are also willing to undertake such a position, then the SGA President will search for two men of strong, trustworthy and competent character within the seminary student body.
   2. These two independent auditors are appointed (not voluntary) house jobs. The auditors should have two-year terms, alternating years of appointment.

C. There will be one audit done once per semester by class and SGA in the following time frames:
   1. Fall semester: Between October and December
   2. Spring semester: Between February and May
   3. The two independent auditors may request to the SGA President a change in the time frames to conduct the audits. The SGA President can either accept or refuse the request to the change in the time frames.

D. All audits of accounting procedures and financial records of each class will be completed and then reported orally to their respective Class Presidents and Class Treasurers.
   1. These oral reports will also be made to both the SGA President and SGA Treasurer.

E. The audit of the SGA accounting procedures and financial records will be made by the independent auditors and reported directly to both the SGA President and the SGA Treasurer.
   1. These two independent auditors will then seek the permission of the SGA President to make a brief oral presentation to the seminary student body at a Student Government Association meeting to inform the whole student body of their findings from the audit.
      a. This is to be neither a written nor an oral financial report, but an affirmation that the audit was conducted and that there were no problems with the accounting process and financial records.

F. If there is a major finding by these two independent auditors, then this finding will be reported in writing to the following in the proper sequence:
   1. First, to both the Class President and Class Treasurer.
   2. If the issue is not resolved at this level within one week, then it is reported by the two independent auditors to the following:
   3. Second, to both the SGA President and SGA Treasurer. If the issue is not resolved at this level within one week, then it is reported by the two independent auditors, the SGA President, and the SGA Treasurer to the following:
   4. Third, to the Rector and his delegate to Student Government whose responsibility it is to resolve the matter in a timely fashion. In the absence of the Rector and/or his delegate, the report is made to both the Vice Rector and the Dean of Students.
VI. Mount St. Mary University Auditors

A. If Mount St. Mary’s University requests or notifies either a Class or the SGA that they will be audited, then the following procedure will be followed:

1. Both the Class President and Class Treasurer will submit to and attend the audit if the audit is for the class.
2. If the audit is for the Student Government Association, as such, then both the SGA President and the SGA Treasurer will submit to and attend the audit.
3. In both cases, the Rector (or in his absence his delegate to Student Government, and in his absence the Vice Rector and the Dean of Students) is to be notified and invited to attend the audit with the respective officers.
THE STORY OF THE MOUNT

It is no accident where the Pangborn Campanile (Grotto bell tower) is located on the side of Mary's Mountain. Here, an immigrant French priest named John DuBois constructed a humble church in 1806. Local Catholics were few in number, divided between the descendants of colonial era English Catholics from southern Maryland and of more recent Irish immigrants who lived near the village of Emmitsburg.

John DuBois was born in Paris on August 24, 1764 and ordained at the age of 23 to serve his home archdiocese. Unforeseen political events would ruin his plans, however, when the French Revolution of 1789 broke out less than two years after his ordination. Carrying a letter of introduction from the Marquis de Lafayette, DuBois left his homeland in 1791 to embrace the life of an itinerant missionary in the United States. One of his many stops was Elder Station across from U.S. Route 15, east of the Mount. Not too far from here, he decided to buy land and eventually retire.

Fr. DuBois formally requested to associate himself with the Sulpician community, which ran a seminary in Baltimore. As a result of this affiliation, he opened a school on his hillside for the education of young boys, who one day might enter the major seminary in Baltimore. The Sulpicians already had enough to do in educating their philosophers and theologians. What began as someone else's idea would become Fr. DuBois' cherished life's work.

Thus Mount St. Mary's was born in 1808. DuBois supervised the building of a large, multi-story structure in hewn logs. This White House stood on what is now called the Terrace and remained in existence until 1901. A visitor to the Mount in 1810 would have noted the presence of four buildings: the church on the hill; DuBois' first log cabin, located where a Celtic stone cross now stands east of the Grotto parking lot; the stone wash house (which now houses an art studio at the foot of the hill); and finally the White House.

As an aside, it should be mentioned that Fr. DuBois vacated his cabin in the summer of 1809, for a short period of time. Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton arrived in the area and needed a place to stay while her own quarters were being prepared in St. Joseph's Valley, closer to Emmitsburg.

Fr. DuBois' cabin disappeared by the outbreak of the Civil War. The Mountain Church, although not used after 1897, stood until July 4, 1913, when an errant Roman candle ignited the shingle roof.

To the left of the Pangborn Campanile, named for a generous family of industrialists and benefactors from Hagerstown, MD, is the Mountain Cemetery, now called St. Anthony’s Cemetery where almost all local Catholics were buried after Fr. DuBois arrived. College and seminary notables buried here include many revered priests such as Coad, Bradley, Flynn, Cogan, McCaffrey, McSweeney, Mulcahy and Gallagher, whose names adorn various campus buildings as well as Kline, Phillips, Fives, Forker, and Delaney. These plots are located in "faculty row," a collection of headstones, similar in design, to the left of the driveway.

Behind the faculty plots are the graves of Mother Seton's son, William II, as well as members of his immediate family. Adjacent to these are the plots of three Civil War casualties, at least two of whom attended the Mount in the days before the war. Maurice Byrne, of Milliken's Bend, LA, was shot in the back at Clearspring, MD on July 26, 1864, while on duty with a Confederate patrol. James Norton, a member of the college class of 1862, left school in 1861, enlisted in a local militia unit in his native Alabama, and eventually was wounded at the Battle of Gettysburg. He languished for many months in a Union camp hospital near York, Pennsylvania before finally dying.

Sisters of St. Francis performed domestic tasks for the college and seminary community for many years, up until 1984. Three small headstones behind faculty row recall the memory of these dedicated women.

Today, a visitor to the Grotto sees three layers of activity or buildings. The first of these dates back to the DuBois period. A huge tree once hung over the mountain stream where the small stone chapel now stands. Much of the soil under the tree had been washed away by the stream, leaving a space large enough under the trunk and inside the roots for a man to stop and shield himself from the elements. DuBois discovered the spot, and Simon Bruté (also an immigrant French priest referred to as the Angel Guardian of the Mount) blessed the spot by hanging a small cross inside. Thus the Grotto was born.

When the tree finally fell, a modest lattice-work structure was made to take its place. By the 1850’s, a second structure replaced the first and a third in 1898. The current stone building was built in 1906 and dedicated to the memory of Bishop McGovern of Harrisburg.

The stone wall reproduction of the Lourdes Grotto in France was constructed in 1879 by President Fr. John A. Watterson. Fr. Watterson initiated the project to commemorate the apparitions which had taken place 21 years earlier in France and which had been approved in 1862.

Until 1958, the Grotto of Our lady of Lourdes was merely a secluded, but very special corner of the campus, known to students and rarely visited by outsiders. The Apostolic Delegate to the United States, the Most Reverend Amleto Cicognani, urged the Mount to open the Grotto to visitors. In honor of the centennial of the apparitions, he obtained impressive indulgences.

After 1958, Grotto Road was widened and paved. Stations of the Cross and mosaic mysteries of the rosary were added, and a statue of the Blessed Mother in Carrara marble was installed above the circular reservoir. Seating for 500 was built in the natural amphitheater above the Grotto (and now seats 1,500). The Pangborn Campanile, which has become a regional landmark, was built in 1965, with St. Mary's Chapel on the Hill opening in 1976. A new Visitors’ Center was built and dedicated in June 2013.

The Hughes Cabin, located below the Grotto parking lot, is named for John Hughes, an immigrant Irishman, who lived in the cabin in 1819, while supervising the gardens and taking classes in the seminary. Hughes was later ordained to the priesthood and became Bishop John DuBois' coadjutor in New York City. As Ordinary, he distinguished himself as a leading defender of Catholics in the United States.

The Hughes cabin once stood north of the seminary, but was moved to a spot south of the seminary (now paved) a few years after McSweeny Hall was built. The cabin was brought to this spot on the hillside to heighten its visibility during the celebrations marking the 175th anniversary of the college and seminary’s foundation in 1983. In 1995, extensive restoration work was undertaken to replace decayed timbers and protect the cabin from the future ravages of time.

Descending the steps from the Grotto parking lot, one arrives at the back terrace where two structures stand. Right of the steps is Barrett Hall, possibly the oldest structure on campus. Standing east of it, one can distinguish three separate sections of stone wall. The oldest contains the door to the building and corresponds basically to the Elder spring house that antedates the college. A sure source of running water in the early 19th century could not be overestimated. DuBois may have taken this into account when he chose this particular spot to build his cabin and church. Behind Barrett Hall, on the side of the mountain, Green Briar Spring continues to flow. This was the source of the water in the outdoor fountains once used by students.

Barrett Hall was expanded in 1837, so that the upper portion could be used as a chapel. A further expansion in 1894 meant that the students no longer had to climb the steps up the hillside to attend Mass or other church functions.

Purcell Hall, located at the other end of the back terrace, was built as a music hall and also for plays and student entertainment in the days prior to the Civil War.

The main terrace buildings have remained largely unchanged since 1858. Although the three principal terrace buildings are known as DuBois, Bruté and McCaffrey Halls, they were not so named until 1908 – long after their namesakes were dead – during the Centennial celebration. In 2008, during the Bicentennial, a $25 million campaign was launched and completed to renovate these historic residence halls.

DuBois Hall was to be the founder’s statement of confidence in the future of the seminary and college. Originally constructed on the back terrace and finished in 1824, it burned on Pentecost Sunday of that year. It was quickly replaced several dozen feet further to the east. Its exterior has been largely unaltered since 1825. DuBois Hall served as the primary seminary building until construction of McSweeny Hall was finished circa 1909.

Bruté Hall occupies the central portion of the terrace buildings and was constructed in 1844. For over a hundred years the campus library was housed in Bruté Hall as was the study hall/commencement hall.

McCaffrey Hall, or at least the first two stories of it, dates from 1858. Construction was halted so that proper attention could be given to building a new college chapel. Parallel to McCaffrey Hall, and occupying a now-clear portion of the terrace, stood John DuBois' original White House, which remained on the Terrace until Easter Week of 1901.

Construction of a chapel of suitable proportions started in 1858. The proposed structure extended from the front door of today's chapel, downhill to Echo Field and to where Flynn Hall now stands. It was to be a brownstone and Gothic design. The Civil War intervened and construction was halted. Finances soured, due mainly to financially-ruined Southern families who could no longer pay their bills. The Mount faced bankruptcy by 1881. The grand chapel remained unfinished with only the walls standing. The brown stones were subsequently mined for usable pieces when Flynn Hall came to be constructed between 1901 and 1903.

On August 26, 1907, college president Fr. Denis Flynn officially broke ground for the new edifice, the Chapel of the Immaculate Conception. The cornerstone was laid in 1908 for the Centennial. On October 12, 1910, the chapel was solemnly opened. Later, renovations were made to bring the chapel into conformity with the norms of the Second Vatican Council. The new interior decor was unveiled on October 22, 1978. A $2.5 million restoration was completed in 2011 and re-dedicated on September 13, 2011. It is the most extensive work done in one hundred years.

South of the chapel is St. John's Well. The spring could possibly be one of those cleaned and landscaped by Fr. Simon Bruté in the early years of the 19th century. The priest had a penchant for discovering new springs and for carving out paths in the underbrush so that others could go contemplate them.

The stone work in the upper part of St. John's Well (named for John DuBois' patron), was completed in 1879. The Well, along with the Grotto, was part of President Watterson's campus beautification project. A spring emerges from the hill and empties into a small reservoir from where the water flows into a lower basin.

Until 1982, a concrete basin and multi-level cast iron fountain caught this run-off, however, the fountain was in a ruinous condition and could no longer hold water. The entire lower part of St. John's Well was remodeled. The earthen ramp was extended and a new basin constructed. The work was supervised by seminarian John Dobrosky, Diocese of Trenton. It had been his intention to dedicate the fountain to alumni, living and dead. At Seminary Alumni Reunion in 1982, the renovated St. John's Well was dedicated to honor the recently-martyred Mountaineer priest, Fr. Stanley Rother, Seminary Class of 1963.

During the Mount's first hundred years, the seminary was housed in what would now be considered the terrace buildings. DuBois Hall functioned for many years as the seminary. As late as 1889, a $17,000 campaign was launched to renovate the DuBois seminary. However, in 1905, the College Council voted to erect a separate building for the seminary. The cornerstone for the future McSweeny Hall was laid on October 8, 1906.

The building remained largely unchanged until 1947. Funds were raised to double the size of the chapel, install new pews, stained glass windows and an altar, as well as partition the fourth floor dormitories into individual rooms. Originally, a 36-room addition had been projected for the south wing, extending back toward the mountainside where Gallagher wing now stands. This idea was dropped.

Upon entering the ground floor of McSweeny Hall, one can see a portion of the extensive renovation work started in April of 1990. During this time, a sprinkler system and air conditioning were installed throughout the building and the water and heating systems were upgraded. Corridors and doors were painted in the residential quarters, ceilings were lowered and lighting was improved. While the wood paneling and pressed metal ceilings of the main floor were carefully preserved, the ground floor was completely redesigned to better serve the needs of seminarians and faculty. Along the wall of the ground floor corridor are the photographs of the many bishops who send men to Mount St. Mary’s Seminary, as well as a set of pictures portraying the Mount during the different seasons of the year.

Pictures of the various seminary rectors are featured on the main floor. The first of the pictures is Fr. Philip Gallagher, Seminary Class of 1897, who assumed the post of Rector in 1930. Prior to this time, and dating back to the DuBois era, the college President had always served as Rector. He would usually name another priest to oversee seminary affairs, but the posts of President and Rector were held by the same priest.

This situation changed in 1930 with the appointment of Fr. Gallagher. He would hold the position until 1941, when Fr. Edward D. O’Connell was named to the post. Fr. O’Connell died six months later, in February 1942 and Fr. Gallagher resumed his old duties for the remainder of the academic year.

The seminary has expanded to three new wings over the years with the construction of Gallagher Hall (1959-60), Mulcahy Hall (1975) and Keating Hall, dedicated in January 2000.

Over the years, many interesting fables have been recounted about the Mount history. Among these are that the Mount was forced to paint McSweeny ceilings white during the first World War to keep the government from confiscating the valuable copper as war materiel. In fact, the ceilings are of a galvanized metal and would be worth very little if removed.

Also, it has been told that there were slave pens under the seminary and tunnels under Echo Field used by the Underground Railroad. In pre-Civil War days, as the story goes, the Mount’s slaves were kept in these basement pens while, mysteriously enough, the same institution helped to ferry slaves into the north. This story ignores the fact that McSweeny Hall was built forty years after war’s end. There were no tunnels that have ever been located under Echo Field.

Mother Seton is supposed to have chastised Union and Confederate troops and told them to hold their battle somewhere other than Emmitsburg. This story, too, looks attractive until we remember that Mother Seton had been in her grave 42 years before the Battle of Gettysburg was fought.

Students will sometimes relate how the Mount acquired its naval gun, its old gym, and its beloved Echo Field. Attempts will be made to link all three to the Navy’s V-5 and V-12 officer training schools that operated at the Mount during World War II. Supposedly, Echo Field was used as a landing strip, and the gun used to defend the place against possible trouble from above. The old gym, furthermore, was purported to have been built to house the aircraft that landed in Echo Field.

In fact, Echo Field was never used as a landing strip. The naval gun, taken from the USS Detroit, was given to the Mount in 1946. The USS Detroit was berthed in Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941. The gym was intended to be erected in the western Pacific as an aircraft hangar. Since the assault on the Japanese home islands never materialized, the hangar was declared war surplus on the U.S. west coast. During the summer of 1949, it was shipped through the Panama Canal, travelled up the east coast to Baltimore, and trucked to Emmitsburg. It was hoped that the gym would be in place for the 1949/50 basketball season, but the summer sun made the metal plates on the roof too hot to handle. Opening of the gym was delayed until late 1950.

Back in the days of DuBois and Bruté, a road ran through campus, connecting Emmitsburg and Thurmont. Students crossed this road every day when they walked between Bradley Hall and the library. The local population preferred this road to the toll road that ran out of Emmitsburg, and frequent remonstrations by the college failed to stem the practice. Not until the late 1800's did the college succeed in closing the road to public traffic. Even today a barrier remains at the head of St. Anthony Road as a reminder that this is not a public thoroughfare.

Because the road ran through campus, Mount buildings never expanded eastward until a century after the college and seminary was founded. Memorial Gym was the first substantial college structure to be erected on the other side of the road. It was followed by Pangborn Hall (1955), Cogan Student Union Building (1960-61), and eventually Phillips Library, Sheridan Hall, Coad Hall, Knott Academic Center, apartment towers (Keelty, Rooney, and Horning), and the Knott Athletic, Recreation and Convocation complex. The Cogan Student Union Building was expanded and renamed the McGowan Center, which includes Patriot Hall to honor alumni and alumni family members who died on September 11, 2001.

With the widening of U.S. Route 15 in 1979-80, the campus was once more cut in half. Fortunately, a pedestrian walkway was installed under the highway to link the main campus with the athletic fields beyond the highway. From beyond the ARCC, one can still see the small country road that brought thousands of students to Mount St. Mary's over the years. The remains of College Lane still stretch out toward Old Frederick Road and beyond.

Among U.S. Catholic seminaries, the Mount is second in age only to St. Mary's in Baltimore (founded in 1791). Now a university, the Mount is the second oldest Catholic college in the United States. (Georgetown University was founded in 1789). It is impossible to distinguish the college from the seminary during the early years of the institution. In the early days, the official title of the institution was "Mount Saint Mary's Seminary". The word college only came into use in 1830 when a charter was obtained from the State of Maryland. The purpose of DuBois' school was, at least in theory, to train boys and young men to the point where they would be ready to enter the Sulpicians' major seminary in Baltimore. In the terminology of the times, this made the Mount a "Petit Seminaire".

In fact, from the Mount's founding, DuBois admitted some boys who showed little interest in an ecclesiastical career. This mixture would yield doctors and lawyers as well as priests. As students matured, they would be allowed to teach basic subjects to the younger boys. So, ultimately, theology students helped to teach college students, who in turn helped teach the high school students, who helped look after those students who were even younger. This system lasted into the twentieth century, when the seminary, college, and prep school became distinct educational entities.

Throughout the seminary's first century, what we would now call graduating classes, were not large at all. Three or four men would be the norm. Ten graduates would have been considered a great number indeed. At the start of the third millennium, the Mount seminary can count more than 2,600 priest alumni, more than half of whom are presently alive and involved in ministerial work. In addition, 51 alumni priests have been consecrated to the episcopacy, rightfully earning for the Mount the distinction as the "Cradle of Bishops."
SIGNIFICANT DATES IN THE HISTORY OF THE MOUNT

24 August 1764  The Mount’s founder, Fr. John DuBois, is born in Paris
22 September 1787  Fr. John DuBois is ordained a priest for the Archdiocese of Paris
July 1791  Fr. John DuBois emigrates to America and arrives in Norfolk, VA
1791 - 1806  Fr. DuBois works as a circuit-riding priest in northwestern Virginia and Maryland
15 August 1806  Fr. DuBois dedicates his new church on the hillside
October 1808  Construction begins on Mount St. Mary’s
June 1809  Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton arrives in Emmitsburg from Baltimore with her first sisters 1812  Fr. Simon Gabriel Bruté arrives at the Mount 1814  John Hickey is ordained as the Mount’s first priest
December 1825  DuBois Hall is opened
6 October 1826  Fr. DuBois leaves the Mount on his way to Baltimore and his episcopal consecration as third Bishop of New York
June 1842  Bishop DuBois visits his beloved Mount for the last time
20 December 1842  Bishop DuBois dies in New York and is succeeded by Mount Bishop John Hughes
Spring 1844  Construction is completed on Bruté Hall
January 1858  McCaffrey Hall opens
1-3 July 1863  Students and seminarians watch the Battle of Gettysburg at Indian Lookout
June 1875  John Cardinal McCloskey, America’s first cardinal, returns to the Mount 1884  The Baltimore Council recognizes the Mount as a major seminary
1900  Echo Field is laid out in the former college vegetable garden
October 1903  Flynn Hall Gymnasium opens
8 October 1906  Cornerstone is blessed for McSweeney Hall in the seminary
August 1907  Ground is broken for the Chapel of the Immaculate Conception
12 October 1910  Solemn Opening of the Chapel of the Immaculate Conception
May 1921  Babe Ruth visits the Mount campus
1930  Fr. Philip Gallagher becomes the first Rector of the seminary
Spring 1936  The Mount prep school closes
November 1949  Memorial Gymnasium, a World War II aircraft hangar, is dedicated <table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>May 1958</td>
<td>President Dwight D. Eisenhower delivers commencement address during 150th anniversary</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Summer 1959</td>
<td>Construction starts on Gallagher wing of the seminary</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 1961</td>
<td>Ground broken for Cogan Student Union Building</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fall 1964</td>
<td>Ground broken for Coad Science Building</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9 December 1975</td>
<td>Mother Teresa visits the Mount</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>October 1975</td>
<td>Mulcahy wing of the seminary and Knott Academic Center are dedicated</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>September 1987</td>
<td>Knott ARCC is dedicated</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1990 - 1991</td>
<td>Multi-million dollar renovations of McSweeney, Gallagher and Mulcahy Halls</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December 1995</td>
<td>Mother Teresa makes her second visit to the Mount</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 December 1999</td>
<td>Keating wing of the seminary is dedicated</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2002 - 2003</td>
<td>Expansion of Cogan Student Union Building into the McGowan Center</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 2004</td>
<td>Mount St. Mary’s College and Seminary becomes Mount St. Mary’s University</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6 October 2005</td>
<td>Bishops’ Garden dedicated</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 October 2006</td>
<td>Centennial Blessing of McSweeney Hall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>24 August 2007</td>
<td>Formal start of the Bicentennial Celebration</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12 October 2008</td>
<td>Closing Mass and end of the Bicentennial</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>December 2008</td>
<td>DuBois Hall restoration completed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>29 April 2010</td>
<td>Blessing of Year of Priests Garden</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 June 2010</td>
<td>Veterans Walkway Dedication</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12 October 2010</td>
<td>Centennial Opening of the Chapel of the Immaculate Conception</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13 September 2011</td>
<td>Chapel of the Immaculate Conception Re-dedication Mass</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 2013</td>
<td>Grotto Visitors’ Center Dedication Mass</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>23 September 2017</td>
<td>Father Stanley Rother, Seminary Class of 1963, beatified in Oklahoma City, OK</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
SCHEDULES and HOURS of OPERATION

DAILY LITURGICAL SCHEDULE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Day of Week</th>
<th>Mass IC Chapel</th>
<th>Morning Prayer</th>
<th>Eucharistic Adoration St. Bernard Chapel</th>
<th>Evening Prayer</th>
<th>Rosary N.P.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sunday</td>
<td>9.00 am</td>
<td>private</td>
<td>Holy Hour 4:00 - 5:00 pm (IC Chapel)</td>
<td>5:00 pm</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monday</td>
<td>7:00 am</td>
<td>with Mass</td>
<td>Simple Exposition 5:45 – 6:45 am (SBC)</td>
<td>5:00 pm</td>
<td>(SBC) 8:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tuesday</td>
<td>7:00 am</td>
<td>with Mass</td>
<td>Simple Exposition 5:45 – 6:45 am (SBC)</td>
<td>5:00 pm</td>
<td>(SBC) 8:00 pm OLPH Devotion</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wednesday</td>
<td>7:00 am</td>
<td>with Mass</td>
<td>Simple Exposition 5:45 – 6:45 am (SBC)</td>
<td>5:00 pm</td>
<td>(SBC) 8:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thursday</td>
<td>7:00 am</td>
<td>Spanish private</td>
<td>Simple Exposition 5:45 – 6:45 am (SBC)</td>
<td>4:30 pm</td>
<td>private</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>7:00 – 8:00 pm = Praise &amp; Worship</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>8:00 – 11:00 pm = Continued adoration</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Friday</td>
<td>7:00 am</td>
<td>with Mass</td>
<td>Simple Exposition 5:45 – 6:45 am (SBC)</td>
<td>5:00 pm</td>
<td>private</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Stations of the Cross 3:00 pm (IC Chapel)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holy Hour 4:00 - 5:00 pm (SBC)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Saturday</td>
<td>7:30 am, 11:00 (SBC)</td>
<td>Votive Mass of the BVM</td>
<td>Holy Hour 6:15 – 7:15 am (SBC)</td>
<td>private</td>
<td>private</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CONFERENCES SCHEDULE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Conference</th>
<th>Day of Week</th>
<th>Time of Day</th>
<th>Place</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rector</td>
<td>Alternate Thursdays with Evening Prayer</td>
<td>4:30 pm = Conference Followed by Evening Prayer</td>
<td>St. Bernard’s Chapel</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spiritual Director</td>
<td>Alternate Thursdays with Evening Prayer</td>
<td>4:30 pm = Conference Followed by Evening Prayer</td>
<td>St. Bernard’s Chapel</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

WEEKDAY SOLEMNITY SCHEDULE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time of Day</th>
<th>Activity</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>7:15 am</td>
<td>Morning Prayer (IC Chapel)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morning Hours</td>
<td>Regular Class Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4:15 pm</td>
<td>Mass (Evening Prayer in private) (IC Chapel)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7:00 -- 11:00 pm (Thursday Feast Days)</td>
<td>Adoration (St. Bernard’s Chapel)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CAMPUS-WIDE HOURS OF OPERATION

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Campus or Local Service</th>
<th>Hours of Operation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bank (PNC)</td>
<td>(Drive-In &amp; Lobby)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8 E. Main Street, Emmitsburg, MD</td>
<td>Monday – Thursday 9:00 am – 5:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phone: 301-447-6134 or 447-6135</td>
<td>Friday 9:00 am – 6:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Website: www.PNC.com</td>
<td>Saturday 9:00 am – 1:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Campus Bookstore</td>
<td>Business Hours (when school is in session)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McGowan Center, off main lobby</td>
<td>Monday -- Thursday 8:30 am – 5:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phone: 301-447-5271 (campus ext. 5271)</td>
<td>Friday 8:30 am – 4:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Website: http://msmc.bncollege.com/webapp/wcs/stores/servlet/BNCBHomePage?storeId=45056&amp;catalogId=10001</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Campus Ministry</td>
<td>General Office Hours:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cogan Hall, McGowan Center</td>
<td>Monday -- Friday 8:30 am – 5:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phone: 301-447-5223 (campus ext. 5223)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Website: http://www.msmary.edu/student-life/campus-ministry/</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dining Services</td>
<td>General Hours for the Food Court</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patriot Hall, McGowan Center</td>
<td>Monday – Friday 7 am - 4 pm; 5-8 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phone: 301-447-5276 (campus ext. 5276)</td>
<td>Saturday / Sunday 9 am - 4 pm; 5-8 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lunch Menu offered:</td>
<td>Mon-Fri: 10:45 am – 4:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Food Court closed every day from</td>
<td>4:00 pm – 5:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dinner: every day</td>
<td>5:00 pm – 8:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brunch: Saturday-Sunday</td>
<td>11:00 am – 2:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mount Café Hours</td>
<td>(campus ext. 4272)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monday – Thursday</td>
<td>8:00 am – Midnite</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Friday</td>
<td>8:00 am – 2:00 am</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Saturday</td>
<td>8:00 pm – 2:00 am</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sunday</td>
<td>8:00 pm – Midnite</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grotto of Lourdes</td>
<td>Grotto hours:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phone: 301-447-5318 (campus ext. 5318)</td>
<td>(7 days a week year-round) 8:30 am – 5:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Bernadette’s Shoppe:</td>
<td>Confessions: Saturday/Sunday 11:00 am</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phone: 301-447-5444 (campus ext. 5444)</td>
<td>Holy Mass: Saturday/Sunday 12:00 Noon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spanish Mass:</td>
<td>Sunday 2:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miller Visitor Center</td>
<td>Daily 9:00 am – 4:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Information Technology Support Center (ITSC)</td>
<td>Office Hours: Monday – Thursday 7:00 am – 10:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Knott Academic Center, AC 108</td>
<td>Friday 7:00 am – 5:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phone: 301-447-5805 (campus ext. 5805)</td>
<td>Saturday CLOSED</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sunday</td>
<td>6:00 pm – 9:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Learning Services</td>
<td>Office hours: Monday-Friday 9:00 am – 5:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1st Floor, Borders Learning Center</td>
<td>Appointments: Monday-Friday 10:00 am – 4:00 pm</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Phillips Library
Phone: 301-447-5244 (campus ext. 5244)
Library Hours: (subject to change)
Monday-Thursday  7:30 am – 2:00 am
Friday 7:30 am – 10:00 pm
Saturday 9:00 am – 9:00 pm
Sunday 10:00 am – 2:00 am

Note: Mount ID cards are required to check out books. Check out Library home page for break/holiday hours
Last two weeks of Academic Year: open 24 hours until Friday, 4:00 pm
Website: http://www.msmary.edu/library/index.html

Health Services
Cogan Hall, McGowan Center
Phone: 301-447-5288 (campus ext. 5288)
General Office Hours:
Monday – Friday 8:30 am – 5:00 pm
Clinic Hours: (subject to change)
Monday / Wednesday 3:30 – 6:00 pm
Tuesday / Thursday / Friday 9:00 – 11:30 am

Post Office
Cogan Hall, McGowan Center
Phone: 301-447-5339
Window Hours:
Monday – Friday 12:00 Noon – 4:00 pm
(excluding University closures)
Outgoing mail must be properly prepared and presented in campus Post Office no later than 2:45 pm Monday – Friday.

Writing Center
Phillips Library, Honors HQ
Phone: 301-447-5367 (campus ext. 5367)
Scheduled Appointments:
Monday – Friday 2:00 – 5:00 pm
Walk-in Appointments:
Sunday – Thursday 7:00 – 10:00 pm

Other Frequently Called Campus Numbers
- Accounting and Finance 320 Bradley x5353
- ITSC Info. Tech. Support Ctr. email: itsc@msmary.edu x5805
- Receiving (at Phys. Plant) x4349 or x5425
- Seminary Switchboard 301-447-5295
- Seminary Fax 301-447-5636

For more information on any of the above, check available Mount websites or call the department numbers listed.

KNOTT ARCC (Athletic, Recreation, and Convocation Center)
East Campus (other side of Rte 15) (Hours subject to change)
For Academic Year Hours of Operation for Dillon Field House, Issue and Control, Pool, and PNC Fitness Center, check the ARCC website: http://www.msmary.edu/student-life/recreation/arcc/

For any questions concerning ARCC services, call Issue and Control (campus ext. 5722) or Dorothy Shaffer – Administrative Assistant (campus ext. 5290)